

Martial Law Declared

FOR THE NEW CHARTER TROUBLE IN SPAIN

Active Campaign Work Soon to be Started

The charter committee of sixty or a fair representation thereof met at the board of trade rooms last night and discussed a plan of campaign to be carried out between now and election day. The campaign contemplates, first, the dissemination of charter literature. It is intended to send a condensed copy of the charter to every voter in Lowell, and to hold a number of mass meetings together with ward meetings at which speakers will explain the charter to those who may attend. Arrangements will also be made for headquarters at which voters may call to get information in regard to the charter and its various provisions.

The committee on finance was instructed to solicit funds to carry out the campaign plan as mapped out. The publicity committee was instructed to take steps to have the provisions of the charter distributed in the French language. A number of speakers expressed the opinion that the sentiment is rapidly changing in favor of the charter and in spite of the opposition that is quietly at work, the charter will be adopted by a large majority vote at the state election. William H. Wilson presided. Mr. Charles A. Littlefield reported what he and a number of his friends were doing for the charter, but he said it would require active work throughout the city to ensure its adoption.

CASE OF EBEN W. SEARS

Will be Heard in Superior Court
Tomorrow Afternoon

Eben W. Sears, Jr., former police officer of Lynn and at one time a candidate for mayor in that city, who was recently indicted by the Middlesex county grand jury for alleged extortion, tween Ferguson and Sears to warrant the arrest of the latter. Sears was arraigned in police court, probable cause found and he was held for the grand jury and subsequently the grand jury indicted him.

ALDERMAN BARRETT

Along Railroad Tracks

Alderman Andrew E. Barrett is strongly opposed to the sewer proposition for the American Hide and Leather company by which a sewer would be constructed along the railroad track from the bridge crossing the Concord at Lawrence street to the company's works and thence across the Concord river. Alderman Barrett went over the ground yesterday with Supt. Putnam and sees no need of the sewer if the company carries out its promise to build a sewer for its own use across the Concord to connect with the Lawrence street sewer.

A Revolutionary Plot is Suspected by the Government

MADRID, Sept. 19.—Martial law has been declared in Spain.

This followed reports of violence in connection with the workingmen's strikes which have been called in various cities to further, the government says, a revolutionary plot.

The most serious situation was at Valencia, where a general strike was declared yesterday. The city was at once placed under martial law and through the day the authorities have matters pretty well in hand until after dark when the disturbers vented their fury in an attack upon the officials in the adjacent township of Cullera.

The rioters murdered a judge and wounded other officers of the court which had been engaged in the trial of the day. The mob was finally dispersed by guards from the custom-house.

Strikes have also been declared at Bilbao, Saragossa, Cadiz, Huelva, Seville, Gijon and other cities. In some of these places the movement had been but partially successful.

Premier Canalejas announces that the government has in its possession the details of a revolutionary plot uncovered at Valencia and Barcelona. Part of this plot was to assassinate General Weyler, captain-general of Catalonia.

The government claims to know the names of all the conspirators and the sources of their supplies. It is claimed that the movement at Barcelona has failed of importance.

The last previous time when martial law was declared in Spain was in the summer of 1909, when the efforts of the government to put down the revolutionary outbreak culminated in the execution of Prof. Ferrer, a distinguished educationalist of anti-monarchist principles. The trouble, which began at Barcelona, was caused by popular opposition to the Spanish campaign against the Rifas in Morocco.

U. S. GRAND JURY

Indicted Five Officials of the United Shoe Machinery Co.

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—Two indictments were returned today by the federal grand jury against five officials and a large stockholder of the United Shoe Machinery Co. charging conspiracy and restraint of trade under the Sherman act. The officials indicted are Sidney Winslow of Orleans, president, Edward P. Hurd of Newton, vice-president, assistant treasurer, director, and member of the executive committee; George W. Brown, Newton, vice-president, member of the executive committee and director; William Barbour of New York, vice-president, member of the executive committee and director; Elmer P. Howe of Boston, counsel, member of the executive committee and director; and James J. Storow, the largest stockholder and formerly a member of the executive committee and director. Mr. Storow resigned from the board on December 5th, 1903, a month previous to the election in which he was a candidate for mayor.

The penalty for the alleged crime is a fine of $5,000 or imprisonment for one year or both.

The six defendants did not appear today but will be summoned and will probably plead in the next ten days.

The grand jury returned two indictments, the second one in three counts. According to the indictment of the department of justice at Washington, who has been in charge of the case and who was present today, the indictment charges that the six defendants have been working through the instrumentality of the United Shoe Machinery Co. in a way to make them criminally liable under the Sherman act.

The second indictment alleged that the carrying on of the business under the merger of the three old shoe machinery manufacturing companies which took place in February, 1899, was engaging in a combination in restraint of trade, that it was a conspiracy in restraint of the trade of shoe manufacturers and that the whole transaction was a monopolization of interstate trade.

Commissioner Gregg supplemented a synopsis of the indictment which are embodied in more than 100 typewritten pages with a statement that the prosecution by the government had nothing to do with the action of the Massachusetts legislature last spring.

The Court Proceedings

The court proceedings today occupied less than five minutes. The grand jury handed in the formal documents in the case and was then excused. None of the officials of the company was in court at the time but they will appear later and plead to the indictment.

For an hour previous to the coming in of the court the grand jury held an extra sitting to hear two more witnesses, and then filed into the circuit court room before Judge Dodge.

There were present United States District Attorney French and William Gregg and Oliver Pagan, representing the department of justice at Washington.

As soon as the indictment had been handed to the court Mr. Gregg gave out the following summary of the document:

The United States circuit court grand jury under the supervision of United States Attorney Asa P. French, assisted by William S. Gregg, and Oliver E. Pagan, representatives of the department of justice, Washington, today presented to the court two indictments, each being against Sidney W. Winslow, Edward P. Hurd, George W. Brown, James J. Storow, William Barbour and Elmer Howe, all prominent in the management of the so-called "shoe machinery trust" centering in Boston.

In these indictments the district attorney has varied the charge in different parts to meet possible variations in the evidence at the trial and possible variations in the views of the trial court and higher courts as to the applicability of the different provisions of the Sherman law to the facts stated.

Both indictments charge that the six defendants have been working through the instrumentality of the United Shoe Machinery Co., which they have controlled in a way to make them criminally liable under the Sherman act.

The indictments first describe the shoe manufacturing business and the shoe machinery manufacturing business as they existed prior to and on Feb. 7, 1899, and then set forth all the parts pertaining to the merger on that day of the three old shoe machinery manufacturing corporations, the Consolidated and McKay Lasting Machinery Co., formerly dominated by defendants Winslow, Hurd and Brown, the McKay Shoe Machinery Co., formerly dominated by the defendant, James J. Storow, and the Goodyear Shoe Machinery Co., formerly dominated by defendants Barbour and Howe, under the new name of the United Shoe Machinery Co. and the subsequent carrying on of the business under that name. Then is told the story of the oppressive uniform lease provisions, requiring shoe manufacturers to patronize the United Shoe Machinery removed from their factories.

It is further charged that this process drove other shoe machinery manufacturers out of business and effectually put all shoe manufacturers at the mercy of the United company.

One indictment, making no mention of patents, charges that this whole transaction was a monopoly of the trade in shoe machinery and a conspiracy to monopolize the same.

The other indictment charges in one count that this carrying on of the business under the merger was "engaging in a combination in restraint of the trade of the merged companies insofar as their patent monopolies were extended under the merger and, in another count, that it was a conspiracy to restrain the trade of the shoe manufacturers, and, in still another count, that the whole transaction was a monopoly of the trade in shoe machinery and a conspiracy to monopolize the same."

other count, that the whole transaction was a monopolization of interstate trade and commerce in shoe machinery in that the monopolies permitted to the three old companies under their patents were extended far beyond their lawful bounds. Appropriate allegations are made to show the pernicious effect of all this upon the public.

Complaints Made

Complaints made to the department of justice against the United Shoe Machinery company—the so-called "Shoe Machinery Trust"—brought the attention of the government to the case.

It is understood that the corporation was charged with being a monopoly in restraint of trade. Infringements upon the patent laws were also alleged. It is said.

Prompt action on the part of the government followed the receipt of the complaints. In April a few weeks after they had been filed—William S. Gregg, special assistant to United States Attorney General Wickensham began a government probe. Special Agents George E. Kelleher and James L. Bruff assisted Mr. Gregg in his search for evidence.

The result of the work of these government officials was that on July 26 of this year Attorney General Wickensham ordered United States Attorney Asa P. French and Mr. Gregg to present evidence obtained to the federal grand jury that reported today.

The United Shoe Machinery company came into being in 1893. It was founded by Sidney N. Winslow, its present head, who learned shoe making in a small factory in Salem, Mass., owned by his father, who to secure advantages of combining allied interests formed a corporation embracing the three leading companies then making shoe machinery. Consolidated Sewing Machine company, Consolidated and McKay Lasting company and McKay Shoe Machinery company—were consolidated. The company was reorganized in 1905 and subsequently auxiliary companies sprang up in Canada, Great Britain, France and Germany. That same year the manufacture of all its shoe making machinery was concentrated in one large factory at Beverly, Mass. The United States Shoe Machinery company now employs 4000 hands, who turn out 20,000 shoe machines yearly.

The Royalty System

The royalty system, by which the corporation disposes of its machines, allows a shoe manufacturer to lease machines, paying rentals in royalties on every shoe made. A manufacturer may buy machinery if he gets it from the United Shoe Machinery company, providing he buys his "findings"—such as wire nails and eyelets—from the company.

It is claimed that the royalty paid the United company is about 2-3 cents per pair of shoes.

Last year the company brought suit against Thomas G. Plant, a Boston shoe manufacturer, charging patent in-

MAYOR J. F. MEEHAN

Sunday Picture Shows

At the First Congregational church Sunday night the pastor, Rev. B. A. Willmott, attacked Mayor John F. Meehan for licensing Sunday theatres. He said that the mayor had licensed all corners practically for permits to run theatrical performances on Sunday and the mayor today gave out the following statement in reply to Mr. Willmott:

"In reply to the remarks of the Rev. Mr. Willmott I would say that the sacred concert proposition is under the direct supervision of the mayor, and as mayor of Lowell I am perfectly satisfied with existing conditions, because I believe I am meeting the popular demand."

"Last Sunday night I visited four of the sacred concerts and I feel certain if Mr. Willmott had seen the character of the audiences at the different places he would change his views.

"While I feel that Mr. Willmott is entitled to his opinion in regard to this proposition, I cannot see the logic of his attacking me simply because I disagree with him.

"Every picture displayed at a sacred concert must be endorsed by the chief of the state police, and I can assure Mr. Willmott that any picture receiving his approval will not offend even the most delicate mind.

"The state of Massachusetts places its sanction upon sacred concerts under proper regulation, and said concerts are in operation in Boston and other Massachusetts cities."

WAS DAMAGED BY FIRE

Tewksbury Today

A telephone message from just beyond the line in Tewksbury at 11:30 o'clock this morning summoned the Palmer street chemical, Hose 7, Engine 1, and the Lawrence street apparatus to a stubborn fire in a cottage house at 840 Rovers street and the firemen had a very hard fight for more than half an hour before the blaze was under control. The fire burned briskly and the entire upper portion of the house was destroyed. Assistant Chief

Norton, who was in charge, said he did not know just what the exact cause of the fire was, but it would appear that it started from a defective chimney or flue. The house was occupied by a Greek family and the man of the house says that he was in the kitchen at 11:15 o'clock, when suddenly the flames shot up around the chimney and fireplace. The entire building is badly damaged and the lower portion, including the sleeping rooms, is practically a total loss.

HIS SKULL FRACTURED

a Serious Accident

Clarence Sprague, aged 62 years, a native and a life-long resident of North Chelmsford, met with a very painful and serious accident this morning on the Boston and Maine railroad tracks at St. John's hospital and he now lies in a very dangerous condition, suffering from a fracture at the base of the skull.

Just how the accident occurred, the real cause of the same seems to be clouded in mystery as no one could be found who could give the details of the unfortunate occurrence. The man was found on the tracks this morning at fringements. Plant sold out his shoe machinery plant and patent rights to the United company after a bitter fight.

6:20 o'clock by some workmen, and later taken to St. John's hospital. At the hospital the authorities say that they know nothing of the particulars of the history of the accident, and that the men who accompanied the victim to the hospital could not give practically any information other than that he was found on the tracks, and that his name is Clarence Sprague, and that he was an old resident of North Chelmsford. The depot master at North Chelmsford said that he heard of the accident but that so far as he knew no report had been made and none of the details had been reported at his office.

A few months later an independent company—the Brunswick shoe machinery company of Lynn, Mass.—was also purchased by the United company.

The next important happening in the life of the United Shoe Machinery company was the unexpected government probe.

The special grand jury was called Aug. 1st. Government agents stated before serving subpoenas that the question of leases would be a vital question for the grand jury to consider. The jury made an extensive investigation, sitting four and five days a week during the entire month of August.

Government's Inquiries

Announcement of the climax in the government's inquiries was coincident with a proposal for a state investigation by Gov. Eugene N. Foss, a democrat, who in a message to the legislature, which was then in session, pointed out the need of a statute to reach the alleged monopoly. The legislative committee on rules said that an anti-monopoly bill already enacted covered the situation.

Governor Foss then turning to Attorney General Swift demanded an immediate investigation of the methods of the Massachusetts Shoe Machinery industry.

Attorney General Swift then requested the governor for evidence. The governor replied it was not the duty of his office to supply evidence. Meanwhile the attorney general consulted with several shoe men, but Governor

Foss again urged the legislature to take action, accompanying a second message with a letter from the president of a large Massachusetts shoe manufacturing company relating conditions in the industry.

A state hearing on the matter followed and Representative Eggleston, the big shoe centurion at Lynn introduced a bill in the house of representatives providing for a recess committee to begin a probe in Massachusetts.

At the hearing Louis D. Brandeis of Boston, who has assisted the government in some of its trust cases, presented a bill, drawn up, he said, for Attorney General Swift, which provided for drastic regulations, prohibition of royalties and leases, with prison penalties for the violation.

President Charles H. Jones, president of a large shoe company, in reading the bill at the hearing declared that if it were enacted into law it would mean the saving of five cents on each pair of shoes manufactured.

At the hearing Charles S. Cheate, an attorney, declared that the United Shoe Machinery company had been doing everything in its power to aid the government agents in their investigation.

The order providing for the recess investigation was killed in the house on the ground that the government was already conducting an investigation against the Shoe Machinery company.

THE OPERA HOUSE

"The Climax" comes to the Opera House tonight, and is said to be the prettiest, cleanest and most natural play ever written.

This play is unique in several respects. It has only three acts and four characters; the scene is the same throughout; and the interest depends wholly upon the story of the play itself. Susie Witke still plays the pretty singer, Adeline von Hagen. Her voice is sweet and flexible, and her manner that of the bright, unaffected, affectionate girl, whose musical proficiency in no way unites her for the humbler duties of home life. While passing through the period of affliction that comes suddenly upon her, she proves her ability to rise above the commonplace, and her grief and despair are as intensely real as is her reaction of joy.

Theodore Kewald makes an ideal Luigi Fontani, the music teacher and adopted uncle of the heroine, and is by turns critical, impatient, sympathetic and altogether lovable, while Walter Dale as Pietro Fontani is masterful, his fine playing and his excellent portrayal of the character of the impulsive, loving boy, whose ambition to write the "Song of the Sea" for Adeline's singing is at last gratified, and Frank Linden gives a finished impersonation of Dr. Raymond.

The play abounds in touches of humor as well as pathos and the spectator almost feels that he is looking on scenes drawn from real life. "The Climax" will be the attraction at the Opera House tonight.—Adv.

HIS HONOR THE MAYOR

"His Honor the Mayor," a musical comedy in two acts, comes to the Opera House Thursday night, Sept. 21, with the funny comedian Harry Kelly as Deacon Flood, and he will prove a familiar visitor. This comedian has a fashion all his own and can make one laugh with his legs and feet when in

"THE NEST EGG"

Two women that had cause to congratulate themselves overnight, recently, were Zaida Sears and Anna Caldwell, star and author respectively, of "The Nest Egg" which had its premiere at the Bijou in New York, on November 21, and made an instantaneous hit, so much so, in fact, that the critics were unanimous and unstinted in their praise and hailed Miss Caldwell as the coming American playwright.

Miss Caldwell has chosen a novelty in theme and story and one that is right up to the minute as it satirizes the pure food law and incidentally gives us an insight into the methods of pure food law violators, as well as the moving picture habit, which she treats in an amusing way, and weaves into a pretty story with flirty Gandy as the central figure. This character is that of a village dressmaker in a rural locality not far from Albany, N. Y. She is a sort of a good natured gossip, who gets her ideas of human nature somewhat warped by wrong impressions and incidentally, twists the sentiment of the village swains until they assume entirely opposite views of their affections. She is also a Malaprop with matrimonial intentions and she sends a message out into the world written on an egg that goes into cold storage for three years, and lands a pure food canner who wants her as a witness in a pure food suit, but she eventually marries him and her aim is accomplished. "The Nest Egg" comes to the Opera House next Monday, Sept. 25, direct from the Park theatre, Boston.—Adv.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

The dramatization of "The Barrier," the thrilling novel on life in the frozen north from the pen of Rex Beach, who is considered to be one of the greatest novelists of the present time, was given two excellent performances to fair sized audiences yesterday afternoon and evening at this cosy little playhouse. To stage "The Barrier" is not an easy task, requiring as it does dramatic skill of the highest type. In this respect the company is fortunate in having members with the ability to portray the most intense dramatic situation. The scenery of the place is the most magnificent seen in the theatre for some time and is testimony of the talent of the scenic artist of the company, Louis Angevine.

The cast of characters is:

John Burrell, Lt. S. A., Mr. Charles Stevens
John Gale, Mr. Charles Stevens
Dan Stark, Mr. Wm. C. Walsh
No Creek Lee, Mr. Chas. Crymble
Poleon Doret, Mr. Donald Meek
Runyon, Mr. Dan McCabo
Corporal Thomas, Mr. Joseph Guthrie
Necia, Miss Marie Horton
Alma, Miss Elizabeth Hunt

The story of "The Barrier" is laid in the valley of the Yukon river and has its beginning shortly before the first successful strike of gold is made. With the discovery of the valuable ore, there occurs a flood of migration to the valley, in which are noted undesirable, who take up their abode in the little hamlet of Flumbeau, which from a quiet little village becomes a thriving town of industry. The government, in order to prevent any lawlessness in the village, sends a detachment of regulars under the command of Lieut. Burrell, which takes possession of the town, after lodging his men in the barracks, Lieut. Burrell leaves for the purpose of getting an idea of the population of the town and its surroundings. While on this tour of inspection he chances into a store which is the general distributing station for the prospectors. In the store when he enters is a young woman supposed to be a half-breed and the daughter of the owner, John Gale, and his squaw wife, Alma. Burrell is astounded at the beauty and simplicity of the young woman and immediately enters into an impulsive conversation with her, in which she reveals to him the exact condition of affairs about the village and at the same time shows him that in spite of his short stay in Flumbeau she has learned something about his family and without much hesitation tells him of certain things of his home which really surprises him.

At a meeting of the general company which has been formed for the purpose of promoting the strike made by No Creek Lee, Dan Stark, known as a desperate character in Flumbeau, who is willing to stoop to the lowest level for a personal gain, attempts to count out the claim held by Necia, on the plea that the girl is under legal age and cannot lawfully hold it. In this move he is exposed by Lieut. Burrell, who steps into the meeting and takes the girl's claim into his own keeping until such a time as she has become old enough to control it. The drama in its entirety is bound to please every one who witnesses it. From the meeting of the young couple in the first act to the dying confession of Necia's father, Dan Stark in the last act, the piece is replete with dramatic situations, the dying scene in the barracks, when Stark who is in danger of death explains the birth and abduction of "Necia," who when she was his child bore the Christian name of Mary. Upon learning the truth of her birth of a

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

A first class bill is being produced at the Merrimack square theatre this week, and the way the actors were greeted at both performances yesterday afternoon and evening, proved that the performance struck the spot with the large attendance.

The bill is headed by Miss Mabel McKinley, the singer and author, who is well known on the local stage having on several occasions performed in this city. Her songs are right up-to-date and her singing is grand. She will appear at both performances, afternoon and evening all week.

Another very interesting number on the bill is the one-act play entitled "For Him," presented by Our Stock Company. The play is one of the very best short-story creations to be found in white mother Necia is overjoyed, and Lieut. Burrell, who during all this time has been trying to persuade his people into consenting to his marriage, is elated to think that the barrier which has existed between the two has been broken.

Donald Meek in the excellent role of "Poleon Doret," a staunch friend of Necia's, who is also one of her admirers, was seen to advantage. In spite of the limitations of the part which was cast in, the genial Donald surprised his most intimate friends with the capable way in which he handled Poleon's part. Although there is considerable comedy entwined into this character through the broken English of the French-Canadian, it is also well supplied with pathos and dramatic moments which drain upon the ability of an actor. Miss Marie Horton, in the female lead of Necia, was exceptionally good and her efforts were continually applauded. In the scene of the third act when she denounces John Gale, her foster father, for keeping her ignorant of the true facts of her birth, she showed a remarkable grasp of dramatic ability. Rockcliffe Fellows, as Lieut. Burrell, the young officer, acted the role in a way which would satisfy the most exacting critic and gave a good idea of what he is capable of doing. The fellows' conception of every character he plays has been excellent, but this drama seems to give him the surroundings for the proper exposition of his ability. The other members of the company were all well cast and took full advantage of the chance for dramatic work in the respective characters they assumed.

The musical program which has also become a feature of this house, was well rendered under the direction of Fred Arthur Martel. A beautiful descriptive overture, "The Battle of San Juan Hill" was given between the second and third acts.

Tickets for the week's performance are now on sale and may be ordered in advance by telephone 511.

KEITH'S LOWELL THEATRE

If you want to see acting of the highest type just book yourself for Keith's this week. To two audiences of capacity type yesterday afternoon and evening an excellent bill was given. Rose Coghlan, whose reputation as an actress it is unnecessary to go into details about, is heading the bill with a one-act playlet entitled "Between Matinee and Night." Rose Coghlan's name is one to conjure with when speaking about the leading female theatrical stars of this country. "Between Matinee and Night" is a clever act, penned by the actress herself, and giving herself and her assistants considerable opportunities for excellent acting. The story is about an actress who has become the wife of a man enjoying a high social position, vaudeville of the present day and the finest actress in the city in which it is given by Kendall Weston, Miss Florence Phelps and Mr. Reese, adds greatly to the general enjoyment which it provides. The story it relates is intensely interesting, the kind that grips from the very start and continues to hold the undivided attention until the close.

Neilson and Millard, old-time favorites in Lowell, present their latest fun-maker entitled "The Secret," and which creates merriment from the curtain rise to its fall.

Ed Winchester gives a novel and highly entertaining act that opens with an exhibition of drumming, introduces entertaining conversation and songs, and closes with a series of humorous stunts of the sylphs that are thoroughly enjoyed. The photo plays are again among the best to be shown. "Anniversary Night," Wednesday.

With parents who abhor the sight of a thespian. The usual complications which followed in the wake of such domestic troubles lead to the court, where a divorce is granted to the husband. The wife, heartbroken over the unfortunate ending of her marital life, has her feelings aggravated with the taking of her only child, a daughter, from her by the husband. She decides to return to the stage and fortunately procures an excellent part in a drama which affords her a chance to display her talent. Her rise in the theatrical world is a rapid one and she becomes the acknowledged star of one of the best theatrical companies.

While on the road her company plays in a city close to the place where she had met her husband. Although the company is booked for a short stay at the theatre, the impression made by the star on the people of the city is so profound that the owner of the company prolongs the stay several weeks. At every performance the actress' attention is attracted by the continuous handclapping of a young woman in her teens who occupies a box. The occupant of the box forms an acquaintance with the actress and then invites her to her home for the evening. As the two become more intimate the actress inquires about the young woman's relatives and after hearing from the girl how she had been brought up by her grandmother and the position which her father holds, the terrible realization that it is her own daughter she is talking to comes to the actress. A photograph in a pocket which she has, proves the identification a true one, and she is just about to make known all to the girl when her former husband enters the room and after asking his daughter to leave, requests her not to tell the young girl as it would ruin her future. Although the motherly instinct enters her bosom and she feels like embracing her daughter, she accedes to the request of her husband. The young girl returns with the avowed intention of going on the stage but the idea is discouraged by the actress, who acquaints her with the sacrifices she has to make for the obtaining of a career behind the footlights in such a way that the girl's mind is diverted from the theatre and she returns home in the act assisting her to her daughter.

Miss Rosalind Coghlan, who has had a successful career on the stage, who assumes the role of the stage struck girl, Lynn Pratt, as the father of the girl was excellent, and Catherine Clayton as "Martha" the maid pleased.

Leo Carillo, that clever monologist is on the bill and kept the audience continually entertained with laughter with his stories of the San Francisco Chinese and interpreters and other stories in Chinese dialect. Carillo, in a class by himself as a monologist, and his knowledge of the Chinese language which he speaks fluently assists him in his stories.

"The Teeman" given by Thomas Moir and company is a most pleasing act on our warm weather front and shows how things done with no harmful intent are sometimes construed and understood in a different way from that intended. Mr. Moir plays the part of the innocent dealer in frozen water. He is by a capable company.

Hilda Hawthorne, an exponent of ventriloquism is exceedingly clever in the throwing of her voice and her modeling which is one of the hits of her act. She has perfect control of her voice at all times and her act is really remarkable.

The Great Santell, in the part of a gladiator, was exceptionally good and the agility with which he placed heavy dumb bells and weights high above his head astounded the audience. Santell is an example of perfect manhood. In addition to his gift of lifting he also has a way of injecting comical movements in his work which is different from any seen in this city.

Ada Boulden and Jack Cutler, two talented entertainers, have a bundle of savings and songs which are bound to meet with the approval of local audiences. Miss Boulden impersonates a Southern mammy in dancing and singing that one would think that she must have been reared in southern atmosphere. It is so realistic. The pair are agile performers on musical instruments.

Kitt Karson, of sharp shooting fame mystified with his bulletproof vest. He is a shooter of the first rank and it does not cease him whether he is standing on his feet or head in making a target. His shooting from a swinging tight wire gives an idea of his steady nerve and ability as a marksman. Moving pictures close the bill. Tickets for performances of the week may be ordered by phoning 28.

ates of the institution. He was ordained to the priesthood at St. John's seminary, Brighton, in 1892, and for the following 18 years, he was curate at St. Augustine's church, South Boston, under Mgr. O'Callaghan.

In December, 1910, Fr. Harkins was appointed pastor of the new St. Margaret's parish and under his able direction the new parish progressed rapidly, and within a few months at which time the church will be completed, it will be with pride that the parishioners will set their eyes on their new temple.

The work on the new church is rapidly advancing. Men are now employed in finishing the interior the outside plastering having been completed. Lowell people are cordially invited to inspect the church at any time.

LOOK BEHIND BABY'S EARS

Too often mothers forget that sores may form behind baby's ears because the perspiration is confined and irritates the tender skin while the head is resting on the pillow. Comfort Powder will prevent chafing and irritation entirely and also cures up these sores in a few days. It is a wonderful healing powder to keep baby's skin in perfect health. Annette Kinsman, trained nurse, Theford, N. Y., says "Redness and chafing disappear as if by magic on the use of Comfort Powder." E. S. Sykes' name is on the genuine.

Rev. John J. Harkins was born in 1877 from the union of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Harkins of Newton, Mass. He attended Holy Cross college and graduated therefrom in 1897 with the honor of being one of the youngest grad-

THEATRE VOYONS

Today the Theatre Voyons is featuring "The Declaration of Independence," number four of the Edison historical series and it is a picture that everyone should see for everyone can appreciate the work of the framers of the Declaration of Independence much better after seeing it. Historical personages who figured in the signing of this immortal document are portrayed in this picture with remarkable fidelity and in no way does it fail to keep up the historical accuracy that has made the Edison historical productions most attractive. There are other features on the bill notable "On the War Path," the story of a little boy's adventures during a border raid in the west.—Adv.

CHAMP CLARK

TELLS DIFFERENCE BETWEEN SPEECH AND A LECTURE

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 19.—Cham Clark, speaker of the house of representatives, before he left for Lawrenceburg, Ky., his birthplace, where he will talk some straight old democratic doctrine tomorrow, told the difference between a speech and a lecture.

"The difference between a speech and a lecture is that you get paid for the lecture,"

The speaker said something about wishing there were more lectures and fewer speeches.

TO COST $174,000,000 To Run the City of New York This Year

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—It will cost $174,000,000 to run the city of New York this year. To show how this immense sum is spent and also how much the various departments want to spend next year and invite intelligent criticism of these estimates the city will lay out $25,000 next month on an exhibit that will reveal the details of city administration in such simple form that they may be understood by the humblest citizen.

The idea of a budget exhibit originated here and has been adopted by other municipalities since the first exhibit here last year. New York's second annual exhibit will last through the month of October.

Originally the purpose of the exhibit was to meet the inquiries and criticisms of taxpayers, which increased rapidly with the rise in the cost of maintaining the city's government. By this means the board of estimate and apportionment, which has the affair in charge, hopes to show taxpayers just what they got for their money and, also, through publicity, to check extravagances on the part of the various departments.

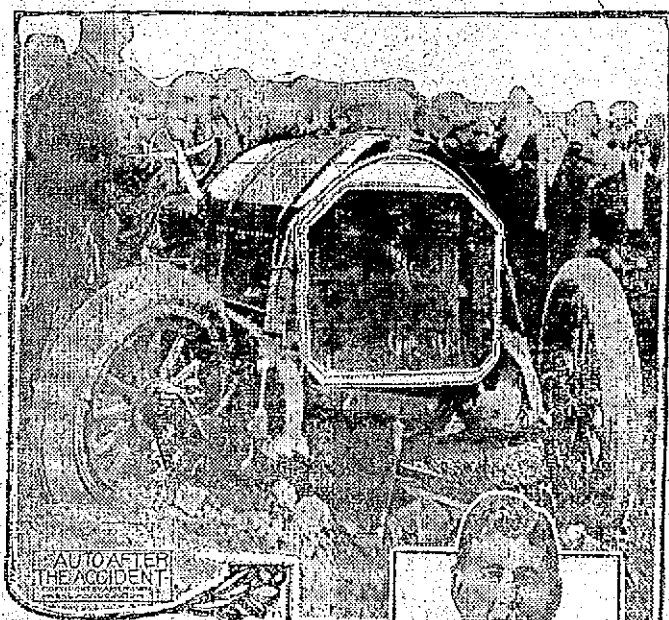

To the visitor the exhibit offers an impressive lesson of the size and growth of the country's largest city. Figures prepared by the various departments shows that the city employs 107,000 persons, $5,000 of them all the time and 22,000 temporarily. The largest group of employees are the schoolteachers, who number 17,200. The police come next with 10,118. The firemen number 4316. Care of the streets, parks, sewers, docks and bridges require 19,200. In winter 7000 snow shovelers and drivers of snow-removal carts are employed. The total payroll of the city is $88,660,021.

Last year's experiment showed that the budget exhibit is the best patronized show in the city. About 500,000 persons visited it in 1910. The exhibit will be anything but a showing of dry facts and figures. Several of the departments will have moving picture shows in daily operation.

SEVERE WIND STORM Caused Loss of Life and Property in Chicago

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Two persons were killed, 20 injured and a property damage estimated at $500,000 resulted from a severe wind storm, accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain which struck Chicago yesterday. Signs, trees and wires were blown down in all parts of the city. Basements down town were flooded. All the glass in a large greenhouse owned by Alderman Reyberg was smashed, causing a loss of $20,000. A large apartment building in the southwest section of the city was struck by lightning and burned to the ground.

AUTO THAT KILLED TEN AT NEW YORK STATE FAIR

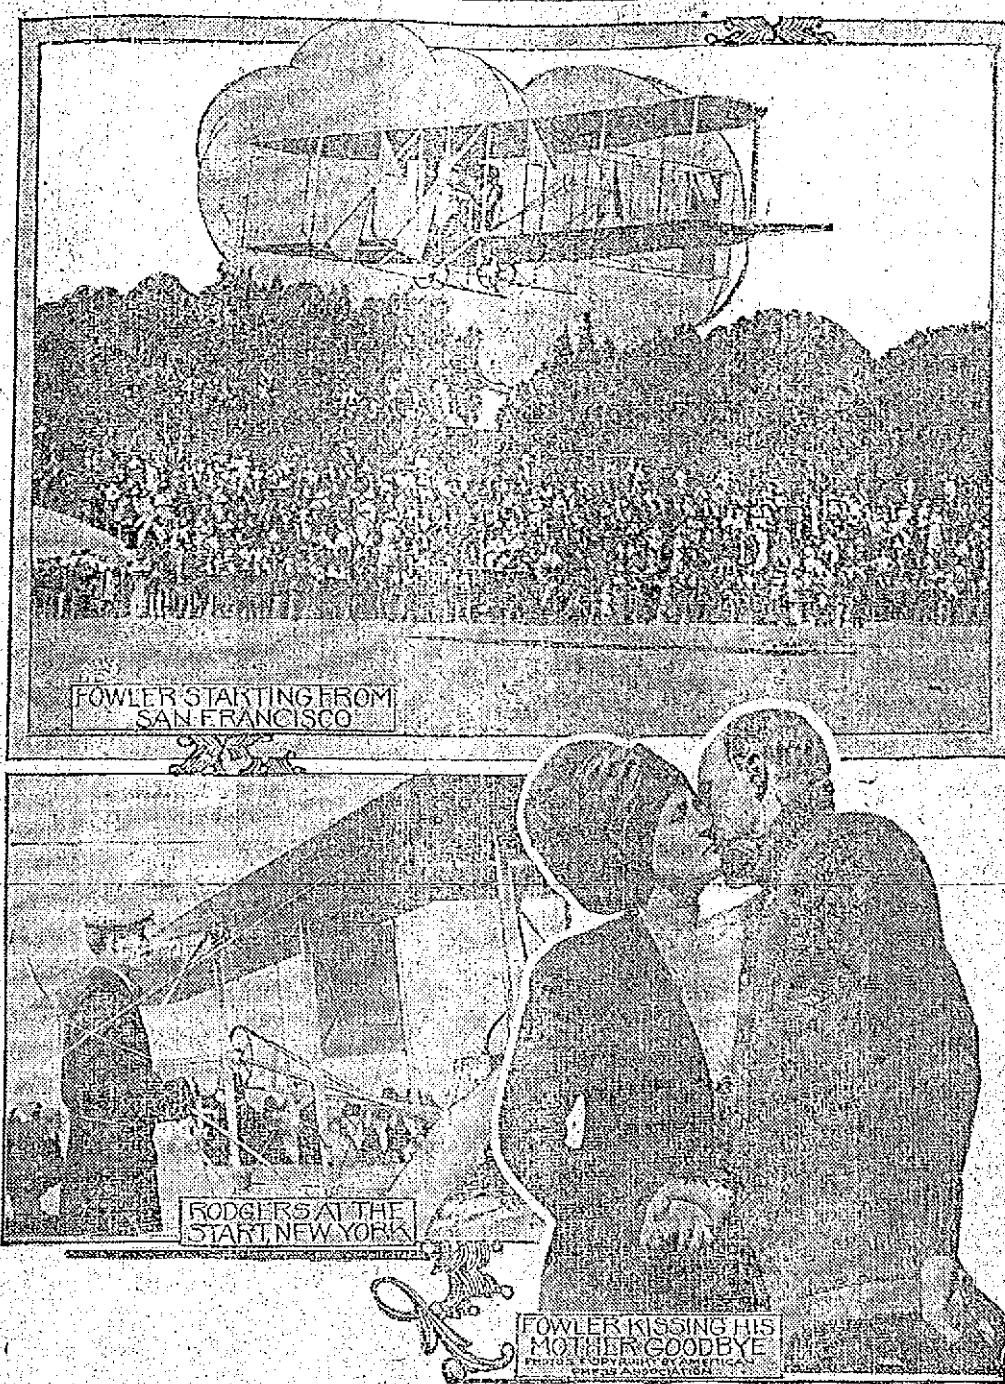

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 19.—With the death of the tenth victim of Leo Oldfield's automobile in the accident at the New York state fair Attorney General Carmody has begun an investigation. He wants to ascertain if any liability for the deaths attaches to the state. Oldfield's machine crashed through the fence and into the crowd of spectators owing to the bursting of a tire. The accident occurred shortly after President Taft had completed his address. Oldfield has been placed under arrest. The dead were nearly all residents of Syracuse.

ANNOUNCEMENT

On account of the tearing down of the building which we occupy, and with no roof over our heads, we are obliged to move at once to our new temporary headquarters—the HARRINGTON STORE ON CENTRAL STREET, next to the Electric Light Co., where we will be in readiness to continue to dispose of our large stock of goods.

You can purchase goods for a few days longer at the old stand at private sale at auction prices, either at our Central street store or at our Merrimack street store. Never was so much fine jewelry and bric-a-brac carried out of a store in this city as left our store yesterday. The sales show it. Mr. Solomon, the auctioneer, nearly talked his head off yesterday and he made a big hole in the stock. We are going to give him a rest for a short time, but Saturday he will be on the block again and then Wood's jewelry will fly in all directions of the city and suburbs. Get ready for the slaughter auction sale, SATURDAY AT ONE O'CLOCK SHARP.

STOLYPIN IS DEAD

The Russian Premier Passed Away Last Night

KIEV, Sept. 19.—Coincident with the death last night of Premier Peter A. Stolypin from bullet wounds received at the hands of an assassin during a performance at the Municipal theatre Thursday night, there began a panic among the Jewish inhabitants of the city and 30,000 troops were poured into the city to prevent excesses.

Almost until the last the premier was conscious, and for half an hour during the early part of the evening his wife alone was at his bedside.

Toward the end Stolypin suffered greatly. He groaned incessantly and threw himself about on the couch on which he lay. Finally the heart action became weaker, and as the body grew cold, the premier realized that death was overtaking him. At a lunch interval a priest administered extreme unction. The Metropolitan Flavian blessed and consoled him in his last moments. Frequently he called: "Give me the letter. Take it away. Give me a red pencil."

His last words were: "Lift me. Light up."

Half an hour before his death Stolypin asked the doctors to turn him on his side. He died peacefully, surrounded by several of his relatives and state officials.

All hope for the premier's recovery was abandoned yesterday morning. On Saturday night indications of peritonitis were noted, which became aggravated on Sunday.

The authorities at first decided to conceal the news of the premier's death until morning, fearing anti-Jewish outbreaks. This was found to be impossible, and after announcement was made all the attention of the authorities was centered in the protection of the Jews. The city is depressed but calm.

M. Kokorsov will be appointed premier.

Governor General Trepoff has issued a public notice that disorders will not be tolerated, and stringent regulations are published, forbidding the carrying of arms. It is officially announced that the maneuvers are ended and that the troops are returning to Kiev. Outgoing trains are crowded and double trains are extra trains are leaving Kiev every hour. Hundreds of well-to-do Jews are departing from the city.

Peter Arkadievitch Stolypin had frequently voiced the sentiment that he was ever ready to die in the service of the czar, and on three occasions his life was attempted. One of the most determined attempts to take it came in August of the year 1906, when a bomb exploded in his house killed 30 persons and severely injured two of his children, but failed to do him harm.

Stolypin was standing in the little office of his villa, chatting with some of his lieutenants, when the explosion took place. Several near him were killed, but he was not even scratched. An inkwell lying upon the table was hurled from its position. Its contents covering his clothing—that was all—and he stood in the work of bringing out the dead and injured.

From that time Stolypin went into seclusion. For days he remained in the government building, never leaving, even during the night hours.

In appearance Stolypin was a tall, handsome man. As a courtier he was suave, unobtrusive and diplomatic, but of strong will and determination. He was a graduate of the University of St. Petersburg.

As minister of the interior, prior to his premiership, Stolypin came into conflict with the Duma. When he made his first speech before the members of that body cries of "Murderer!" filled the great hall, but this did not disturb his calm.

As governor of Saratov he took such steps against the terrorists and liberals alike as won him the designation of the advanced parties. He was appointed premier July 25, 1906, and stamped out the revolution which had grown a threatening under M. Sergius Witte, and which even Witte's successor, Gorenkyin, was unable to control.

One hundred and fifty arrests of lawyers and other acquaintances of Dmitry Bogroff, the man who shot Stolypin, have been made in Kiev. Bogroff talked freely yesterday of his past life and furnished the authorities with valuable clues. The original confident behavior of the prisoner has given place to despondency and he is now receiving medical treatment. In a conversation of the questioning Bogroff declared that he held M. Stolypin as one of the most pernicious men of the state.

Another version is that the revolutionaries put Bogroff, who, according to the police had been filling the dual role of revolutionary agent and police spy in a dilemma where he had to kill Stolypin or be himself killed. Bogroff chose to attempt the first alternative.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 19.—The fire at the plant of the Hercules Oil Refining Co. at Vernon, which has burned for 24 hours, was brought under control last night. The tanks of crude oil still are burning but little further damage will be done. The loss is $1,250,000.

CERCLE ROSTAND

MAKING ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE ANNUAL PRODUCTION

The members of Cercle Rostand held an important meeting yesterday afternoon at the residence of the secretary, Ernest Dupont, in Merrimack street, and discussed the nature of the next theatrical play to be presented in this city.

After considerable talk on the question it was decided to present a comedy with a one-act opera, the said representation to be given at the Opera house on Nov. 8. The title of the comedy has not as yet been decided upon, but it is expected that the director of the Cercle, Mr. Wolfred Caisse, will select the play within a few days, and the first rehearsal will take place next Sunday.

The members of the circle are W. P. Caisse, Jr., Ernest Dupont, Arthur Leveillé, Homer L. P. Turcotte, Louis Henault and Mrs. Omer J. Smith and Miss Graziella Dupuis.

DEATHS

PELLAND—Mrs. James Pelland, nee Anna Gagnon of New Bedford, died yesterday at the home of her father, Jean Gagnon, 31 Pawtucket street.

The young woman, who was 48 years of age, came to her father's home three months ago to recuperate, but she failed rapidly and expired this afternoon. The deceased is survived by a husband in New Bedford, a father, Jean Gagnon of this city, a brother, Thomas of Lowell, and five sisters.

FIRST PHOTO OF BURGESS SWIMMING THE ENGLISH CHANNEL

LONDON, Sept. 19.—William Burgess, the Yorkshireman who swam across the English channel, has issued a statement to the effect that for $50,000 he will swim across the English channel and return. Burgess crossed the channel on his 18th attempt, having first started the task in 1894. Burgess escaped from South Foreland, Dover, 15 minutes past 11 o'clock in the morning. He landed at La Chatele, a little village two miles east of Cape Gris-Nez, at 10 minutes before 10 o'clock the next morning, accomplishing the passage in 22 hours 55 minutes.

A motorboat accompanied the swimmer, and it is estimated that Mr. Burgess, owing to the zigzag course he was compelled to take because of battling tides, covered 60 miles. For the trip across the channel Burgess was well greased. He wore a pair of goggles and a rubber bathing cap. A party of 11 accompanied him in the motorboat. After landing safely Burgess, greatly exhausted, was put to bed, and his aged mother sat by his bedside for many hours to care for him.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN

Will Hold an Important Meeting

This Evening

The board of aldermen at the regular meeting to be held this evening will have considerable business of importance to pass upon. It is understood that an order will be submitted for money for the Wiggville sewer and perhaps the Oakland sewer. These orders, it is stated, may aggregate $30,000.

The committee on sewers will meet previous to the meeting of the board of aldermen and will complete its recommendations on sewers.

Two routes have been outlined for the Wiggville sewer. One for a trunk sewer from the present sewer in Lawrence street at South Whipple street to Billerica street, a distance of about 2000 feet, and the city engineer estimates the cost at $25,000.

The other plan is to run a sewer across the river from Lawrence street to a point on the premises of the American Hide & Leather Co., and this is the plan it is said, that will be favored by the board of aldermen tonight. After reaching the premises of the American Hide & Leather Co., the proposition is to extend the sewer along the railroad tracks to Lawrence street and then to Billerica street. The distance included in this route would be about 4000 feet and the estimated cost is $45,000.

Committee on Streets

An unusual number of city hall meetings are scheduled for this afternoon and evening. The committee on streets met at 3 o'clock this afternoon and went out on a tour of inspection to the following streets: Crawford, Encl and Billings street, on petition from neoplane of sidewalks; the widening of Rogers street from Knapp avenue to Boylston street; extension of Stratton and Deerfield streets from Lawrence street to Shedd park; the acceptance of Fairfax street from Stevens street to Westchester park, and the acceptance of Highland avenue from Fairfax street to Parker street.

The committee will meet again at 7:30 this evening. The board of health will meet this afternoon and meetings scheduled for this evening include the board of charities, water board and the committee on the proposed ousting with the city government of Manchester, N. H.

Words of Appreciation

The following letter from the Rev. H. Watelle, O. M. I., to Mayor Meehan, is self explanatory:

The Hon. John F. Meehan, Lowell, Mass.

Honorable Sir: I wish to thank you sincerely for having presented our request for the use of the Cheever street school to the committee. We appreciate your courtesy and kindness and we wish to assure you that if we can at any time be of service to you we will do gladly all we can to manifest our gratitude.

Respectfully,
H. Watelle, O. M. I.

City Library Employees

City Solicitor Duncan handed down the following opinion this forenoon:

Office of City Solicitor,
Lowell, Mass., Sept. 12, 1911.

Mr. Frederick A. Chase, City Librarian,
Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir: In response to the request of the library trustees for an opinion as to the application of the Eight Hour law to the employees of the city library, I will say that, so far as I am able to determine, the nature of their employment does not constitute them "laborers, workmen and mechanics" within the meaning of the statute.

Very truly yours,
William W. Duncan,
City Solicitor.

BOSTON GIRL

WAS LEFT $150,000 BY HER UNCLE

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—One of the happiest young women in Boston yesterday was Miss Frieda Cory. She had just received notice of a bequest of $150,000 which had been left to her by her uncle, Dr. Katof Maloof, who was medical adviser in the court of the Shah of Persia.

Notice of the bequest was brought to Miss Cory by a representative of a New York firm of lawyers, acting for her uncle's solicitors in Persia.

The young woman, who is 22 and the possessor of a decidedly attractive personality, was the center of a congratulatory group of friends when the Post reporter called at her home, 5 Oliver place, yesterday.

"There is only one reason that I am glad at being named as my uncle's beneficiary—and that is because I will be able to make a tour of foreign countries," said Miss Cory.

Then she displayed a row of pearly teeth as she explained: "You see, I am already well provided for, as far as the ordinary comforts of life are concerned. I own the house in which I live with my father, and I also am the owner of the one next door."

"They were left to me by my mother. She also left me a large sum of money. With some of it I have purchased diamonds and an automobile."

In telling of the plans that she intended to carry out with the bequest, the young woman said: "For several years I have longed to see something of the countries across the sea. And I intend to do so on the strength of my uncle's money."

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

AUTO ENTHUSIASTS

Looking Forward to the 1912 Models

THE BUICK HAS A NEW SILENT ENGINE

Chief Hosmer's Automobile is in the Repair Shop Again—Other Automobile News of Interest to Dealers and Enthusiasts

Now is the time of the year when the automobile enthusiasts and prospective automobile owners are looking forward to the purchase of a car for next year. Already a number of the 1912's are on the market and several have been demonstrated in this city, but it will be a month or more until the different makers will have their various models on the demonstration line.

During the winter months there will be few demonstrations but the public will be kept in touch with the manufacture of the new cars until the automobile shows start in, at which time the people will have a chance to inspect the various machines and also give orders in plenty of time to have the cars delivered by the time the good weather sets in in the spring.

The sale of automobiles in this city this year has been exceptionally good and few of the local dealers are complaining of a normal season.

For the past several years automobile engineers have been working hard to perfect a quiet motor, and designers have been equally as hard at work thinking up new ideas for bodies for each succeeding season. The question of the motor was the principal one, however, and the skeptical ones claimed then and many claim at the present time that there is not a silent motor and will not be one for years. In this the automobile writer of The Sun differs for he had several rides in machines last week which have motors installed in them which are practically noiseless.

It came about like this: George Jessup, formerly connected with the Lowell Automobile corporation, but now engaged in racing and demonstrating Buick cars throughout New England, dropped into Lowell last week and called on the writer.

He asked if the writer would like a ride in a next year's machine, and he entered the car and thinking that Jessup had neglected to crank the machine he was asked if he wished the writer to do so. He said that the engine was running. The writer immediately became inquisitive and was not satisfied until Jessup had stopped on the road and shown the big improvement which had been made in the engine and transmission.

This little car is a two-passenger, torpedo body, and is known as model 24. There is another of the 1912 cars which also has the silent motor. It is known as model 35 and is a five-passenger, fore-door car, with bucket dash.

These two models are now on exhibition at the salesrooms of the Buick Motor Co. in Park square, Boston, and those who desire to see them will be welcomed. It is expected that models of these cars will be at the Lowell Automobile corporation in Appleton street during the latter part of this week or the first of next week.

The number of Buicks sold in this city this year by the Lowell Automobile Co. only goes to show that the machine is the most popular automobile in Lowell at the present time. This is confirmed by the fact that the number of Buicks sold in the city during the year for the sale of machines but the local agency of the Buick has done an excellent business during the past week or ten days.

Among the sales made were the following: Model 10, toy tonneau Buick, Edward Steele; model 27, Buick, Dr. John F. Boyle; model 14, Buick, Dr. Dean and a model 10, toy tonneau Buick to Dr. Dean, an instructor at the Textile school.

Chief Hosmer's automobile is out of commission again, but it is expected that it will be in order again within a few days. Chauffeur Sanders has noted a peculiar rattling sound for several days past and despite the fact that he had examined the machine from the radiator to the rear axle, including all lanterns and other accessories, he has been unable to find it. Yesterday he drove the car to the City Hall garage where it was disassembled and the mechanics found that the plate in No. 1 cylinder was cracked. Word was immediately telephoned to Springfield, and as soon as the new part arrives the car will go back into service. Inasmuch as the weather is getting cool now and it is much colder riding than walking, it is expected that the chief's machine will be equipped with a windshield within a week. The car has covered 2500 miles since it was delivered in the middle of last December and although there has been some expense in both repairs and the upkeep Chief Hosmer feels satisfied with the vehicle.

There has been a change in the management of the Moody Bridge garage at the corner of Moody and Pawtucket streets, Mr. Joseph Martin having succeeded Mr. Stephen Rochette. Despite the change Mr. Rochette will continue to retain an interest in the business. He contemplates taking a three months' tour through the south, and recently sold a portion of his stock to Mr. Martin and subsequently the change of management was made.

The management of the Moody Bridge garage contemplates taking the agency of the DeCatur truck which is manufactured in DeCatur, Ill. This self propelled vehicle is capable of carrying between one and one-half and two tons and although new to this section of the country it is said that it has been a ready seller in other parts. A demonstration machine was in this city last week and it is expected that another one will be in Lowell on Thursday of this week. The machine has a double chain drive and is equipped with either pneumatic or solid tires.

The roads leading out of Lowell, with few exceptions, are in excellent condition as a result of the recent rains.

Lowell autoists who have had occasion to be on the road nights during the past few weeks have found that Jack Frost is fast rounding into condition.

This morning Fred Emerson and Thomas Huxwick of the Lowell Automobile corporation received a telegram from the salesroom of the Buick Automobile company in Boston to the effect that several 1912 models will reach this city next week for exhibition purposes.

Ed. Mercer, of Ivory fame, is now receiving bookings for the Brockton fair, which will be held Oct. 3, 4, 5 and 6. After returning from the fair Ed. will replace the limousine body on the chassis of one of his cars in time for October wedding. This is the modern way of going the last trip, with Dan Cupid without any unnecessary waiting at the church. Bookings are received by Ed. at all times for dates.

THE GLIDDEN TOUR

43 Entries Have Been Received

Reports from the A. A. A. Official Pathfinders for the 1911 Glidden tour over the route of the National Highway, New York to Atlanta and Jacksonville, October 14th to 25th, conclusively show the reliability and dependability of even the smaller priced motor cars. The little Flanders "Twenty" left New York on the afternoon of September 24th for the long journey of nearly fourteen hundred miles, and its arrival at Atlanta, ten hundred and forty-five miles away, just one week later, sets a new mark for expedition in pathfinding work. Not a single delay has been encountered by the party up to date for any reason whatsoever, not even for what must have been a herculean task for the little car in the Blue Ridge mountains near Winston-Salem, where the car arrived on the afternoon of the 12th, having covered that day 122 miles across the mountains. A caravan of sixty motor cars gave the pathfinders a most enthusiastic welcome and the escort into a Winston-Salem was at first mistaken for the Glidden tour itself, and produced more excitement than the city has known since its production of a score of million dollars of gold bullion. But as every pleasant visit must end, and this center of the tobacco industry was left behind at the early start the next morning for Charlotte, one of the chief cotton manufacturing centers of the South and a locality once honored by Lord Cornwallis, of Revolutionary fame, as a "hornet's nest." Suffice it to say, however, the residents of the seat of the first Declaration of Independence of Mecklenburg was in far from a tempestuous mood and the welcome accorded the party here was equal to, if not higher, than that met at Greensboro and High Point, where the pathfinders were good naturedly held and entertained with enthusiastic speechmaking. Two optional routes were surveyed this day and also two additional on the following morning before breakfast.

From Charlotte, through broad fields of green tobacco and white cotton, the path led to Spartanburg, with its iron and coal mines and mineral springs, on into Greenville, where the pathfinders were cordially met by representatives of Atlanta and the Atlanta chamber of commerce, headed by Major John S. Cohen, managing editor of the Atlanta Journal, who escorted them into Anderson and from there on the following day's run into Atlanta. Saturday and Sunday are to be spent in Atlanta, one of the chief industrial cities in the South, whose climate is both healthful and breezy and for a change from the steady travel the pathfinding party will in all likelihood view the many points of interest there. They are well entitled to a brief respite, for in the seven days they have covered more than three-quarters of their trip. The night of the 16th will find them at Macon, and the 17th at Valdosta, and then one more day will see them into Jacksonville, the Mecca of tourists, when their tedious task will be over.

The pathfinders report great activity all along the route in the way of road improvement, both through the South's convict labor system and the employment of professional road builders through both public and private funds. For years the South has felt the need of some incentive to awaken it to the necessity and advantages of road betterment and it is fit that the American Automobile association, in its campaign for good roads all over the United States, will be able to bring home to our Southern friends the force and benefit of its work, through the conduct of what is now assured to be the greatest of all "Gliddens." Forty-three entries have been received and a glance at the complete list shows for itself the private owner aspect of the tour and the excellent support with which the South's interested citizens are rallying to the standard.

JOHNNY JENKINS

Is Entered in Many Racing Events

A race meet at San Monica, October 14th; a 24-hour race on the Los Angeles Motorodrome, October 21; a 600-mile endurance run from Los Angeles to Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 4, and races at Phoenix on the completion of this run is the Southern California race schedule which it is expected will turn the eyes of the automobile racing public to that section of the country between that section of the country between now and the Fairmount races at Philadelphia, November 13th, and the grand prize race at Savannah in November.

C. Fred Grundy, head of the Grundy Motor Sales company, has secured Johnny Jenkins to drive a Cole car in all the events. Harry Herick is expected to be the second Cole pilot in the races. Such cars as the Mercer, Fiat, Thomas, Winton, Simplex, Cadillac, National and Buick have already signified their intention of taking part.

The important event in this contest, it is explained, the various entrants will be put through a severe grueling. The greater part of the route lies through desert country, over mountainous and sandy roads. But the financial rewards are temptations to the drivers, the total cash prizes being close to $8,000, there also being handsome trophies.

The driver that reaches San Diego from Los Angeles first, and he will have to cover close to 150 miles in desert country, will receive $1,500; the driver that reaches El Centro first receives $1,000; the one that reaches Yuma $1,000 and the one that reaches Phoenix $2,500.

The contestants that finish 1, 2, 3 and 4 in this endurance run will then compete in the races that will be held on the Phoenix track. Other races will be held in which cars of a piston displacement of 201 inches and under and cars of from 301 to 150 cubic inches displacement will be eligible to compete.

The finale of this mammoth test will be a free-for-all race for a $1,000 purse.

Johnny Jenkins will leave the Cole Motor Car Company's factory October 4, so that he will be at San Monica in time for practice. It is reported that the course is in good shape and liable to sustain its reputation of being the safest automobile race course in the country. It is an 8.2 mile course with easy turns. The turns can be taken, it is explained, at a speed of from 22 to 70 miles an hour.

Jenkins states he is anxious to get back to the western coast as he wants the Los Angeles Motorodrome 24-hour race. At the last event of this kind Jenkins was unfortunate in having an accident at the start of the contest, but despite this fact he fixed up, went in and finished third.

Speaking of the California racing situation Mr. Grundy says: "The residents of the western coast are true sportsmen. They are always willing and ready to support a good contest. The interest that was taken in the four road records the Cole recently secured on the coast was keen. Many wagers were made. We have won four out of the six California road records. We are going to make an effort to get the other two. These contests show beyond a doubt the mechanical construction of an automobile and prove to us whether we have the kind of product that we represent to the public. Confidence is the greatest asset a California automobile dealer can have."

GENERAL FIRMIN

Leader of Two Revolutionary Parties is Dead

ST. THOMAS, D. W. I., Sept. 19.—General Antenor Firmin, who deserted his post as Haytian minister at London to help overthrow President Simon of Haiti, died here today. Firmin led one of the two revolutionary parties and was a candidate for the presidency in succession to Simon. However, General Leonora, the other revolutionary chief, was the first to reach Port Au Prince after the success of the revolution had been assured and he assumed the presidency before Firmin could muster sufficient strength to give him a fighting chance at the capital.

For a time a conflict between the followers of Leonora and the adherents of Firmin was feared and on August 30, two days after Simon had left Port Au Prince, Firmin, who had remained abroad, a vessel in the harbor of Port Au Prince, called for this city, where he had since remained.

Some of the attendants at the hospital saw the number on the rear of the automobile as it sped away. They read it 0190 A. The police were unable to find any such number in the auto registry, and although a search was made for the man who drove the car at an early hour this morning he had not been found.

MAJOR BRINO'S SPEED

He Cut His Mark at Grand Circuit Races at Detroit

DETROIT, Sept. 19.—Fair-goers had their first taste of grand circuit racing here yesterday. The time made was fast in view of conditions, and some of the finishes were hair-raising. Three of the winners had things much their own way, but the slow trot made up for the straight heats, as six miles were raced before the awards were made.

In the 2:07 trot the imported stallion Willy was much the best, although he won by narrow margins.

Major Brino had the speed of the 2:05 pacers and won comfortably, knocking three-quarters of a second from his mark. Longworth B. from the Murphy stable, romped away with the early closing event for 2:17 class pacers, none of the others appearing to have the slightest chance with this greatly improved horse.

The big surprise of the day was in the 2:17 trotting class, in which Hannah Louise was the logical favorite. This mare sold at even against the field, but the best she could do was to win one heat. Pansy Silver won two heats and then broke in the third with Hannah Louise first at the finish. Mack Jay came along and took the next two and under the rules the horses that were tied in heats won had to race it off.

The sixth heat was the big talk. Pansy Silver had gone to an early break and looked to be almost out of it, while Dick McMahon was riding alone behind Mack Jay.

From the quarter Pansy Silver gained until she reached the other in the stretch and was beating him when he broke and ran under the wire head in front.

The judges gave the heat and race to Pansy Silver.

Rushes to the Front
Driven anywhere near his limit it did not seem that Mack Jay could have lost, the slow middle half having allowed Pansy Silver to gather herself and challenge in the stretch.

Longworth B. showed in the 2:17 pace that he has learned the game, although he has been a backward pup. Murphy brought this one for the Chamber of Commerce and other slow stakes, but he did not have the necessary kick in the early season. Seven were left in the event and Longworth B. was the choice, the field selling over him because of the presence of Dock V., said to be a bearer from the west.

Game Maid rushed to the front in the opening heat, and Longworth B. and Princess Direct Hal were close up at the half. On the turn Longworth B. paced by the rest and then jogged home. Longworth B. led in the next heat and left the bunch after passing the half. He won pulled up, the final quarter in 30 1/4.

Game Maid led them to the half in the third mile, and after passing it Snow took her out and let Murphy through with Longworth B. They had gone down in 1:01 1/4 and Longworth B. walked home.

In the 2:05 pace, in which Major Brino was favorite, there was a good race each time to the seven-eighths. Walter W. and Ginger showed the way and at the half Major Brino was second. Peter the Second came fast on the outside and they bunched in the stretch, Major Brino drawing away in the last part and winning handily.

Willy Benton, Ginger and Grace led them to the second heat and Major Brino then began to step around them, being second at the three-quarters and winning by a length, with Peter the Second the runner-up. As the last half was in 1:01 1/4, Major Brino had paced very fast, lowering his mark to 2:04 1/4.

Willy and Spanish Queen were favored in the 2:07 trotting class, first one being the choice and then the other. Nancy Royce and Willy went away in the lead in the first heat and the time was slow to the quarter and half, where Nancy was leading by a neck and Spanish Queen was third. Willy was first by a length at the three-quarters and Spanish Queen and Grace took after him in the stretch. Penock had to drive for all that was in him to stall off the two mares, winning by half a length.

Neck to the Good at the Half
Willy and Spanish Queen had it out in the second heat and the stallion was a neck to the good at the half and had made it an open length at the next point.

At the head of the stretch Spanish Queen started to move up, but made a mistake and fell out of it, Willy paying an easier time at the finish. Peter Dorsey got up in time to beat Grace out of second place. The summary:

"JIMMY" McALEER

Wants Stahl for Manager of Red Sox

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—"Jake Stahl will be manager of the Boston club next season if there is any reasonable inducement that will get him back into baseball."

This was the statement made yesterday by James R. McAleer, future president of the Red Sox.

"They have told me that Jake will not reconsider his retirement, but I expect to have a talk with him before long and think I can induce him to change his plans and take charge of our team. Stahl is an excellent field general, and if I can get him I think he will give us the biggest sort of a boost."

"If Stahl does come back he will be worked on first base and will be in charge of the team."

This is the first definite announcement made by McAleer concerning his plans at Boston, and while there are many who believe the new president of the Red Sox will not be able to go through with his plans, McAleer is apparently satisfied that he can land the former Boston player to direct the Boston team.

HIGHLANDERS ASK FOR WAIVERS ON TWO PITCHERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—President Frank Farrell of the New York American league club has decided to clean house; and as a preliminary step he recently asked waivers on Pitchers Jim Vaughn and Jack Quinn.

Vaughn is the giant southpaw from Texas, who for two years has disappointed Hal Chase's prediction that he would become the marvel of the age. Quinn was one of the best pitchers on the Yankee team last year. He won eighteen and lost twelve games, dropping six in a row at the tail end of the season because of wretched support. Both Quinn and Vaughn fell down badly this season after early spring promise of sensational nature. It is very unlikely that either Vaughn or Quinn will be allowed to get out of the American league even should New York desire to dispense with their services. The fact that waivers have been asked signifies little. For the past several years Frank Chance each season has asked waivers on Ed Reulbach only to spur this indifferent fellow to his very best endeavors. Perhaps the Yankees have a trade in sight and the waiver request is only a "feeler" to the other clubs in the league. Vaughn is the only veteran southpaw with the club, and the hill men for several seasons have been very shy on port side asked signifi- little. For the past

SEEKING SISTER

Young Men Searched New England

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Somewhere among the 90-odd millions of people in these United States there may be a particular Miss Grace Keegan. Or it may be that there is a matron whose maiden name was such.

George Keegan of 436 North Eighth street, Scranton, Penn., and Charles Keegan of Haledon, Penn., have a very good reason for wishing to get into communication with a certain Grace Keegan. The one of the name they are looking for is their sister.

They want to see her because they do not recall that they ever have seen her. If they find her they will not know her. They have no idea what she looks like.

The Keegan brothers are positive, however, that they had a sister named Grace, who by this time must be in her 26th year. For eight years George and Charles Keegan have been looking for their sister Grace.

George Keegan, who is 22, is an electrician employed by a railroad. Charles, who is 24, is an engineer on the same road. Since they found each other they have united their efforts and their small means in the almost hopeless task of finding out whether or not sister Grace lives, and if alive where her home is.

George Keegan yesterday came to New York with a few days off on his hands to extend the search to this city. They have scoured New England, where they all were born, in vain. "We three children were born in Everett, Mass," he said. "We, that is, Charles and I, do not remember our parents. My mother died first and because our father could not care for us, he farmed us out. He died soon afterward. I was sent to a family in Vermont, where I lived until I was old enough to judge for myself. When I went to Scranton, eight years ago I began to think about my brother and sister. I did what I could to trace them. Charles had been turned over to a family at Haledon, Penn., when he was an infant. I found him at Haledon four years ago. He had been trying to find me all that time but I got ahead of him."

ter Grace is that she had been taken in by an aunt in Boston, and that the aunt died 21 years ago. Of course we are assuming that Grace is alive and that she has remained in this country. We have pooled our interests and are doing all in our power to find her."

MANDAMUS WRIT

May Be Sought by Candidate Donahue

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—The printing of ballots for the state primaries may be held up by a writ of mandamus to compel the secretary of the commonwealth to have all the ballots printed with all the names spelled correctly. Yesterday Chairman John M. Munton of the Boston board of election commissioners received a specimen ballot, 116 soon discovered that the name of Frank J. Donahue, candidate for the democratic nomination for secretary of state, was spelled Donoghue.

He immediately notified Candidate Donahue of the fact and also Deputy Secretary of State Herbert B. Boynton, who is in charge of the election machinery of the secretary of state's office.

The latter at first stated that it was too late to remedy matters. Later, at Candidate Donahue's demand that the error be rectified, he agreed to reprint the 19,000 ballots run off on the press, but said it would be too late to change any others.

Candidate Donahue then decided to take legal proceedings and directed the following letter to Secretary of State Langtry by registered mail through his counsel, former Representative Thomas P. Riley:

"Hon. Albert P. Langtry, Secretary of the Commonwealth, State House, Boston:—

"Dear Sir—You are hereby notified that a mistake has been made in the printing of the democratic ballots, and that the mistake being in the spelling of the name of Candidate Frank J. Donahue, which on the ballot has been spelled Frank J. Donoghue. Mr. Donahue feels that the mistake will injure him and his candidacy, and hereby demands its rectification.

"Not hearing from you by noon tomorrow, to the effect that this mistake will be remedied without further action on our part, we will at that time proceed to take the necessary steps to compel the rectifying of the error.

"Yours truly,

Mr. Donahue, when interviewed on the matter last night, said:

"I have no desire to hold up the printing of the ballots for the state primaries, but I believe I am entitled to have my name so on the ballot in its correct spelling. If the secretary's office is able to reprint 19,000 of the Boston ballots, as they state, I fail to see how the reprinting of the balance of the misspelled ballots—26,000,—according to the latest statement from the secretary's office—will much further delay setting out the ballots."

QUINCY FIRE DEPT.

May Be Equipped With Automobiles

QUINCY, Sept. 19.—A move to equip the fire department with auto engines, ladder trucks, hose and chemical wagons and cars for the chief and district chiefs was made last night when Councilman Cherrington offered an order for $49,000 for that purpose. Councilman Cherrington said the order was discussed by the fire department committee and asked that it be referred to the finance committee, which was done.

Councilman Cherrington also offered an order increasing the salary of the mayor from $1400 to $2500. There has been no increase in the salary of mayor since Quincy became a city, 23 years ago. The order was referred to the finance committee.

Committee reports were offered as follows: Finance, $2000 for a public pier and landing, $200 for plans for a public dock, water supply, $10,000 for water extensions at Hough's Neck and Atlantic streets, $2000 for repainting Newcomb bridge, fire department, and five permanent men to the fire department.

The street committee offered a resolution requesting the mayor to appear before the railroad commissioners and ask to have two men placed on duty at the Water street grade crossing all the time. On motion of Councilman Dury a special committee was appointed to make an investigation of alleged poor street railway service. A public hearing was held on order of Councilman Richards to give officials of the Citizens' Gaslight company an opportunity to tell if the price of gas would be lowered. Supt. Nichols said he had no reason to believe the price of gas would be lowered before the end of the fiscal year, June 30.

On motion of Councilman Richards a special committee was appointed to confer with the officers of the gas company and state gas commissioners to see if an immediate reduction cannot be made in the price of gas.

ARRESTED AGAIN

ELOPER CHARGED WITH MAKING FALSE OATH

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—Kenneth P. Hill of Cambridge, the former Harvard student, who aroused the ire of William A. Graustein, the milk contractor by eloping with the latter's daughter, Ida Sophie Graustein, Radcliffe, 12, was again brought into the limelight of a criminal court yesterday, when he was arrested on an indictment warrant, charging him with making a false statement under oath in securing his marriage license.

Hill, it is claimed, stated he had neither parent nor guardian living in his state, while as a matter of fact his brother and sister, both living in Cambridge, were duly appointed his guardians by the probate court. Hill was arraigned in the district court a week after his runaway marriage, and after a hearing and an unsuccessful attempt to have the difference between the bride's father and the groom amicably settled, he was held in $100 for the grand jury.

Judge Arthur P. Stone, who acted for Hill in the lower court, appeared in the superior criminal court, East Cambridge, yesterday, where Hill was arraigned. He waived the reading of the indictment, Hill pleading not guilty and furnishing bonds in the sum of $300.

POLICE INVESTIGATED

As a result of word having been received that pickpockets had been working on various lines of the Bay State Street Railway Co. of late, Supt. Redmond Welch assigned a couple of men to make an investigation. The result was that a report came back to the effect that there was no thieving going on. It is thought that the rumor of pickpocketing was caused by the dropping of a pocketbook on one of the cars by a woman who resided in Tewksbury.

FREE LOVE PEOPLE

Have Been Driven Out of Zion City

ZION CITY, Ill., Sept. 19.—Eight members of the Holiest Love society were escorted to the city limits of Zion last night by a vigilance committee and placed aboard an electric car for Chicago. Marshal John Hucker led the party which forced the members of the alleged "free-love" cult to leave the precincts of Zion, a city founded by John Alexander Dowle. No arrests were made. When the vigilantes reached the house the members of the cult had retired for the night. They were routed from their beds.

SEARCH FOR MAN

WHO IS BELIEVED TO BE INSANE

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Sept. 19.—Search for Anthony Sabino, an apparently insane man, who is roaming in a wild section of the country west of this city armed with a shotgun, was resumed today. Deputy sheriffs assisted by a state policeman, a posse specially sworn in and a force of volunteers, hunted the man all day yesterday, but failed to get a sight of him. Sabino, it is thought, may know something about the shooting and killing of Harry H. Maudlin at Wilton on the last day of August.

GETS $300,000

MRS. PIERCE HAS AGREED TO DROP THE SUIT

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—"Beauty" Chapman, as she was known in Boston, and more recently Mrs. Bessie Chapman Pierce, wife of Roy E. Pierce, the son of the Standard Oil magnate, is said by friends to have received the nice dot of $300,000 in settlement of her difficulty with the Pierce family as a "deserted bride."

At all events the beautiful Mrs. Pierce has set out for French Lick, Ind., apparently giving no thought to the outcome of the annulment proceedings instituted by her husband's father, H. Clay Pierce, in behalf of his son. The father of the young man testifies at the trial that his son was mentally incompetent at the time of the marriage.

REVENUE OFFICERS MEET

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 19.—The election of officers and the selection of next year's meeting place were the most important matters before the convention of the National Internal Revenue Officers at its closing session today. The steamboat ride on the river in the afternoon and the annual banquet at night were arranged for the entertainment of the visiting officers after the business of the meeting was completed.

DR. PAYETTE HOME

HE ATTENDED CONVENTION OF CATHOLIC ORDER OF FORESTERS

Dr. A. G. Payette of James street, returned Monday from a two-months' trip during which time he attended the convention of the Catholic Order of Foresters, as well as visiting several places of interest in Canada. Dr. Payette left two months ago as a Massachusetts delegate to the National convention of the Catholic Order of Foresters held at Cleveland, O. The doctor on his return visited Buffalo as well as the Niagara Falls, Quebec, Ottawa, Ontario, Montreal, as well as several points of interest in the Canadian metropolis. As above stated he returned this morning and left immediately for Holyoke, where he will spend a couple of days.

A woman editor in Paris has challenged an editor of the other gender to a duel and sent her seconds to arrange the meeting. The challenger in this case is a suffragette and that she is of the militant order is plain from her proposed method of settling an argument. She evidently wants to explode the old argument that nobody shall have a vote who cannot fight to back it up if necessary.

ATTACKING GOVERNOR FOSS

The three republican candidates for the gubernatorial nomination are working hard, and it is difficult to say which is in the lead. It is undoubtedly a fact, however, that the candidate who will be nominated will have absolutely no chance of election with Governor Foss as his opponent. The puny darts fired by these three candidates fall short of the governor. It would not be surprising to find the people of this state electing a strong democratic legislature to assist Governor Foss in carrying out the necessary reforms. That is what the people of Ohio did for Governor Harmon, and it would be a good thing to do here in Massachusetts.

AGAINST RAILROAD STRIKES

The manager of the London and South Western railway in England while testifying before the parliamentary commission appointed to inquire into the recent strike has entered a plea in favor of making a railroad strike a criminal offense. This claim was supported by the contention which in that particular case was probably true to wit, that while certain leaders could precipitate strikes they could not stop them nor prevent their growth. This commission being friendly to the labor organizations, it is not likely to do anything that would deprive them of what they claim as their right. To do so would probably deprive the liberal ministry of the labor vote in parliament without which it might not at all times be able to weather the tory opposition.

NEW SEWERAGE PROPOSITION

The money expended for sewers should be applied so as to meet the greatest public need and thus benefit the greatest number. Any attempt to have the city build an expensive sewer to benefit a private concern, which should do the work itself, should be promptly blocked and exposed. We understand that there is a scheme of this kind on foot at the present time, one that will not only entail a large expense to the city, but a great responsibility. Why should the city construct a needless sewer to accommodate any private concern while the general public is demanding sewers that cannot be provided? While the city turns the sewerage of a large district into a swamp and lets the overflow run through an open brook, is there, or can there be any excuse for incurring an expense bordering on $50,000 to accommodate a private concern? The city official who would be a party to such a scheme must have slight regard for the interests of the city, not to speak of his own reputation. As for ex-city officials they are not responsible to the people.

THE PAVING OF EAST MERRIMACK STREET

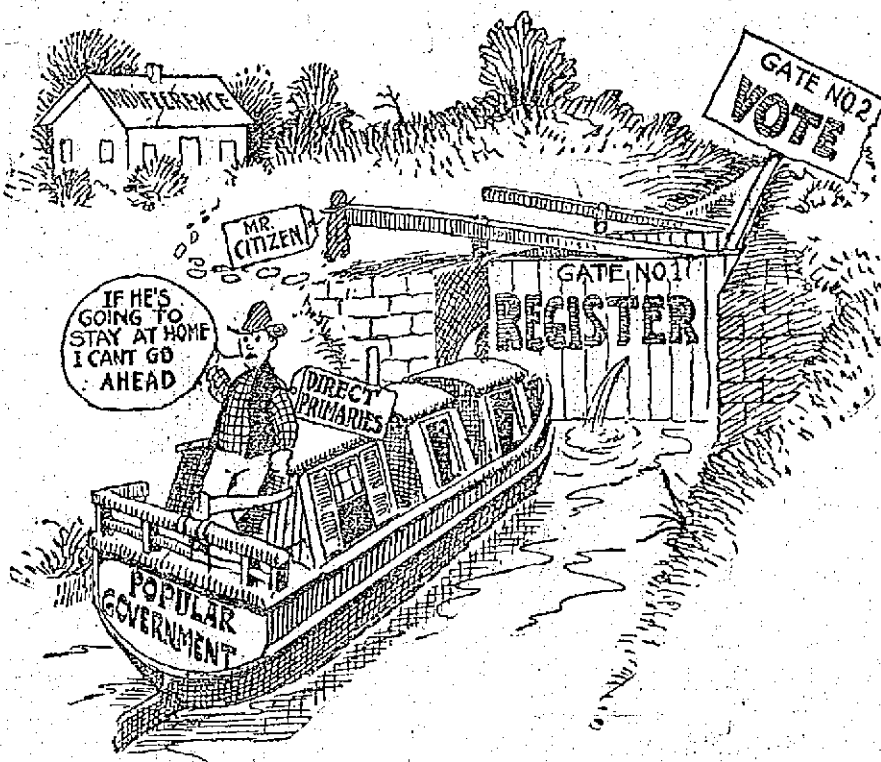

The people of Belvidere are asking why the smooth paving of East Merrimack street is to stop at Howe street instead of at Fayette. To carry the smooth paving to Fayette street would be only a few rods additional, but it would save the reopening of the street at that point and avert also the future interference with the car service and business. While the street railway company at great expense is laying new tracks and road bed, it will simply show short sightedness on the part of the city authorities, if this little section of the street between Howe and Fayette streets be left unpaved. The improvement is needed there as much as on any other part of the street and it is putting the matter mildly to say that public necessity and convenience demand the paving of that part of the street as much as any other. East Merrimack and Church streets are the two thoroughfares by which the vast majority of strangers pass in and out of our city and both should be smooth paved as soon as possible. To leave the rough and broken paving at the foot of East Merrimack street will be a serious menace to the autoists who come to the square by that route. The street department should be authorized at once to continue the smooth paving to Fayette street so as to prevent future inconvenience and possible accidents for which the city will be liable.

SPEAKER WALKER ATTACKS REPUBLICAN MACHINE

Speaker Walker at Brockton, on Saturday, sailed into the republican machine which has been making an effort to side track him for Frothingham. Mr. Walker came out plainly and said that the campaign has been reduced to a question of whether the rank and file of the party wishes to retain the old leadership or wish for a new leadership based more on principle and policy and less upon money.

The republican machine, Mr. Walker alleges, has become a faction within the party and it is much more interested at the present time in retaining its grip upon the party than in working for the party's success. The republican machine, Mr. Walker allows, is opposed to him because he refused to put on the yoke of subservience. The machine in assuming the role of dictator is ruining the party.

Here then is something for the republican state committee and state leaders to take home and ponder upon. On various occasions Mr. Walker has been deliberately snubbed by the leaders. This was wantonly done at the Hamilton meeting at which President Taft spoke. Mr. Walker is apparently the best equipped of all three candidates, although he is not in accord with the machine. Norman White is talking too much and saying too many things that are not so, while Mr. Frothingham claims the place by right of success, although Governor Foss has smashed the succession idea that had been too long fostered to the advantage of second and third rate men.

Will R. McDonald of Washington, rented a farm a few miles outside of the city to escape the din and noise of town, but he soon tired of the trouble of looking after the place.

"I'm going to hire a manager to look after this farm," he told his family at breakfast one morning. "Then I won't have any more trouble. He can occupy a room on the top floor, and we will all have a quiet, easy time."

MacDonald leaned back and smiled serenely in anticipation of the coming rest and peace.

That night as the new manager passed through the hall on his way upstairs, MacDonald stepped out and asked him if he cared to have the afternoon paper.

"No, thank you," replied the fount of rest and quiet. "I have a flute on which "Such writers," said Mr. Howells at a luncheon at Kittery Point, Me., "remind me of a lad whose mother said to him:

"No, I'm not, mother," the boy replied. "I'm just telling it what it must not say."

"Why, deacon, what do you mean?" asked Sister Henderson.

"I observe that on your sideboards you have several cut-glass decanters, and each of them is half filled with what appears to be ardent spirits."

"Well, now, deacon, it isn't anything of the kind. The bottles look so pretty on the sideboard that I just filled them half way with some floor stain and furniture polish, just for appearances."

"That's why I am cautioning you, sister," replied the deacon. "Feeling a trifle weak and faint, I helped myself to a dose from the big bottle in the middle."

machine. Here, on reaching a position opposite the machine, the log is grasped at each end by the sharp teeth of two long steel bars which, rising out of the flooring, catch the log and throw it onto a vehicle which, to the layman, resembles a very narrow flat freight car. This car, along its track, runs back and forth alternately a distance of some thirty feet. A few inches from, and at the nearer end of, the tracking on which this miniature car runs, is a stationary buzz-saw of immense power. Being hoisted on its car, the log is placed, or gripped, by the workman operating the machinery into a set position on the edge adjacent to the buzz-saw. The car then starts. On its forward movement the portion of the log's surface at its end comes in contact with the buzz-saw and as the log moves rapidly forward that surface is severed from it. Thus one of the four sides of the huge beam, as it soon will become, is shaved. The car with its log then backs to its former position, the toothed bar again emerges, or rather jumps, from the flooring, the log is caught, as lightly as if it were a match, and is turned in such a position on its car that it is exactly at a right angle with the previously shaved surface. Again the log is carried forward, again it is quickly ripped through by the buzz-saw, and another side of the beam is shaved. In this way the log, stripped of its circular girth, is converted into a square beam, each of its sides being in width about one foot.

The beam, now released from its set position on its car by the workman operating that vehicle, is placed on rollers, on which it moves forward to a smaller place of apparatus. On this it approaches another buzz-saw as it did the first, backs, approaches again, and so forth until the beam is sawed, or what would more lucidly describe it, sliced, into planks, which in size are about one foot and two inches.

These are the two principal operations through which the log passes. After its second cutting the planks are sawed into the uniform sizes in which lumber is used in building operations. Naturally, the most important pieces of apparatus in a lumber mill are its saws. These are of many sizes but of only two principal shapes—the buzz-saw and the perpendicular saw. The use to which the former is put has been described. The perpendicular saw is one, fashioned from steel of a springy quality, that emerges from the flooring and meets the planks as they, by the rollers, are pushed toward it. As one observes their razor-like teeth and contemplates the terrific power which over the building, it by a system of chutes, is fed into the basement of the mill, where, incredible as it may appear to the layman, it feeds dry and night the large furnaces which heat the boilers of the plant. About the price of coal the lumber mill owner never worries. Such a visit to such a mill is both interesting and instructive. To the spectator it is amazing to observe the rapidity with which these huge, bark-covered logs are converted into clean, finished lumber. It seemed that, as the great tree-trunks, as little effort was required as would be necessary in cutting with a table knife a loaf of bread.

MISS JESSIE AMES

Becomes the Bride of Mr. Andrew Marshall

The marriage of Mr. Andrew Marshall of Boston, an assistant to the attorney general and a former well known member of the Dartmouth and Harvard football teams, and Miss Jessie Ames, the youngest daughter of General and Mrs. Adelbert Ames, was solemnized last night at the home of the bride's parents in Tewksbury in the presence of some thirty guests, all relatives of the contracting couple.

The marriage ceremony was performed at 6:15 o'clock by Rev. Mr. Leavens of Fitchburg, assisted by Rev. Benjamin S. Marshall of New Rochelle, N. Y. Mr. Marshall was attended by his brother, Rev. Robert E. Marshall of Hartford, Conn., while the bride was unattended.

At 7 o'clock a wedding supper was served, and at 8 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Marshall left by automobile for Boston, on their way to a month's stay in the Maine woods.

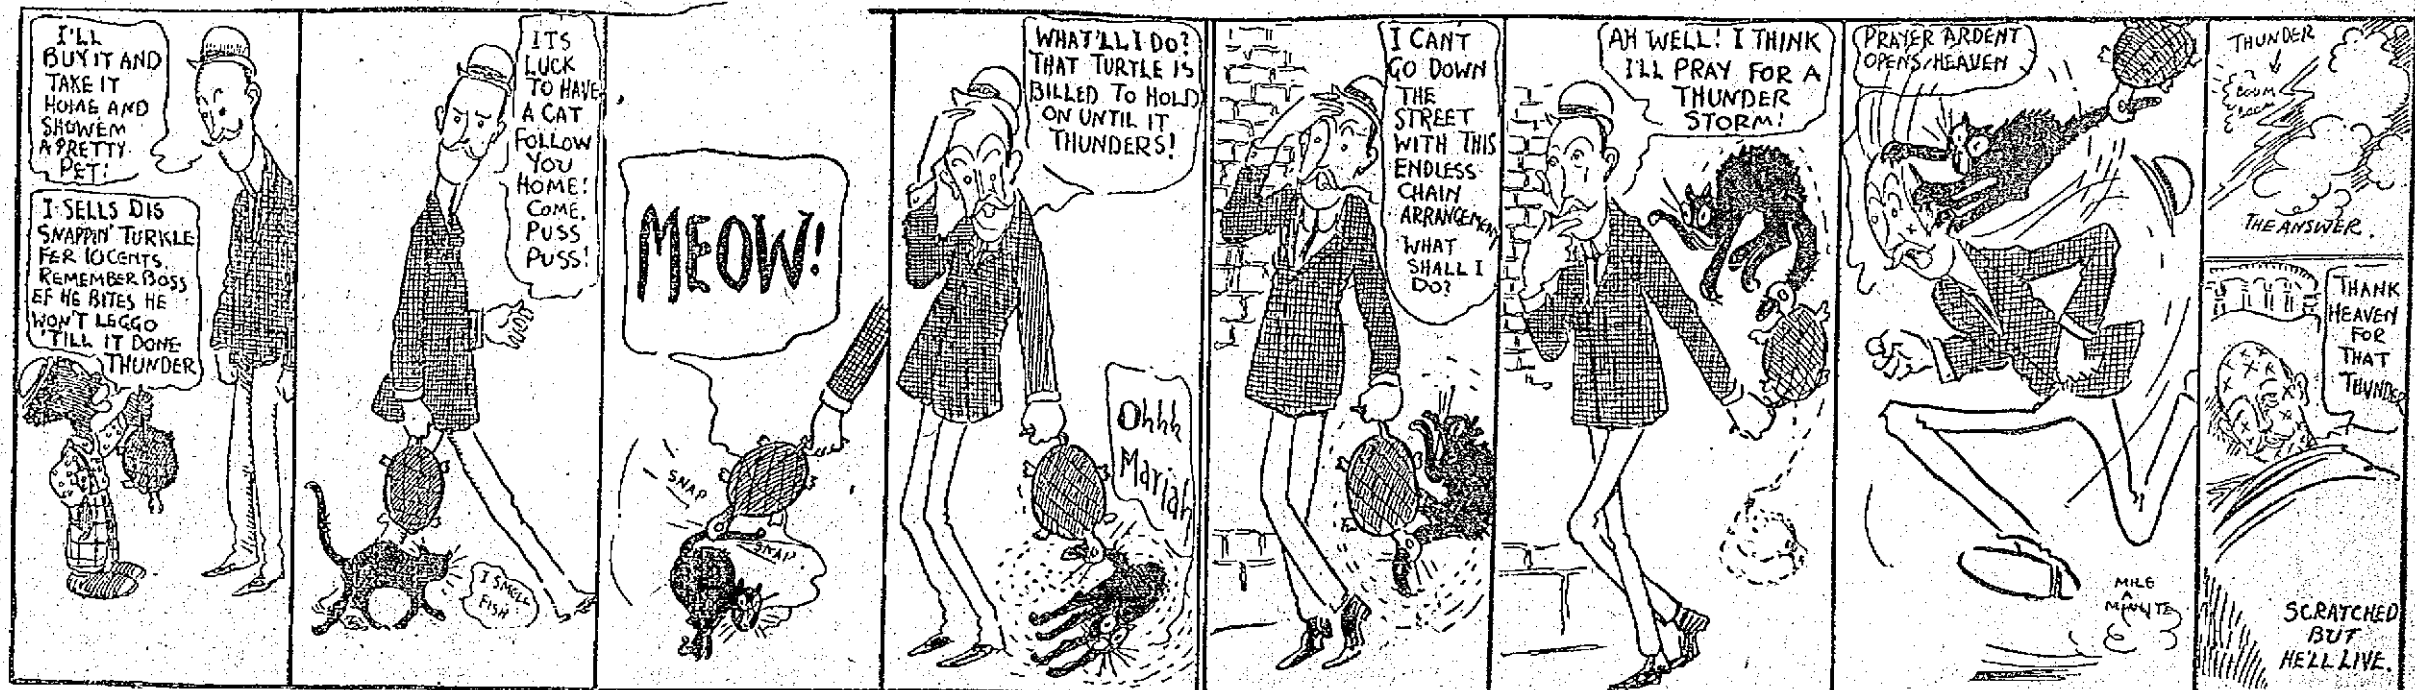

The guests at the wedding were: Hon. Butler Ames, Adelbert Ames, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Stevens and family, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Borden and family of Fall River; Mr. and Mrs. Oakes Ames and family of North Easton; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Butler of Lowell; Mrs. Andrew Marshall, Miss Florence M. Marshall, Miss Jennette M. Marshall of Jamaica Plain; Rev. and Mrs. Benjamin S. Marshall of New Rochelle, N. Y.; Rev. Robert E. Marshall of Hartford, Conn.; Dr. and Mrs. Augustus T. Marshall of Chelsea, Vt.; Rev. Robert Leavens of Fitchburg; Dr. Royal Hatch of Weymouth; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nesmith and Miss Nesmith of Tewksbury.

MR. I. L. SHOWEM BUYS A SNAPPING TURTLE—THEREBY HANGS A TALE

OFFICIAL RETURNS

Show That Maine Citizens Voted to Repeal Prohibition

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 19.—Official returns from the special election of last Monday, when Maine voted on the question of the repeal of the prohibitory amendment to the constitution, canvassed by the governor and council last night, showed a majority in favor of repeal of 26 votes.

The tabulation of the vote was completed late last night after the council had been in session since mid-afternoon.

Some doubt still remains as to the correctness of the returns and Gov. Plaisted announced that city and town clerks would be given an opportunity to make corrections during the next 20 days.

In more than a dozen instances the figures as received by the governor and council did not agree with those sent to the secretary of state. His figures showed a majority in favor of repeal of 136 votes. The towns in which there were changes were as follows:

Town	Official Figures	Secretary's Figures
Cumberland	106	176
Westfield	108	9
Salem	12	31
Porter	42	132
Grand Falls	4	1
Brownville	99	132
Bowbank	134	29
Althorn	13	16
Concord	32	78
Alna	45	37
Bradley	45	37
Topsfield	63	64
Perry	63	64

Issue Still in Doubt

The returns from the town of Limestone and St. Francis and Matinicus Isle plantations, which have been questioned, compared exactly with those which were received by Sec. of State Davis, but in two instances, Limestone and Matinicus Isle, the returns are reversed from the unofficial returns received elsewhere.

In the cases of Salem, Brownville, Bowbank, Topsfield, the official returns agreed with unofficial figures, but were reversed from the returns as received by the secretary of state.

With the result standing as close as it now appears a correction of the vote of any of the towns where a change was shown tonight would have

Not Final, Says Governor

The total vote of the state as shown by the official figures tabulated tonight are as follows:

For repeal, 60,487.
Against repeal, 60,461.
Majority for repeal, 26.

Councilor Turgeon, who had charge of the operation of the adding machine, stated that the figures were subject to verification.

The council adjourned last night to meet today at which time the matter of receiving corrections will be discussed.

Sec. of State Davis already has on file in his office a telegram from the town clerk of Limestone in regard to the incorrectness of his returns.

"This result is by no means final," said Gov. Plaisted last night. "It is subject to correction by the town and city clerks."

May, recount whole vote.

"Of course," said Gov. Plaisted, "the corrections that are to be made during the next 20 days, certified statements taken from the town records, may change the result."

"Our duty under the statutes is plain, and if any question arises not made entirely clear under our laws, we have the right and privilege to ask and receive the advice of the supreme court."

"I should say the probability of a recount does not seem as likely as a few days ago, as there appears to be some readiness on the part of the city and town officials to correct any errors that may have been made. A certain amount of proof will be necessary and I have no doubt this will be furnished."

After the several corrections and amendments are made, it then seems advisable, by reason of any conditions that may arise, to have a recount of the whole state, the opinion of the supreme court will probably be sought on this matter."

Mrs. Stevens Lauds Plaisted

Just after the total vote was announced, after midnight, Mrs. L. M. Stevens of Portland, president of the national W. C. T. U., who was all through the count an interested spectator, pressing forward through the crowd, grasped the hand of Gov. Plaisted and congratulated him and the members of the council upon the fair and businesslike manner in which the canvass had been conducted.

With Mrs. Stevens was Miss Gordon, her private secretary, who was also introduced to the governor. Mrs. Stevens said:

"While I feel assured that after the several corrections are made by the town clerks the majority vote will be on the 'no side,' yet I feel that, so far as any records have reached the governor, he has been eminently fair in the matter. I regret that the mistakes by the town clerks should have been made, but I understand they are not uncommon in every election."

"I feel confident that every effort will be made to get a correct expression of the people, and I do not feel for a moment that any of the present administration will take any unfair advantage of the situation."

"We Win," Says Fassett

Frederick G. Fassett, the secretary of the Maine non-partisan local self-government league, last night made the following statement:

"The official returns to the governor and council show a victory for the repeal vote. There is no reason to assume that such corrections as may be made in the returns will alter the result. Corrections which will change the vote on the one side are likely to be offset by corrections, which will change it on the other."

NEXT STEP IN DOUBT

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 19.—The matter of a special session of the legislature is engaging attention here, and there is considerable speculation over the wording of the resolve submitting the prohibitory amendment to the people.

Some lawyers contend that the legislature does not necessarily mean this legislature. On the other hand, it is argued that if the next legislature were meant to be designated as the body to which the governor and council should report the result of the canvass it would have been so stated in the resolve, just as it was in chapter 93 of the resolves of 1893, which placed the amendment in the constitution. That resolve contains the following language: "And the governor and council shall open, examine and count the same and make return thereof to the next legislature."

The resolve providing for the vote upon the prohibitory amendment, at the election recently held, says nothing about a proclamation by the governor, provided a majority of the votes cast are in favor of the proposed amendment annulling the prohibitory amendment, but simply states that "The governor and council shall count the same and make return to the legislature, and if a majority of the votes are in favor of said amendment, the constitution shall be amended accordingly."

Some of those who favor an extra session of the legislature claim that by the wording of the resolve submitting the prohibitory amendment, the legislature is made a returning board, and in case the canvass by the governor and council shows a majority of votes in favor of the repeal of the prohibitory amendment, the constitution cannot be properly changed until the return of the governor and council is made to the legislature and passed upon by that body.

Those opposed to this argument quote sections 2 and 3 of chapter 1 of the Revised Statutes as supporting the contention that if the amendment to the state constitution repealing the prohibitory amendment is declared passed it takes effect automatically upon the first Wednesday of January, 1912, and that within 30 days after the amendment appears to have been adopted the governor shall make proclamation thereof.

Section 2 reads as follows: "Unless otherwise provided in the resolve submitting it, every constitutional amendment shall take effect and become part of the constitution on the first Wednesday of January, following its adoption by the people."

Section 3 says: "Within 30 days after it appears that a constitutional amendment has been adopted the governor shall make proclamation thereof, and the secretary of state shall forthwith cause such proclamation to be published in the state paper, and it shall also be prefixed to the next volume of acts and resolves."

THE CANVASS RESUMED

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 19.—Governor Plaisted and the members of his council, who were in session until midnight last night canvassing the returns on the questions of the repeal of the constitutional prohibitory amendment voted on at the special election last Monday, reconvened this morning to continue the tabulation on other questions voted on at the same time and to give the clerks of the towns in which the returns are in dispute an opportunity to present evidence of error and make corrections.

The figures as tabulated last night showed an apparent official majority of 26 in favor of repeal but these figures Gov. Plaisted declares to be by no means final.

The clerks have 30 days in which to make corrections and until that time the result cannot positively be known.

said the governor.

The apparent majority of the "wet" side has not disheartened the "drys" and this morning they were busy taking steps to see that returns from towns which they still maintain voted "dry" in spite of the official returns are corrected.

THE SPENCER TRIAL

Will Begin in Springfield on Nov. 13

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 19.—Monday, Nov. 13, has been selected as the day for the opening in the superior court here of the trial of Bertram G. Spencer, charged with the murder of Miss Mary B. Blackstone in this city on March 31, 1910. It is expected that the prosecution will be conducted by Attorney-General Swift of Fall River.

The defense is generally expected to be insanity. Spencer is reported to be in poor physical condition and it is barely possible that he will not be well enough to face trial in November. He collapsed completely last week when one of the prisoners at the jail attempted to hang himself.

Miss Blackstone was shot and killed during an attack by a burglar upon another woman and herself.

COLORADO WOMEN

WANT TO ATTEND TAFT BANQUET AT DENVER

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 19.—"Let the women do the work" is the sad refrain of Colorado suffragettes who are turning their wrath against those in charge of the banquet to President Taft on the occasion of his visit here October 3. Basing their request on the grounds that this is an equal suffrage state and that the votes of women were largely responsible for the success of the three republican candidates who broke the solid democratic administration in the state election last fall, women politicians asked for places at the banquet board.

They received coupons entitling them to seats in the gallery and the privilege of watching the men eat.

"Not room enough for the men, to say nothing of the women," was the reply of the banquet committee to protests from the women.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—Baseball fans who follow the fortunes of the world's champions were a little disturbed today that "Chief" Bender, the star Indian pitcher, is confined to his bed with the grip. Accused of their commanding lead, the Athletics fully expected to win the American league pennant and were planning for the world's series. Bender's illness may disarrange these plans unless he quickly responds to treatment. Connie Mack said today he expected to use the "chief" in the coming Detroit series and then rest him up for the prospective series with the National league pennant winners.

CANADIAN ELECTION

The Campaign is Approaching the End

ST. JOHN, N. B., Sept. 19.—All thought rests on the decision of the voters on Thursday next. Campaign literature and orators have done their share and the rest is for the man whose "X" on the ballot paper will mean so much to the great parties which have been carrying Canada through an election turmoil declared unequalled since the provinces became federated as the Dominion in 1867.

In this section the liberals are fighting to hold the 11 seats which they occupied in the last house of commons and to capture from the opposition the other two, St. John city and York county, which make up the 13 to which this province is entitled. They predict that they will elect 12 representatives but admit doubt about winning York county, where O. S. Crockett, conservative, defeated his liberal opponent in 1908 by more than 800 votes. A stronger man, Dr. Atherton, is opposing Crockett this time, however, and there is expected at least to be a reduction of his majority. The government workers are hopeful that Hon. William Pugsley, minister of public works, who is running in St. John city and whose return is expected with confidence, will carry with him James Lowell as the city and county member, thereby defeating Dr. J. W. Daniel, conservative, who was the St. John city member in the last house, but is this time running in the county.

On the other hand, the conservatives say they will win several seats in the province and will re-elect Crockett and Daniel and perhaps defeat Pugsley himself. The campaign for the last seven weeks has been intense. It is practically all reciprocity, for or against and the trade agreement has been presented in all forms to attract the voters to the government policy and equally vigorously it has been torn up and turned against Canadian interests by papers supporting R. A. Borden, the conservative leader.

The most marked feature of the whole campaign, however, has been the "waving of the old flag." This has been the conservative appeal in great part—that reciprocity was but a step toward annexation of Canada by the Americans and a consequent breaking of the Dominion's political connection with the British Empire. Disloyalty has been proclaimed from the platform and preached from the press in the appeal to the voters to defeat the reciprocity agreement.

The liberals have met this by quoting conservative leaders from the days of Sir John A. McDonald down as eager for reciprocity with the United States. They also have contended that between Petri-Bourassa, leader of the French Nationalist party in Quebec, and the conservative leaders there is a practical alliance. The Nationalists, fighting chiefly made against Laurier's policy of a Canadian navy to be at the disposal of Great Britain in case of an empire war.

The liberals have sought to break the conservative loyalty attack by stating that King George is most anxious for the peace arbitration treaty with the United States.

Anty Drudge on Marriage.

Miss Dolly Dainty—"I certainly do love James—but he's far too poor for us to get married. I'm not strong enough to do the family washing myself, and we cannot afford a girl."

Anty Drudge—"Get married right away if that's all that stops you. You're plenty strong enough to wash clothes the Fels-Naptha way. Fels-Naptha is easy on the woman; easy on the clothes."

Easy on the woman: easy on the clothes! That, in a nutshell, is the Fels-Naptha way of washing.

Fels-Naptha soap does away with all the hard and disagreeable part of washing clothes. Little rubbing, no steaming suds to bend over, no keeping up fire to boil the clothes, no nauseous odor from cooking soiled garments.

Then, clothes last longer with no boiling to weaken their fiber and no hard rubbing to wear them thin.

Look for the red and green wrapper.

"God Bless The Man Who Invented Sleep!"

NO one but a victim of insomnia can realize the suffering, the despair that goes with sleeplessness. The more sleep the less able he is to sleep until it is no wonder that in his fear of ultimate complete breakdown he tries with some dangerous drug, which while it stupefies, leaves the nervous system weaker than ever, and a prey to habit. The labels of most remedies for sleeplessness reveal coal-tar products and opiates as active principles.

BLACK HAND THREAT LYONS IS INDICTED

Sharon Man is Told to Leave Money at Cambridge

SHARON, Sept. 19.—A writer of threatening letters, who represents himself as the agent of the dreaded Black Hand, has demanded $500 from a citizen of this town as a ransom for the life of his son, and for the second time in three months the demand is that the money be left at the Cambridge side of the West Boston bridge in Boston.

At 12:30 Sunday morning, July 16, two young men went to the Cambridge side of the West Boston bridge to comply with the demands of the blackmailer made upon another Boston business man, but they were arrested, and in a plot to accomplish his capture, which failed, the two young Italians were arrested charged with carrying loaded revolvers.

George Mogavero of Washington park, in this town, a prosperous Boston business man, is the latest victim of the black-handers. He was commanded in the letter to leave $500 at the bridge at 1 o'clock tonight and warned that if he failed or notified the police his house would be blown up.

Written in Italian, the letter bore no signature, but at the end of the communication there were five hearts, each preceded by a dripping arrow, there being a drop of blood on the point of each arrow.

The letter was turned over to Chief of Police H. J. Derry, who sent Constable Charles S. Curds with it to Boston, where it was delivered to the federal authorities. Inspector Jennings of the postoffice department was detailed to the case and he began an investigation.

Mogavero, who is in business on Haverhill street, Boston, was not terrorized by the money demand and the threat to blow up his home, but he has suffered complete nervous collapse. He said he was unable to throw any light on the identity of the writers and added that he did not know that he had ever one enemy.

The letter was mailed in Boston Sept. 11, but did not reach Mr. Mogavero until yesterday. Through a mistake it was placed in a box in which all mail matter arriving here for employees of the Hough-Nava construction company is delivered. It was returned to the Sharon postoffice Saturday, and delivered at Mr. Mogavero's home yesterday.

The letter said that a previous communication had been sent Mogavero, but that it had not been answered. Mr. Mogavero said he had not received any such previous communication.

Mr. Mogavero occupies a pretty residence in Washington park, and is well known in this town. His family includes two small daughters.

WAITED AT BRIDGE FOR BLACK HANDERS.

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—Camela Spinale, a candy dealer living at 58 Hale street, West End of Boston, has received several similar, supposed to be Black Hand communications, during the past two years, and in each one he was commanded to leave the money at the Cambridge side of the West Boston bridge.

On July 5 he received a threatening letter and he communicated with the police of division 2 on Joy street. The amount demanded of Spinale was $500.

On the following Tuesday and the following Thursday he received other letters. On Thursday night, July 12, Sergeant Parker and two officers of the Joy street station went to the Cambridge end of the bridge with Spinale's nephews, Frank, 27, of 49 Hale street, and Domenick, 22, of 52 Hale street, and began a watch for the agent of the Black Hand.

The officers were concealed in doorways while the Spinale boys walked about looking for the Italian wearing a green handkerchief about his neck. In the letters the writer explained that he would wear such a handkerchief so that the Spinale boys would know him.

Patrolman James D. Russell of the Cambridge police noticed the two young Italians behaving suspiciously and he accosted them and was about to arrest them when a Boston policeman came out of his hiding place and explained the circumstances, and they were allowed to go unharmed.

On Sunday morning, July 16, Patrolman Russell saw two men pursuing another man who had just come out of the parkway and was being toward Boston over the bridge. Russell caught the two men and at once recognized them as the Spinale boys who had been with the Boston policeman on the Thursday night previous.

The third man they were pursuing escaped. The Spinale boys explained their mission and also that they were alone, this time the Boston policeman being otherwise engaged and could not take part in the attempt to trap the black-handers. Each of the Spinale boys had a loaded .38-calibre revolver. Patrolman Russell looked them up on the charge of carrying loaded weapons.

The police have their suspicions concerning the identity of the sender of the letter and they also suspect that he is a resident of the West End of Boston. The suspect is being watched.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

CUT HIS THROAT

Man Brooded Over the Death of His Wife

Jeremiah Powers, while mentally deranged, cut his throat last night at the home of his brother, a rear of 291 Lakeview avenue. Mr. Powers was 40 years of age, and until recently was employed in the Higelow Carpet company, but over a month ago he lost his employment, and since that time he has been unable to secure work. This fact, and the further fact of the sorrowful demise of his wife, has made the man despondent.

Powers lived with his brother Nicholas since the death of his wife, and yesterday, while a trifle cast down over his inability to get work, seemed to be in good spirits and health. He ate supper with the family at 6 o'clock and went to his room on the second floor. A little after 7 o'clock he was found with life extinct, in a pool of blood, from a gash in his throat. Officer John Sullivan was notified and Medical Examiner Meigs was called to view the body, which was later removed to the rooms of Undertaker McKenna.

LARCENY CHARGED

The Case Was Heard in Police Court Today

Judge Hadley presided over the session of police court this morning, and found awaiting his attention several offenders charged with drunkenness, and assault. The most important case was the complaint against Anna Kobulski, and Mary Smith, alias Mary Kozarska, charging them with the larceny of a promissory note and a mortgage deed to the value of $2150 from the person of John J. Gray, in the town of Billerica last Wednesday afternoon. There was also another complaint in connection with this same transaction charging John Connolly with receiving stolen property, that is the receiving of the note and deed in question. Both defendants pleaded not guilty. The government was represented by Attorney John W. McEvoy, and the defendants were represented by W. A. Hogan. The case was an extremely long drawn out affair, lasting the greater portion of the entire session. The facts in this case have previously appeared in these columns.

Nicholas Vlahos, charged with assault and battery upon Stathoula Socoreles, was continued until Tuesday, the 26th day of September, because the complainant was unable to be present, being at the present time in the hospital in a very dangerous condition. The alleged assault took place September 16th, and the woman is still in a serious condition.

Thomas E. Murray has been before the court on several occasions for drunkenness, and this being his third time this year he was sentenced to six months in jail. He appealed but was advised to withdraw his appeal.

Peter F. Maynard was assessed $5, because this was the third time that he appeared before the court charged with the offence of drunkenness.

Michael Brown, and Daniel G. Reagan were sent back to the state farm. Louis Charren will sober up at the stone mansion where he will sojourn for the next ten days.

Peter Rife, third offence was sentenced to three months in jail. Michael Cassidy was paroled from the jail yesterday by the local probation officer, and proceeded to jail again, and this morning he found himself in the police court again charged with drunkenness. He pleaded guilty, and was represented by Lawyer Joseph B. Loughran, who related to the court that the defendant was the father of a large family, and upon Mr. Loughran's representations the court placed the defendant upon probation.

John Lander, and Rodczek Lander were charged with assault and battery upon Peter Konowiskie, both pleaded not guilty and were held in $200 for their appearance before the court next Thursday morning. There were three two dollar fines and four released by the probation officer.

Found Not Guilty
Judge Hadley found that there was no probable cause in the case of the government vs. Anna Kobulski and Mary Smith, charged with the larceny of a note, and mortgage to the value of $2150 from John J. Gray, and the defendants were discharged. John Connolly, charged with receiving stolen property in connection with the same transaction, was also ordered discharged as his honor could find no probable cause. Judge Hadley in rendering his decision said that the evidence showed that there was no felonious intent, and that whatever really happened it was due to the ignorance and a misunderstanding on the part of the defendants.

EXCUSE ME!

DEATHS

GRUSH—Mrs. Mary M. Grush, an old resident of this city, passed away very suddenly at her home, 104 Hale street, Tuesday morning, aged 82 years. She is survived by one son, Joseph G. Grush of Dorchester, Mass., and one daughter, Miss Cora Grush of this city. Funeral notice later.

SMITH—Mrs. Catherine Smith, aged 70 years, died this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James McBride, 17 Lawrence street. Deceased was a well known member of St. Peter's parish, and she leaves to mourn her loss, two sons, James of Groverdale, Conn., Thomas of East Greenwald, R.I., and two daughters, Mrs. James McBride of this city and Mrs. James Duffy of River Point, R.I., and one sister, Miss Annie Smith of River Point, R.I. Providence papers please copy.

McMAHON—The many friends of Mary E. McMahon will be pained to learn of her sad demise which occurred this morning at her late home, 211 West London street. The deceased was 36 years of age, and one of the most popular residents of the Sacred Heart Parish, and a most devout Catholic. She leaves to mourn her loss, a loving father and mother, Mr. John and Mrs. Elizabeth McMahon, and two brothers, William J. and John H.

FUNERALS

TIGHE—The funeral of the late Miss Margaret Tighe took place this morning from the chapel of J. F. O'Donnell & Sons at 9:15 o'clock. The cortege proceeded to St. Peter's church where at 9:30 o'clock a mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan. The choir under the direction of James E. Donnelly sang the Gregorian mass, the songs being sustained by Miss Whitley and Mr. Donnelly. Mrs. McKennedy presided at the organ. The bearers were John and Charles Sweeney, Chas. Leclair and Henry McDonald. At the grave Rev. Fr. Heffernan read the committal prayers and the burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery in charge of Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

NORTON—The funeral of Mrs. Mary J. Norton took place this morning at 9:30 from her late home, 9 Cornhill street, and was largely attended. A funeral high mass was celebrated in St. Michael's church at 9 o'clock by Rev. Fr. Murphy, the Gregorian chant was sung by the choir. The soloists were Thomas Boulger and Miss Sweeney. Miss Marie O'Donnell was the organist. The burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, where Rev. Fr. Murphy read the prayers at the grave. The bearers were Martin Howard, John Doyle, Michael Doyle and Mr. Keleher. There were many floral offerings. C. H. Molloy & Sons had charge of the funeral.

HOWARD—The funeral of Mrs. Catherine Howard took place yesterday afternoon from the rooms of Undertaker J. F. O'Donnell & Sons and was largely attended. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, where Rev. George Mullin of St. Michael's church read the committal prayers.

CATHERINE DALTON

A Bright Young Girl Passed Away

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dalton of 55 Nesmith street will learn with extreme sympathy of the death of their beloved daughter, Catherine Louise, aged 17 years and 9 months, which occurred at her parents' home last night at 9 o'clock, after a long illness, which she bore with Christian fortitude. Although she had been sick for nine months her death was entirely unexpected. Being of a lovable disposition, Catherine had endeared herself to all with whom she came in contact. She was highly accomplished both as a musician and a student, and had her health remained perfect she would have graduated with the class of 1911 from the Notre Dame Academy. She received her early education at the Immaculate Conception parochial school and being an apt scholar her progress was rapid. Upon graduating from her parish school she entered the Academy of the Sisters of Notre Dame in Adams street and distinguished herself in all branches of its curriculum. For several years she has been associated with the orchestra of the academy as 'cellist soloist.

She is survived by her father, Edward, the well known conductor of the Boston & Maine railroad, and her mother, Catherine. Also one sister, Mary, and three brothers, John J., the well known tenor soloist, Frank and William, employees of the Boston & Maine railroad, and an aunt, Miss Margaret McDonough. It is the wish of the family that friends will please omit flowers. Funeral notice later.

An Excellent Broth
Involve's Evening Request
To a cup of good beef, lamb, veal or chicken broth, add a tablespoonful of barley, a few slices of onion, a few hot with a teaspoonful or two of whipped cream on top, if desired. A few saltines may be served with this. This makes a very invigorating drink, as well as being of great benefit and nourishing to the patient. It is wonderfully refreshing to the healthy.

TRUSTEES' SALE OF REAL ESTATE AT PUBLIC AUCTION

Wednesday, Sept. 20, 1911, at 3 P. M.

One 2-tenement house, Nos. 88 and 90, Perry street. Two one-family houses, Nos. 94 and 102 Perry street and nine lots of land adjoining, all situated on Perry street and two lots of land on Concord street.

To settle the estate of the late M. A. Smith, I shall sell at public auction to the person who will bid the highest, the following described real estate: Lot No. 1, consisting of a 2 1/2 story, 2-tenement slate roof house and 3000 square feet of land with a frontage of 50 feet on Perry street. There are two tenements, 4 rooms downstairs and 4 rooms and two at the top. Each has city water, gas, separate toilets, separate front and back entrances and rents for $17 per month. Has concrete walks and the buildings are in good condition. All you need would be a little paint.

Lots Nos. 2 and 3 consist of two one-family houses, being Nos. 94 and 102 Perry street. Each house is 2 1/2 stories, slated roofs, of 8 rooms each and two attics, and about 3000 feet of land, with a frontage of 50 feet, very conveniently arranged, has city water, gas, sewerage, has concrete walks and rents for $13 per month each. The present tenants have been in the tenement nine years and want to stay.

Lots 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, are lots adjoining Lot No. 3 on Perry street and contain from 3000 to 3400 square feet each, having a 50 foot frontage. Lots Nos. 13 and 14 are situated on Concord street and contain 2400 square feet 40x50 and 4950 square feet, 65x90. This property is situated within 10 minutes' walk of the centre of the city, close to many workshops and mills so that it ought to appeal to any person who wants a home that is all built, or a piece of land that you could build on to suit your own taste. Don't fail to attend this sale as you may lose your opportunity.

Terms of sale: $200 in cash must be paid as a deposit to the auctioneer on each of the lots, Nos. 1, 2 and 3 as soon as they are struck off; $50 in cash on each of the lots of land.

Per order H. P. BEALS, and D. H. DEWAR, Trustees.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANK

To Be Established in This City
Next Month

A postal savings bank will soon be started in this city according to a letter received today by Postmaster Joseph A. Legare from the postmaster general.

The letter announces that the postal savings bank will be started in Lowell on Oct. 21, the said bank to be in the money order department. This bit of news undoubtedly will be well received by the citizens of Lowell, who have been longing for a bank of that sort for a long while.

The following letter, which is self-explanatory, was today mailed by the postmaster to the owners and agents of the large buildings of this city:

In accordance with instructions received from the post office department notice is given hereby that after October 1, 1911, no delivery of mail matter will be made by letter carriers above the second floor of office buildings not equipped with elevators, nor to the different rooms or suites on any floor in apartment or tenement houses or blocks, whether or not they are equipped with elevators.

Boxes should be provided on the second floor of office buildings not equipped with elevators, and in the front hall on the lower floor of apartment or tenement houses and blocks; or arrangements should be made for some responsible person to receive the mail and distribute it to the occupants of the building.

Respectfully,
J. A. Legare, Postmaster.

CASE OF EBEN W. SEARS

Will be Heard in Superior Court
Tomorrow Afternoon

Eben W. Sears, Jr., former police officer of Lynn and at one time a candidate for mayor in that city, who was recently indicted by the Middlesex county grand jury for alleged extortion,

Sears was arraigned in police court, probable cause found and he was held for the grand jury and subsequently the grand jury indicted him.

Pearson will leave for Washington tomorrow to investigate the validity of the Hassam patents which are alleged to be infringed.

FUNERAL NOTICE

HILL—Died, in Boston, Sept. 17, Dr. A. W. Hill, aged 47 years. Funeral services will be held Wednesday forenoon at 11 o'clock at his home in Concord, N. H., and at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon services will be held at the Edison cemetery chapel, Lowell. Friends invited. J. A. Weinbeck, undertaker.

An anniversary mass of requiem for the soul of Mrs. Thomas F. Beniger was celebrated at the Immaculate Conception church this morning.

HUGH FERGUSON

was to have been brought before the criminal session of the superior court at East Cambridge today to answer to the complaint, but owing to the inability of his counsel, James H. Vane, the case was continued till tomorrow afternoon at four o'clock, at which time it will be disposed of.

It is understood that there will be no trial.

It is alleged that Sears paid frequent visits to this city and intimated to Hugh Ferguson of the St. James hotel that he had evidence of illegal keeping or sale of liquor against him but would "drop the matter and not push the case" if Ferguson would produce $10. It is alleged that Ferguson told Sears to come around at a later date and in the meantime the matter was reported to the police and when Sears did appear it is said that the local police inspectors, who were in another room, heard enough of the conversation between Ferguson and Sears to warrant the arrest of the latter.

TROUBLE IN SPAIN

A Revolutionary Plot is Suspected by the Government

MADRID, Sept. 19.—Martial law has been declared in Spain.

This followed reports of violence in connection with the workingmen's strikes which have been called in various cities to further the government's, a revolutionary plot.

The most serious situation was at Valencia, where a general strike was declared yesterday. The city was at once placed under martial law, and though there was more or less rioting throughout the day, the authorities have matters pretty well in hand until after dark when the disturbers vented their fury in an attack upon the officials in the adjacent township of Cullera.

The rioters murdered a judge and wounded other officers of the court which had been engaged in the trial of those who had been arrested earlier in the day. The mob was finally dispersed by guards from the custom-house.

Strikes have also been declared at Bilbao, Saragossa, Cadiz, Huelva, Seville, Gijon and other cities. In some of these places the movement had been but partially successful.

Premier Canalejas announces that the government has in its possession the details of a revolutionary plot uncovered at Valencia and Barcelona. Part of this plot was to assassinate General Weyler, captain-general of Catalonia.

The government claims to know the names of all the conspirators and the sources of their supplies. It is claimed that the movement at Barcelona has failed of importance.

The last previous time when martial law was declared in Spain was in the summer of 1909, when the efforts of the government to put down the revolutionary outbreak culminated in the execution of Prof. Ferrer, a distinguished educationalist of anti-monarchist principles. The trouble, which began at Barcelona, was caused by popular opposition to the Spanish campaign against the Rifas in Morocco.

STRIKE IN IRELAND

The Strike Breakers Met With a
Hostile Reception in Dublin

DUBLIN, Sept. 19.—There was no improvement today in the situation resulting from the strike declared originally on the Great Southern & Western railroad, and which is extending over the Great Northern and the Midland Great Western, thus affecting the three principal lines of railroad communication in Ireland. Traffic generally was discontinued.

The executives of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants were in session today considering the situation. Pending the result of these deliberations the strikers generally were quiet. Forty Scottish strikebreakers arrived this morning and met a hostile reception from the strikers, who attempted to stampede them. A big police escort routed the attacking party.

Another party of strike breakers from Manchester were met by strike pickets, who persuaded most of the newcomers not to go to work.

Leaving Crawford Notch on the morning of the second day the party journeyed on an private Pullman cars to Quebec, passing through the picturesque scenery of the White Mountain range, on the west side, in full view of Mount Washington and other famous mountain peaks, arriving in the city of Quebec at night. After a night in Quebec on the steamer Murray Bay, the tourists were on their way up the beautiful St. Lawrence and the picturesque Saguenay river bounded by hills and precipices of sombre and impressive grandeur. Chicoutimi, a busy little lumbering town at the head of navigation, was reached early in the morning, where the tourists visited the cathedrals and seminaries. On the return trip a stop was made at Tadoussac, a quaint village picturesquely situated above the confluence of the St. Lawrence and Saguenay rivers, where early in the 16th century the French traders fixed their first post. The most interesting spot to visitors here is the little chapel of the Jesuit mission, the oldest church in Canada. The next important stop was at Murray Bay, the famous watering place of the lower St. Lawrence. Here President Taft learned to play golf and for many years previous to his election he and his family spent their summers in a cottage which he still owns, over which the American flag still waves. Further down the river Cape Trinity is reached and is quite easily recognized by its formation. It rises from the dark waters in three distinct elevations, each one about six hundred feet in height, one great mountain-cape with three crowns, surmounted by an immense statue of the Blessed Virgin. After a sail of two days and two nights the party returned to Quebec in the morning. From Quebec a journey was made in private cars to the shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre and Montserrat falls.

At Quebec splendid accommodations were provided at the Chateau Frontenac, and the next day given to carriage drives around the city visiting the principal churches and other points of interest.

Montreal was reached on Saturday evening and the tourists proceeded to the Place Viger hotel, where they were comfortably located during their stay in Montreal. On Sunday the party in private carriages visited Mount Royal and the magnificent churches throughout the city. Owing to the low water the trip to the Lachine Rapids had to be abandoned, but instead Mr. Mooney arranged a delightful trip around the city in private cars.

At the present time in Montreal there is great excitement over the reelection issue to be voted upon at the election on the 21st instant. The opposition is putting out all kinds of boggy and false statements to scare the people into voting against reelection.

The return trip was made in private Pullman cars leaving Montreal at 5 o'clock Monday morning, passing along the east slope of the White Mountain range, affording a grand view of the mountains and lakes, and reaching Lowell at 7:30 in the evening.

There were 75 in the party including tourists from Salem, Lynn, Marblehead, Swampscott, Somerville, Charlestown, Newburyport, Methuen, Lawrence, Chelmsford and Lowell. The Lowell people on the trip were:

Miss O. C. Peterson, Miss Maud McPherson, Miss Etta Robinson, Mr. Francis E. Appleton, Mrs. F. B. Appleton, Mr. Millard F. Davis, Mrs. M. F. Davis, Mr. M. H. Reddy, Mrs. M. H. Reddy, Mr. C. K. HIS SKULL FRACTURED

North Chelmsford Man Met With
a Serious Accident

Clarence Sprague, aged 62 years, a native and a life-long resident of North Chelmsford, met with a very painful and serious accident this morning on the Boston and Maine railroad tracks in North Chelmsford and he now lies at St. John's hospital in a very dangerous condition, suffering from a fracture at the base of the skull.

Just how the accident occurred or the real cause of the same seems to be clouded in mystery as no one could be found who could give the details of the unfortunate occurrence. The man was found on the tracks this morning at 6:20 o'clock by some workmen, and later taken to St. John's hospital. At the hospital the authorities say that they know nothing of the particulars or the history of the accident, and that the men who accompanied the victim to the hospital could not give practically any information other than that he was found on the tracks, and that his name is Clarence Sprague, and that he was an old resident of North Chelmsford. The depot master at North Chelmsford said that he heard of the accident but that so far as he knew no record had been made and none of the details had been reported at his office.

SUIT FOR $5,000,000

Has Been Entered Against the
So-Called Powder Trust

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 19.—The Buckeye Powder Co., which formerly manufactured powder at Peoria, Ill., today brought suit in the United States circuit court here for $5,000,000 damages against the Dupont-DeNemours Powder Co. and a number of its subsidiary concerns, which are familiarly referred to as the "powder trust." The Buckeye company claims that its business has been injured by the practices of the so-called powder trust.

THE BLARNEY STONE

Humphrey O'Sullivan

Has a Rare Relic

Mr. Humphrey O'Sullivan who recently returned from a trip to Europe during which he combined business with pleasure, is the proud possessor of a piece of the Blarney stone. Mr. O'Sullivan was in Boston yesterday and took occasion to visit his intimate friend, Governor Foss, whom he had not seen since he left this country for Europe. He had with him, the piece of the Blarney stone and insisted on having the governor kiss it, a ceremony that the governor assured him he was pleased to take part in. Mr. O'Sullivan is very proud indeed of this souvenir as it is rarely that one is permitted to secure a portion of the historic stone. Mr. O'Sullivan had a strange experience on his return to this country. It seems that he had purchased 117 pounds of Irish bacon, had declared the same properly to the customs officers and when he arrived here he found that he could not get his shipment made to this city for the customs officer in this country had held up the bacon, although Mr. O'Sullivan was willing to pay any price to have it sent to Lowell. Mr. O'Sullivan reports that he was most successful in the business end of his trip.

THE OPERA HOUSE

"The Climax" comes to the Opera House tonight, and is said to be the prettiest, cleanest and most natural play ever written.

This play is unique in several respects. It has only three acts and four characters; the scene is the same throughout; and the interest depends wholly upon the story of the play itself. Susie Wyleke still plays the pretty singer, Adeline von Hagen. Her voice is sweet and flexible, and her manner that of the bright, unaffected, affectionate girl, whose musical proficiency in no way unites her for the humbler duties of home life. While passing through the period of affliction that comes suddenly upon her, she proves her ability to rise above the common place, and her grief and despair are as intensely real as is her reaction of joy.

Theodore Kerwald makes an ideal Luigi Goffanti, the music teacher and adopted uncle of the heroine, and is by turns critical, impatient, sympathetic and altogether lovable, while Walter Dale as Pietro Goffanti is masterful, his fine playing and his excellent portrayal of the character of the impulsive, loving boy, whose ambition to write the "Song of the South" for Adeline's singing is at last gratified, and Frank Linden gives a finished impersonation of Dr. Raymond.

The play abounds in touches of humor as well as pathos and the spectator almost feels that he is looking on scenes drawn from real life. "The Climax" will be the attraction at the Opera House tonight.—Adv.

HIS HONOR THE MAYOR

"His Honor the Mayor," a musical comedy in two acts, comes to the Opera House Tuesday night, Sept. 21, with the funny comedian Harry Kelly as Deacon Flood, and he will prove just as good a funmaker as upon his previous visits. "This comedian has a fashion all his own and can make one laugh with his legs and feet when in action as well as his face. He dances wonderfully well and his lines are originally told.

Miss Nellie Daly as May Flood, his side partner, is very clever. The stage effects, musical numbers and other parts including the original pony ballet, who are the best general women dancers on the stage, are some of the other features.

Miss Kate Hart strikes the popular chord with her song number "A Little Girl Like Me." George E. Reed, Jack Ryan, Arthur E. Earnest, John H. Pratt, together with the Misses Nellie De Grasse, Mildred Booth and Eleanor Butler, make up the principal supporting members.

Seats for this performance are now on sale at the box office.—Adv.

PESTERED WITH PROPOSALS

Here is a young lady who has received 116 proposals in less than a year. She is an actress, but offers of marriage have been the A-1, blow-in-the-bottle brand, not the stage variety.

Miss Lucille Allen is the lady's name and she will be seen here this week in the leading role with "The Girl in the Taxi" at the Opera House, Friday and Saturday.

In speaking of her proposals she says:

"I wish I could turn over to girls looking for husbands the majority of proposals for marriage which I have received during the present season. By actual count I have so far been honored with 116. I haven't escaped in a single city of my itinerary. Bankers, brokers, politicians, college men, merchants, cowboys and even an Indian are in the collection. But so far I have dodged the noose.

The most unique proposal came from a man in Kansas City. He sent me the impression of his palm at the same time importuning me to have it read by a palmist and if there was aught in his life or character that would blush at the spotlight of investigation, to reject this proffered hand."

Life is too short and the distance to the palmist is too long, but it makes an interesting page in my scrapbook."—Adv.

THE NEST EGG

Two women that had cause to congratulate themselves overnight, recently, were Zella Sears and Anna Caldwell, star and author respectively, of "The Nest Egg," which had its premier at the Bijou in New York, on November 21, and made an instantaneous hit, so much so, in fact, that the critics were unanimous and unstinted in their praise and hailed Miss Caldwell as the coming American playwright.

Miss Caldwell has chosen a novelty in theme and story and one that is right up to the minute as it satirizes the pure food law and incidentally gives us an insight into the methods of pure food law violators, as well as the moving picture habit, which she treats in an amusing way, and weaves into a pretty story with Hettie Gandy as the central figure. This character is that of a village dressmaker in a rural locality not far from Albany, N. Y. She is a sort of a good natured gossip, who gets her ideas of human nature somewhat warped by wrong impressions and incidentally twists the sentiment of the village swains until they assume entirely opposite views of their affections. She is also a Malaprop with matrimonial intentions and she sends a message out into the world written on an egg that goes into cold storage for three years, and lands a pure food crank who wants her as a witness in a pure food suit, but she eventually marries him and her aim is accomplished. "The Nest Egg" comes to the Opera house next Monday, Sept. 26, at 8 o'clock from the Park theatre, Boston.—Adv.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

The dramatization of "The Barrier," the thrilling novel on life in the frozen north from the pen of Rex Beach, who is considered to be one of the greatest novelists of the present time, was given two excellent performances to fair sized audiences yesterday afternoon and evening at this cosy little playhouse. To stage "The Barrier" is not an easy task, requiring as it does dramatic skill of the highest type. In this respect the company is fortunate in having members with the ability to portray the most intense dramatic situation. The scenery of the piece is the most magnificent seen in the theatre for some time and is testimony of the talent of the scenic artist of the company, Louis Augvine.

The cast of characters is: Captain Burrell, U. S. A., Mr. Rockefellow, John Gale, Mr. Charles Stevens, Dan Stark, Mr. Wm. C. Walsh, No Creek Lee, Mr. Chas. Crymble, Polson Doret, Mr. Donald Meek, Runion, Mr. Dan McCabe, Corporal Thomas, Mr. Joseph Guthrie, Necla, Miss Maria Horton, Alluna, Miss Elizabeth Hunt.

The story of "The Barrier" is laid in the valley of the Yukon river and has its beginning shortly before the first successful strike of gold is made. With the discovery of the valuable ore, there occurs a flood of migration to the valley, in which are noted undesirable, who take up their abode in the little hamlet of Flambear, which from a quiet little village becomes a thriving hive of industry. The government, in order to prevent any lawlessness in the village, sends a detachment of regulars under the command of Lieut. Burrell, which takes possession of the town. After lodging his men in the barracks, Lieut. Burrell leaves for the purpose of getting an idea of the population of the town and its surroundings. While on this tour of inspection he chances into a store which is the general distributing station for the prospectors. In the store when he enters is a young woman supposed to be a half-breed and the daughter of the owner, John Gale, and his square wife, Alluna. Burrell is astounded at the beauty and simplicity of the young woman and immediately enters into an inquisitive conversation with her, in which she reveals to him the exact condition of affairs about the village and at the same time shows him that in spite of his short stay in Flambear she has learned something about the life and without much hesitation tells him of certain things of his home which really surprises him.

At a meeting of the new mining company, which has been formed for the purpose of promoting the strike made by No Creek Lee, Dan Stark, known as a desperate character in Flambear, who is willing to stoop to the lowest level for a personal gain, attempts to count out the claim held by Necla, on the ground that the girl is under legal age and cannot lawfully hold it. In this move he is exposed by Lieut. Burrell, who steps into the meeting and takes the girl's claim into his own keeping until such a time as she has become old enough to control it. The drama in its entirety is bound to please every one who witnesses it. From the meeting of the young couple in the first act to the dying confession of Necla's father, Dan Stark in the last act, the piece is replete with dramatic situations. The dying scene in the barracks, when Stark who is in danger of death explains the birth and abduction of "Necla," who when she was his child bore the christian name of Mary. Upon learning the truth of her birth of a

A first class bill is being produced at the Merrimack square theatre this week, and the way the actors were greeted at both performances yesterday afternoon and evening, proved that the performance struck the spot with the large attendances.

The bill is headed by Miss Mabel McKinley, the singer and author, who is well known on the local stage having on several occasions performed in this city. Her songs are right up-to-date and her singing is grand. She will appear at both performances, afternoon and evening all week.

Another very interesting number on the bill is the one-act play entitled "For Him," presented by Our Stock company.

The play is one of the very best short-story creations to be found in white mother Necla is overjoyed, and Lieut. Burrell, who during all this time has been trying to persuade his people into consenting to his marriage, is elated to think that the barrier which has existed between the two has been broken.

Donald Meek in the exciting role of "Polson Doret," a staunch friend of Necla's, who is also one of her admirers, was seen to advantage. In spite of the limitations of the part which he was cast in, the genial Donald surprised his most intimate friends with the capable way in which he handled Polson's part. Although there is considerable comedy entwined into this character through the broken English of the French-Canadian, it is also well supplied with pathos and dramatic moments which drain upon the ability of an actor. Miss Maria Horton, in the female lead of Necla, was exceptionally good and her efforts were continually applauded. In the scene of the third act when she denounces John Gale, her foster father, for keeping her ignorant of the true facts of her birth, she characterizes a remarkable grasp of dramatic ability. Rockefellow, as Lieut. Burrell, the young officer, acted the role in a way which would satisfy the most exacting critic and gave a good idea of what he is capable of doing. Mr. Crymble's conceptions of every character he assumes have been excellent, but this drama seems to give him the surroundings for the proper exposition of his ability. The other members of the company were all well cast and took advantage of the chance for dramatic work in the respective characters they assumed.

The musical program which has also become a feature of this house, was well rendered under the direction of Prof. Arthur Mariel. A beautiful descriptive overture, "The Battle of San Juan Hill," was given between the second and third acts.

Tickets for the week's performance are now on sale and may be ordered in advance by telephone 311.

KEITH'S LOWELL THEATRE

If you want to see acting of the highest type just book yourself for Keith's this week. To two audiences of capacity type yesterday afternoon and evening an excellent bill was given. Rose Coghlan, whose reputation as an actress it is unnecessary to go into details about, is heading the bill with a one-act playlet entitled "Between Matinee and Night." Rose Coghlan's name is one to conjure with when speaking about the leading female theatrical stars of this country. "Between Matinee and Night" is a clever act, penned by the actress herself, and giving herself and her assistants considerable opportunities for excellent acting. The story is about an actress who has become the wife of a man enjoying a high social position, vaudeville of the present day and the almost faultless manner in which it is given by Kenneth Weston, Miss Florence Phelps and Mr. Reese, adds greatly to the general enjoyment which it provides. The story it relates is intensely interesting, the kind that grips from the very start and continues to hold the undivided attention until the close.

Nelson and Milledge, old-time favorites in Lowell, present their latest fun-maker entitled "The Secret," and which creates merriment from the curtain rise to its fall. Ed. Winchester gives a novel and highly entertaining act that opens with an exhibition of drumming, introduces entertaining conversation and songs, and closes with a series of numbers of the xylophone that are thoroughly enjoyed. The photo plays are again among the best to be shown. "Anniversary Night," Wednesday, with parents who abhor the sight of a liespian. The usual complications which followed in the wake of such domestic troubles lead to the court, where a divorce is granted to the husband. The wife, heartbroken over the unfortunate ending of her marital life, has her feelings aggravated with the taking of her only child, a daughter, from her by the husband. She decides to return to the stage and fortunately procures an excellent part in a drama which affords her a chance to display her talent. Her rise in the theatrical world is a rapid one and she becomes the acknowledged star of one of the best theatrical companies.

While on the road her company plays in a city close to the place where she had met her husband. Although the company is booked for a short stay at the theatre, the impression made by the star on the people of the city is so profound that the owner of the company prolongs the stay several weeks. At every performance the actress' attention is attracted by the continuous handclapping of a young woman in her teens who occupies a box. The occupant of the box forms an acquaintance with the actress and then makes known to her her love for the footlights. As the two become more intimate the actress inquires about the young woman's relatives and after hearing from the girl how she had been brought up by her grandmother and the position which her father holds, the terrible realization that it is her own daughter she is talking to, comes to the actress. A photograph in a pocket which she has, proves the identification a true one, and she is just about to make known all to the girl when her former husband enters the room and after asking his daughter to leave, requests her not to tell the young girl as it would "ruin her future." Although the motherly instinct enters her bosom and she feels like embracing her daughter, she accedes to the request of her husband. The young girl returns with the avowed intention of going on the stage but the idea is discouraged by the actress, who acquaints her with the realities she has to make for the obtaining of a career behind the footlights in such a way that the girl's mind is diverted from the theatre and she returns home. In the act assisting her is her daughter.

Miss Rosalind Coghlan, who has had a successful career on the stage, who assumes the role of the stage struck girl, Lynn Pratt, as the father of the girl was excellent, and Catherine Clayton as "Martha" the maid pleased.

Leo Carrello, that clever monologist is on the bill and kept the audiences continually convulsed with laughter, with his stories of the San Francisco Chinese court interpreters and other stories in Chinese dialect. Carrello, is in a class by himself as a monologist, and his knowledge of the Chinese lan-gauge which he speaks fluently assists him in his stories.

"The Teetman" given by Thomas Moir and company is a most pleasing act on our warm weather friend and shows how things done with no harmful intent are sometimes construed and understood in a different way from that intended. Mr. Moir plays the part of the innocent dealer in frozen water. He is by a capable company.

Hilda Hawthorne, an exponent of ventriloquism is exceedingly clever in the throwing of her voice and her yodeling which is one of the hits of her act. She has perfect control of her voice at all times and her act is really remarkable.

The Great Santoli, in the pastimes of a Gladiator, was exceptionally good and the agility with which he placed heavy dumb bells and weights high above his head astounded the audience. Santoli is an example of perfect manhood. In addition to his gift of lifting he also has a way of injecting comical movements in his work which is different from any seen in this city.

Ada Boudier and Jack Cutler, two talented entertainers, have a budget of sayings and songs which are bound to meet with the approval of local audiences. Miss Boudier impersonates a Southern mammy in dancing and singing that one would think that she must have been reared in southern atmosphere. It is so realistic. The pair are agile performers on musical instruments.

Kit Karson, of sharp-shooting fame mystifies with his bullseyes. Kit is a shooter of the first rank and it does not cease him whether he is standing on his feet or head in making a target. His shooting from a swinging tight wire gives an idea of his steady nerve and ability as a marksman. Moving pictures close the bill. Tickets for performances of the week may be ordered by phoning 23.

THEATRE VOYONS

Today the Theatre Voyons is featuring "The Declaration of Independence" number four of the Edison historical series and it is a picture that everyone should see for everyone can appreciate the work of the framers of the Declaration of Independence much better after seeing it. Historical personages who figured in the signing of this immortal document are portrayed in this picture with remarkable fidelity and in no way does it fail to keep up the historical accuracy that has made the Edison historical productions most attractive. There are other features on the bill notable "On the War Path" the story of a little boy's adventures during a border raid in the west.—Adv.

U. S. GRAND JURY

Indicted Five Officials of the United Shoe Machinery Co.

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—Two indictments were returned today by the federal grand jury against five officials and a large stockholder of the United Shoe Machinery Co. charging conspiracy and restraint of trade under the Sherman act. The officials indicted are Sidney Winslow of Orleans, president, Edward P. Hurd of Newton, vice-president, assistant treasurer, director, and member of the executive committee; George W. Brown, Newton, vice-president, member of the executive committee and director; William Barbour of New York, vice-president, member of the executive committee and director; Elmer P. Howe of Boston, counsel, member of the executive committee and director, and James J. Storror, the largest stockholder and formerly a member of the executive committee and director. Mr. Storror resigned from the board on December 5th, 1908, a month previous to the city election, in which he was a candidate for mayor.

The penalty for the alleged crime is a fine of $5,000 or imprisonment for one year or both.

The six defendants did not appear today but will be summoned and will probably plead in the next ten days.

The grand jury returned two indictments, the second one in three counts. According to William S. Gregg of the department of justice at Washington, who has been in charge of the case and who was present today, the indictments charge that the six defendants have been working through the instrumentality of the United company in a way to make them as individuals criminally liable under the Sherman act.

The second indictment alleged that the carrying on of the business under the merger of the three old shoe machinery manufacturing companies which took place in February, 1899, was engaging in a combination in restraint of trade, that it was a conspiracy to monopolize the trade of shoe manufacturers and that the whole transaction was a monopolization of interstate trade.

Commissioner Gregg supplemented a synopsis of the indictments which embraced in more than 100 typewritten pages with a statement that the prosecution by the government had nothing to do with the action of the Massachusetts legislature last spring.

The court proceedings today occupied less than five minutes. The grand jury handed in the formal documents in the case and was then excused. None of the officials of the company was in court at the time but they will appear later and plead to the indictment.

For an hour previous to the coming in of the court the grand jury held an extra sitting to hear two more witnesses, and then filed into the circuit court room before Judge Dodge.

There were present United States District Attorney French and William Gregg and Oliver Pagan, representing the department of justice at Washington.

As soon as the indictment had been handed to the court Mr. Gregg gave out the following summary of the document:

The United States circuit court grand jury under the supervision of United States Attorney Asa P. French, assisted by William S. Gregg, and Oliver Pagan, representatives of the department of justice, Washington, today presented to the court two indictments, each being against Sidney W. Winslow, Edward P. Hurd, George W. Brown, James J. Storror, William Barbour and Elmer P. Howe, all prominent in the management of the so-called "shoe machinery trust" centering in Boston.

"In these indictments the district attorney has varied the charge in different parts to meet possible variations in the evidence at the trial and possible variations in the views of the trial court and higher courts as to the applicability of the different provisions of the Sherman law to the facts stated."

"Both indictments charge that the six defendants have been working through the instrumentality of the United Shoe Machinery Co., which they have controlled in a way to make them as individuals criminally liable under the Sherman act."

"The indictments first describe the shoe manufacturing business and the shoe machinery manufacturing business as they existed prior to and on Feb. 7, 1899, and then set forth all the parts pertaining to the merger on that day of the three old shoe machinery manufacturing corporations, the Consolidated and McKay Lasting Machinery Co., formerly dominated by defendants Winslow, Hurd and Brown, the McKay Shoe Machinery Co., formerly dominated by the defendant, James J. Storror, and the Goodyear Shoe Machinery Co., formerly dominated by defendants Barbour and Howe, under the name of the United Shoe Machinery Co. and the subsequent carrying on of the business under that name. Then is told the story of the oppressive uniform lease provisions, requiring shoe manufacturers to patronize the United exclusively on pain of having all their leases cancelled and all the United machinery removed from their factories."

"It is further charged that this process drove other shoe machinery manufacturers out of business and actually put all shoe manufacturers at the mercy of the United company."

"One indictment, making no mention of patents, charges that this whole transaction was a monopoly of the trade in shoe machinery and a conspiracy to monopolize the same."

"The other indictment charges in one count that this carrying on of the business under the merger was engaging in a combination in restraint of trade and in another count that it was a conspiracy to monopolize the trade of shoe manufacturers, and, in still another count, that the whole transaction was a monopolization of interstate trade and commerce in shoe machinery in that the monopolies permitted to the three old companies under their patents were extended far beyond their lawful bounds. Appropriate allegations are made to show the pernicious effect of all this upon the public."

Complaints Made
Complaints made to the department of justice against the United Shoe Machinery company—the so-called "Shoe Machinery Trust"—brought the attention of the government to the case.

It is understood that the corporation was charged with being a monopoly in restraint of trade, infringement upon the patent laws were also alleged, it is said.

Prompt action on the part of the government followed the receipt of the complaints. In April—four weeks after they had been filed—William S. Gregg, special assistant to the United States Attorney General Wickham, began a government probe. Special Agents George E. Kelleher and James L. Bruff assisted Mr. Gregg in his search for evidence.

The result of the work of these government officials was that on July 26 of this year Attorney General Wickerham ordered United States Attorney Asa P. French and Mr. Gregg to present evidence obtained to the federal grand jury that reported today.

The United Shoe Machinery company came into being in 1899. It was founded by Sidney N. Winslow, its present head, who learned shoe making in a small factory in Salem, Mass., owned by his father, who for security advantages of combining allied interests formed a corporation embracing the three leading companies then making shoe machinery, (Goodyear Sewing Machine company, Consolidated and McKay Lasting company and McKay Shoe Machinery Company)—were consolidated. The company was reorganized in 1906 and subsequently auxiliary companies sprang up in Canada, Great Britain, France and Germany. That same year the manufacturing of all its shoe making machinery was concentrated in one large factory at Beverly, Mass. The United States Shoe Machinery company now employs 400 hands, who turn out 20,000 shoe machines yearly.

The Royalty System
The royalty system, by which the corporation disposes of its machines, allows a manufacturer to lease the machines, paying rentals in royalties on every shoe made. A manufacturer may buy machinery if he gets it from the United Shoe Machinery company, providing he buys his "findings"—such as wire nails and eyelets—from the company.

It is claimed that the royalty paid the United company is about 2-3 cents per pair of shoes.

Last year the company brought suit against Thomas G. Plant, a Boston shoe manufacturer, charging patent infringement. Plant sold out his shoe machinery plant and patent rights to the United company; after a bitter fight.

A few months later an independent company, the Essex shoe machinery company of Lynn, Mass., was also purchased by the United company.

The next important happening in the life of the United Shoe Machinery company was the unexpected government probe.

The special grand jury was called Aug. 1st. Government agents stated before serving subpoenas that the question of leases would be a vital question for the grand jury to consider. The jury made an extensive investigation, sitting four and five days a week during the entire month of August.

Government's Inquiry
Announcement of the climax in the government's inquiry was coincident with a proposal for a state investigation by Gov. Eugene N. Foss, a democrat, who in a message to the legislature, which was then in session, pointed out the need of a state to reach the alleged monopoly. The legislative committee on rules said that an anti-monopoly bill already enacted covered the situation.

Governor Foss then turning to Attorney General Swift demanded an immediate investigation of the methods of the Massachusetts Shoe Machinery industry.

Attorney General Swift then requested the governor for evidence. The governor replied it was not the duty of his office to supply evidence. Meanwhile, the attorney general consulted with several shoe men, but Governor Foss again urged the legislature to take action, accompanying a second message with a letter from the president of a large Massachusetts shoe manufacturing company relating conditions in the industry.

A state hearing on the matter followed and Representative Bogue from the big shoe centre at Lynn introduced a bill in the house of representatives providing for a recess committee to begin a probe in Massachusetts.

At the hearing Louis D. Brandeis of Boston, who has assisted the government in some of its trust cases, presented a bill, drawn up, he said, for Attorney General Swift, which provided for drastic regulations, prohibition of royalties and leases, with prison penalties for the violation.

President Charles H. Jones, president of a large shoe company, in reading the bill at the hearing, declared that if it were enacted into law it would mean the saving of five cents on each pair of shoes manufactured.

At the hearing Charles S. Choate, an attorney, declared that the United Shoe Machinery company had been doing everything in its power to aid the government agents in their investigation.

The order providing for the recess investigation was killed in the house, on the ground that the government was already conducting an investigation against the Shoe Machine company.

HENRY SAMPSON

Fisherman Picked Up After He Left Vessel

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—Without food or water for four days and four nights, Henry Sampson, a fisherman, who strayed in a dory from the schooner Hortense during a thick fog on the extreme northern part of George's Bank a week ago, reached this port today aboard the schooner Moanah.

Sampson was picked up over 200 miles from where he left his vessel by the fishing schooner Jubilee, which landed him at Gloucester. The Moanah brought him here. When rescued the sailor was in a state of complete exhaustion.

MINOR ACCIDENTS

This morning at 11:50 o'clock the ambulance was called to the corner of John and Merrimack streets, when it was found that John Porter, a veteran of the civil war aged about 65 years, had fallen on the sidewalk sustaining several slight scalp wounds and bruises about the face. He was removed to St. John's hospital where his injuries were treated by the house surgeon.

WIDOW TESTIFIES

Against Man Who is Accused of Murder

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—The widow of John W. Carey, for whose murder in Charlestown, Edward L. Melvin, formerly a corporal in the United States marine corps, is on trial in the superior criminal court on the charge of murder in the second degree, took the witness stand today and told her story of the alleged crime. Mrs. Carey testified that Melvin entered her home and that when a small loan was refused him by her husband he shot and killed Carey. The widow said that at no time had she stated that the shooting was accidental.

FUNERALS

HAND.—The funeral of the late Peter Hand was held this morning at 9:30 o'clock from the funeral chapel of Undertaker John A. Finnegan, 179 East Merrimack street. The funeral cortege proceeded to the church of the Immaculate Conception where, at 10 o'clock, a solemn high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Owen A. McQuade, O. M. I., assisted by Rev. Edward Fox, O. M. I., as deacon and Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I., as sub-deacon.

The choir, under the direction of Mr. Charles P. Smith, rendered the Gregorian chant. As the funeral procession was entering the church, Mrs. Hugh Walker, the organist, played Chopin's funeral march and at the elevation tenderly sang "O Meritum Passionis." At the elevation Mr. Edward F. Shea sang "Pie Jesu."

The solos of the Libera were sustained by Mrs. Hugh Walker and as the remains were being borne from the church, the choir rendered "De Profundis." Mr. Charles P. Smith sustaining the solos. The bearers were Daniel J. Marley, Matthew Ryan, Patrick Joyce, Frederick McSorley, Robert J. Whalen and Charles Curry.

There were a great many contributions of spiritual offerings for masses to be said at a later date and a magnificent yellow inscribed "Brother" from Mr. James Hand.

The burial took place in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery where the Libera was recited by Rev. Owen A. McQuade, O. M. I.

The funeral arrangements and burial were under the direction of Undertaker A. Finnegan.

DEVIN.—The funeral of the late Emmanuel Devin took place this morning from the home of his sister in Tewksbury. At 9:30 o'clock high mass of requiem was sung at the private chapel of the Tewksbury novitiate by Rev. Fr. Phelan, O. M. I. The bearers were Louis Marion, Joseph Adelard, Alfred Paul and Joseph Brabant.

Funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker Joseph Albert.

HERU.—The funeral of the late Alfred Heru took place this morning from the home of his wife, Hectora, 305 Worthington street, where a large number of friends were gathered. At 9 o'clock high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Fr. Lamothe, O. M. I. The choir under the direction of Mr. H. A. Racicot rendered the Gregorian chant, Miss Alma Alexander presiding at the organ. The bearers were Edmund and Arthur Desaulniers, Henry Jordan, Eugene Drole, Miles Vales and Joseph Gendreau. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery. Rev. Fr. Magann, O. M. I., reciting the committal prayers at the grave. Among the floral tributes were a cross on base, employees of the Massachusetts Mohair Plush mill, John Kennedy's room, wreath on base, chums of the deceased, spray, cousins, spray, Mary Muldoon, Mary Hoar and Josie McMahon; spray, schoolmates. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker Joseph Albert.

CREDIT UNION

WILL START TO DO BUSINESS THIS EVENING

The Notre Dame de Lourdes Credit union in the parish bearing the same name, received its charter a couple of days ago, and will start doing business this evening.

The board of directors will take up their quarters in the building numbered 710 Middlesex street, adjoining the rectory. The first floor of this building, which is the property of the parish, has been remodeled and the treasurer will take up his office in the front of the building, while the directors' room will be in the rear.

Deposits were taken today from the school children from a money up and this evening the office of the new bank will be opened for the adults who wish to open an account.

This credit union is the first one of its kind to be established in this city, and it was started after an interesting address on the credit unions had been given by Hon. Alphonse Desjardins, of Quebec, who was giving lectures in the different cities of the state under the auspices of the commonwealth. A similar bank will soon be founded in St. Joseph's parish.

MET IN BOSTON

FRENCH AMERICAN VOLUNTEER BRIGADE HELD MEETING

The general board of officers of the French American Volunteer Brigade of New England held an important meeting in Boston Sunday. The meeting took place at the United States hotel and was largely attended.

A great business was transacted the main feature of which was to choose a date and a place for the next annual convention of the brigade. After considerable discussion on the question it was unanimously decided to accept the invitation of Garde Laurier of Lawrence to hold the said convention in the latter city and the date has been set to January 21, 22 and 23, the convention to last three days.

Another important question decided upon was that Boston be the headquarters of the brigade. It is also provided that the annual demonstration or field day of the brigade will be held at Fall River next Labor day.

Among those attending the meeting were: Rev. Fr. Doyon of Fall River; President A. J. Marneau, J. Williamson, Com. Ernest Bergeron, vice president, Lawrence; Philias Berthiaume, secretary, Manchester; Albert Bergeron, treasurer, Lowell; J. A. Touchet, auditor, Claremont; N. H. Horne Desilets, sentinel, Lowell; A. J. Mandeville, brigadier general, Brockton and Capt. L. J. Roux, Fall River.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—A heavy tone prevailed at the opening of the market today following the lead of the London market, where prices of the international issues sold off sharply. Selling was especially heavy in United States Steel and the Harriman stocks. Canadian Pacific lost 1 1/2, U. S. Steel 1 1/2 and S. P. and American Smelting a point. International Harvester sold at 100 1/2 and broke its low price record of the year.

The decline was of brief duration, enough short covering and new buying developing at the lower levels to send prices back to yesterday's closing or beyond.

The increase in the German bank rate of discount to 5 per cent, although it had been forecasted, served to emphasize the disturbed conditions abroad and presented the possibility of an increase in the bank of England's rate this week. The copper stocks were singled out for the pressure and Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting declined over a point. Other stocks also displayed heaviness at intervals but the indications of support manifested after the early weakness repressed bear selling and prices recovered somewhat before midday.

The market did not vary much between 12 and 1 o'clock aside from a further decline in C. P. R.

Weakness of the copper group and several other specialties was ignored by the railroad stocks which held firm at the midday prices. Business was in smaller volume than for many weeks past.

The market closed weak. Assertions that U. S. Steel had been liquidated steadily under cover of sustained buying of other stocks caused sentiment to become more bearish. Blocks of from 1,000 to 3,000 shares were thrown on the market, frequently forcing down this stock 1/4 to 5/8, a new low record for the year.

Boston, Sept. 19.—The lowest point in 14 years was touched by the stock of the Calumet & Hecla Mining Co. today, when it declined nine points on the Boston stock exchange to 300. In 1897 the stock sold at 315, but 10 years later it reached 1000, the highest recorded.

London Market
LONDON, Sept. 19.—Consols fell today to the unprecedented low record of 76 1/2. A further fall is predicted. The big holders who are quietly unloading are compelled to sell prices in order to find purchasers as no one wishes to hold so many better yields are obtainable from other securities.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN

This Evening

The board of aldermen at the regular meeting to be held this evening will have considerable business of importance to pass upon. It is understood that an order will be submitted for money for the Wiggville sewer and perhaps the Oakland sewer. These orders, it is stated, may aggregate $39,000.

The committee on sewers will meet previous to the meeting of the board of aldermen and will complete its recommendations on sewers.

Two routes have been outlined for the Wiggville sewer. One for a trunk sewer from the present sewer in Lawrence street at South Whipple street to Lawrence street, a distance of about 2000 feet, and the city engineer estimates the cost at $25,000.

The other plan is to run a sewer across the river from Lawrence street to a point on the premises of the American Hide & Leather company, and this is the plan, it is said, that will be favored by the board of aldermen tonight. After reaching the premises of the American Hide & Leather Co., the proposition is to extend the sewer along the railroad tracks to Lawrence street and then to Bitterle street. The distance included in this route would be about 4000 feet and the estimated cost is $35,000.

Committee on Streets

An unusual number of city hall meetings are scheduled for this afternoon and evening. The committee on streets met at 3 o'clock this afternoon and went out on a tour of inspection to the following streets: Crawford, Ennell and Billings street, on petitions from acceptance of sidewalks; the widening of Rogers street from Knapp avenue to Boylston street; extension of Stratton and Deerfield streets from Lawrence street to Shedd park; the acceptance of Fairfax street from Stevens street to Westchester park, and the acceptance of Highland avenue from Fairfax street to Parker street.

The committee will meet again at 7:30 this evening. The board of health will meet this afternoon and the committee on the proposed outfall with the city government of Manchester, N. H.

Words of Appreciation
The following letter from the Rev. H. Watelle, O. M. I., to Mayor Meehan, is self-explanatory:

The Hon. John F. Meehan, Lowell, Mass.

Honorable Sir: I wish to thank you sincerely for having presented our request for the use of the Cheever street school to the committee. We appreciate your courtesy and kindness and we wish to assure you that if we can at any time be of service to you we will do gladly all we can to manifest our gratitude.

Respectfully,
H. Watelle, O. M. I.

City Library Employees
City Solicitor Duncan handed down the following opinion this forenoon:
Office of City Solicitor,
Lowell, Mass., Sept. 12, 1911.

Mr. Frederick A. Chase, City Librarian,
Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir: In response to the request of the library trustees for an opinion as to the application of the Eight Hour Law to the employees of the city library, I will say that, so far as I am able to determine, the nature of their employment does not constitute them "laborers, workmen and mechanics" within the meaning of the statute.

Very truly yours,
William W. Duncan,
City Solicitor.

BOSTON GIRL

WAS LEFT $150,000 BY HER UNCLE

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—One of the happiest young women in Boston yesterday was Miss Frieda Cory. She had just received notice of a bequest of $150,000 which had been left to her by her uncle, Dr. Katof Maloof, who was medical adviser in the court of the Shah of Persia.

Notice of the bequest was brought to Miss Cory by a representative of a New York firm of lawyers, acting for her uncle's solicitors in Persia. The young woman, who is 22 and the possessor of a decidedly attractive personality, was the center of a congratulatory group of friends when the Post reporter called at her home, 5 Oliver place, yesterday.

"There is only one reason that I am glad at being named as my uncle's beneficiary—and that is because I will be able to make a tour of foreign countries," said Miss Cory.

Then she displayed a row of pearly teeth as she explained: "You see, I am already well provided for, as far as the ordinary comforts of life are to be considered. I own the house in which I live with my father, and I also am the owner of the one next door."

"They were left to me by my mother. She also left me a large sum of money. With some of it I have purchased diamonds and an automobile."

In telling of the plans that she intended to carry out with the bequest, the young woman said: "For several years I have longed to see something of the countries across the sea. And I intend to do so on the strength of my uncle's money."

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

AUTO ENTHUSIASTS

Looking Forward to the 1912 Models.

THE BUICK HAS A 'NEW SILENT ENGINE.'

Chief Hosmer's Automobile is in the Repair Shop Again—Other Automobile News of Interest to Dealers and Enthusiasts

Now is the time of the year when the automobile enthusiasts and prospective automobile owners are looking forward to the purchase of a car for next year. Already a number of the 1912's are on the market and several have been demonstrated in this city, but it will be a month or more until the different makers will have their various models on the demonstration line.

During the winter months there will be few demonstrations but the public will be kept in touch with the manufacture of the new cars until the automobile shows start in, at which time the people will have a chance to inspect the various machines and also give orders in plenty of time to have the cars delivered by the time the good weather sets in in the spring.

The sale of automobiles in this city this year has been exceptionally good and few of the local dealers are complaining of a normal season.

For the past several years automobile engineers have been working hard to perfect a quiet motor and designers have been equally as hard at work thinking up new ideas for bodies for each succeeding season. The question of the motor was the principal one, however, and the skeptical ones claimed then and many claim at the present time that there is not a silent motor and will not be one for years.

In this the automobile writer of The Sun differs for he had several rides in machines last week which have motors installed in them which are practically noiseless.

It came about like this: George Jessup, formerly connected with the Lowell Automobile corporation, but now engaged in racing and demonstrating Buick cars throughout New England, dropped into Lowell last week and called on the writer.

He asked if the writer would like a ride in a next year's machine, and he entered the car and thinking that Jessup had neglected to crank the machine he was asked if he wished the writer to do so. He said that the engine was running and the writer immediately became inquisitive and was not satisfied until Jessup had stopped on the road and shown the big improvement which had been made in the engine and transmission.

This little car is a two-passenger, torpedo body, and is known as model 34.

There is another of the 1912 cars which also has the silent motor. It is known as model 35 and is a five-passenger, four-door car, with bucket dash.

These two models are now on exhibition at the salesroom of the Buick Motor Co. in Park square, Boston, and those who desire to see them will be welcomed. It is expected that models of these cars will be at the Lowell Automobile corporation in Appleton street during the latter part of this week or the first of next week.

The number of Buicks sold in this city this year by the Lowell Automobile Co. only goes to show that the machine is the most popular automobile in Lowell at the present time. This is considered one of the duldest times of the year for the sale of machines but the local agency of the Buick has done an excellent business during the past week or ten days.

Among the sales made were the following: Model 10, tonneau Buick; Edward Stecko; model 27, Buick; Dr. John F. Boyle; model 14, Buick; J. Dean and a model 10, tonneau Buick to R. J. Ball, an instructor at the Textile school.

Chief Hosmer's automobile is out of commission again, but it is expected that it will be in order again within a few days. Chauffeur Sanders has noted a peculiar rattling sound for several days past and despite the fact that he had examined the machine from the radiator to the rear axle, including all lanterns and other accessories, he has been unable to find it. Yesterday he drove the car to the City Hall garage where it was disassembled and the mechanics found that the plate in No. 1 cylinder was cracked. Word was immediately telephoned to Springfield, and as soon as the new part arrived the car was back into service.

As much as the weather is getting cool now and it is much colder riding than walking, it is expected that the chief's machine will be equipped with a windshield within a week. The car has covered 2600 miles since it was delivered in the middle of last December and although there has been some expense in both repairs and the upkeep Chief Hosmer feels satisfied with the vehicle.

There has been a change in the management of the Moody Bridge garage at the corner of Moody and Pawtucket streets, Mr. Joseph Martin having succeeded Mr. Stephen Rochette. Despite the change Mr. Rochette will continue to retain an interest in the business. He contemplates taking a three months' tour through the south and recently sold a portion of his stock to Mr. Martin and subsequently the change of management was made.

The management of the Moody Bridge garage contemplates taking the agency of the Locomotive truck which is manufactured in Decatur, Ill. This self-propelled vehicle is capable of carrying one and one-half and two tons and although new to this section of the country it is said that it has been a ready seller in other parts. A demonstration machine was in this city last week and it is expected that another one will be in Lowell on Thursday of this week. The machine has a double chain drive and is equipped with either pneumatic or solid tires.

The roads leading out of Lowell, with a few exceptions, are in excellent condition as a result of the recent rains.

Lowell autists who have had occasion to be on the road nights during the past few weeks have found that Jack Frost is fast rounding into condition.

This morning Fred Emerson and Thomas Hestwick of the Lowell Automobile corporation received a telegram from the salesroom of the Buick Automobile company in Boston to the effect that several 1912 models will reach this city next week for exhibition purposes.

Ed. Mercer, of lively fame, is now receiving bookings for the Brockton fair, which will be held Oct. 3, 4, 5 and 6. After returning from the fair Ed. will replace the limousine body on the chassis of one of his cars in time for October weddings. This is the modern way of going the last trip, with Dan Cupid without any unnecessary waiting at the church. Bookings are received by Ed. at all times for dates.

JOHNNY JENKINS

Is Entered in Many Racing Events

A race meet at San Monica, October 14th; a 24-hour race on the Los Angeles Motoradrome, October 21; a 600-mile endurance run from Los Angeles to Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 1, and races at Phoenix on the completion of this run is the Southern California race schedule which is expected will turn the eyes of the automobile racing public to that section of the country between that point and the Fairmount races at Philadelphia, November 7th, and the grand prize race at Savannah in November.

C. Fred Grundy, head of the Grundy Motor Sales company, has secured Johnny Jenkins to drive a Cole car in all the events. Harry Horlick is expected to be the second Cole pilot in the races. Such cars as the Mercer, Cadillac, Thomas, Winton, Simplex, Cadillac, National and Buick have already signified their intention of taking part.

The important event is the Phoenix endurance run, for in this contest, it is explained, the various entrants will be put through a severe grueling. The greater part of the route lies through desert country, over mountainous and sandy roads. But the financial rewards are temptations to the drivers, the total cash prize being close to $3,000, (not including handsome trophies).

The driver that reaches San Diego from Los Angeles first, and he will have to cover close to 150 miles in a desert country, will receive $1,500; the driver that reaches El Centro first receives $1,000; the one that reaches Yuma $1,000 and the one that reaches Phoenix $2,500.

The contestants that finish 1, 2, 3 and 4 in this endurance run will then compete in the races that will be held on the Phoenix track. Other races will be held in which cars of a piston displacement of 301 inches and under and cars of from 301 to 450 cubic inches displacement will be eligible to compete.

The finale of this mammoth test will be a free-for-all race for a $1,000 purse.

Johnny Jenkins will leave the Cole Motor Car Company's factory October 4, so that he will be at San Monica in time for practice. It is reported that the course is in good shape and liable to sustain its reputation of being the safest automobile race course in the country. It is an 8.2 mile course with easy turns. The turns can be taken, it is explained, at a speed of from 62 to 70 miles an hour.

Jenkins states he is anxious to get back to the western coast as he wants the Los Angeles Motoradrome 24-hour race. At the last event of this kind Jenkins was unfortunate in having an accident at the start of the contest, but despite this fact he fixed up, went in and finished third.

Speaking of the California racing situation Mr. Grundy says: "The residents of the western coast are true sportsmen. They are always willing and ready to support a good contest. The interest that was taken in the four road records the Cole recently secured on the coast was keen. Many wagers were made. We have won four out of the six California road records. We are going to make an effort to get the other two. These contests show beyond a doubt the mechanical construction of an automobile and prove to us whether we have the kind of product that we represent to the public. Confidence is the greatest asset a California automobile dealer can have."

THE GLIDDEN TOUR

43 Entries Have Been Received

Reports from the A. A. A. Official Pathfinders for the 1911 Glidden Tour over the route of the National Highway, New York to Atlanta and Jacksonville, October 14th to 25th, conclusively show the reliability and dependability of even the smaller priced motor cars. The little Flanders "Twenty" left New York on the afternoon of September 5th for the long journey of nearly fourteen hundred miles, and its arrival at Atlanta, ten hundred and forty-five miles away, just one week later, sets a new mark for expedition in path-finding work. Not a single delay has been encountered by the party up to date for any reason whatsoever, not even for what must have been a herculean task for the little car in the Blue Ridge mountains near Asheville, where the car arrived on the afternoon of the 12th, having covered that day 122 miles across the mountains. A caravan of sixty motor cars gave the pathfinders a most enthusiastic welcome and the escort into Winston-Salem was at first mistaken for the Glidden tour itself and produced more excitement than the city has known since its production of a score of million dollars of gold bullion. But every pleasant visit must end, and this center of the tobacco industry was left behind at the early start the next morning for Charlotte, one of the chief cotton manufacturing centers of the South and a locality once honored by Lord Cornwallis' need of a "herculean feat" of revolutionary fame, as, however, the residence of the seat of the first Declaration of Independence of Mecklenburg was in far from a tempestuous mood and the welcome accorded the party here was equal to, if not greater, than that met at Greensboro and High Mount, where the pathfinders were good naturedly held and entertained with enthusiastic speeches.

From Charlotte, through broad fields of green tobacco and white cotton, the path led to Spartanburg, with its iron and coal mines and mineral springs, on into Greenville, where the pathfinders were cordially met by representatives of Atlanta and the Atlanta chamber of commerce, headed by Mayor John S. Cohen, managing editor of the Atlanta Journal, who escorted them into Anderson and from there on the following day's run into Atlanta. Saturday and Sunday are to be spent in Atlanta, one of the chief industrial cities in the South, whose climate is both healthful and bracing and as a change from the steady travel the pathfinding party will in all likelihood view the many points of interest there. They are well entitled to a brief respite, for in the seven days they have covered more than three-quarters of their trip. The night of the 16th will find them at Macon, and the 17th at Valdosta, and then one more day will see them into Jacksonville.

the driver of the auto speeded to the City Hospital garage, lifted the insensible form from the auto and dropped it on the sidewalk. He then leaped into his auto and made off at full speed, without stopping to see what had become of Rock.

Orderly Cummings, who was on duty at the lodge office of the hospital, heard the car stop and then saw away at breakneck speed. He looked out and saw a man lying on the sidewalk. He ran for help and went out and carried Rock to the accident ward.

The surgeons on first examination thought that Rock was in a dangerous condition, but after working on him some little time he was revived. The surgeons then found that he had a severe scalp wound and was covered with abrasions and contusions. Rock explained that he was waiting for his car when he was struck by the big touring car, the driver of which gave no warning of his approach. The next he knew he was in the hospital.

Some of the attendants at the hospital saw the number on the rear of the automobile as it sped away. They read it 0190 A. The police were unable to find any such number in the auto registry, and although a search was made for the man who drove the car, at an early hour this morning he had not been found.

TICKET AGENTS MEET
ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 19.—The annual convention of the General Passenger and Ticket Agents' association opened here for a two days' session. There are about 200 railroad officials from all parts of the United States and some from Canada here. Some important matters of business will be discussed, among them the charging of an extra fare for passengers using "palace" cars and a pro rata basis of divisions.

For a time a conflict between the followers of Leconte and the adherents of Firmin was feared and on August 30, two days after Simon had left Port Au Prince, Firmin, who had remained aboard a vessel in the harbor of Port Au Prince, sailed for this city, where he had since remained.

GENERAL FIRMIN

Leader of Two Revolutionary Parties is Dead

ST. THOMAS, D. W. I., Sept. 19.—General Antenor Firmin, who deserted his post as Haytian minister at London to help overthrow President, Simon of Haiti, died here today. Firmin led one of the two revolutionary parties and was a candidate for the presidency in succession to Simon. However, General Leconte, the other revolutionary chief, was the first to reach Port Au Prince after the success of the revolution had been assured and he assumed the presidency before Firmin could muster sufficient strength to give him a fighting chance at the capital.

For a time a conflict between the followers of Leconte and the adherents of Firmin was feared and on August 30, two days after Simon had left Port Au Prince, Firmin, who had remained aboard a vessel in the harbor of Port Au Prince, sailed for this city, where he had since remained.

MAJOR BRINO'S SPEED

He Cut His Mark at Grand Circuit Races at Detroit

DETROIT, Sept. 19.—Fair-goers had their first taste of grand circuit racing here yesterday. The time made was fast in view of conditions and some of the winners had things much their own way, but the slow trot made up for the straight heats, as six miles were raced before the awards were made.

In the 2.07 trot the imported stallion Willy was much the best, although he won by narrow margins.

Major Brino had the speed of the 2.05 pacers and won comfortably, knocking three-quarters of a second from his mark. Longworth B. from the Murphy stable, romped away with the early closing event for 4.17 class pacers, none of the others appearing to have the slightest chance with this greatly improved horse.

The big surprise of the day was in the 2.17 trotting class, in which Hannah Louise was the logical favorite. This mare sold at even against the field, but the best she could do was to win one heat in five. Pansy Silver won two heats and then broke in the third with Hannah Louise first at the finish. Mack Jay came along and took the next two and under the rules these horses that were tied in heats won had to race it off.

The sixth heat was the big talk. Pansy Silver had gone to an early break and looked to be almost out of it, while Dick McManhan was riding alone behind Mack Jay.

From the quarter Pansy Silver gained until she reached the other in the stretch and was beating him when he broke and ran under the wire head in front.

The judges gave the heat and race to Pansy Silver.

Rushes to the Front
Driven anywhere near his limit, it did not seem that Mack Jay could have lost, the slow middle half having allowed Pansy Silver to gather herself and challenge in the stretch.

Longworth B. showed in the 2.17 pace that he has learned the game, although he has been a backward pupil. Murphy bought this one for the Chamber of Commerce and other slow stakes, but he did not have the necessary luck in the event and Longworth B. was the choice, the field selling over him because of the presence of Dock V. said to be a heart at the west.

Game Maid rushed to the front in the opening heat, and Longworth B. and Princess Direct Hal were close up at the half. On the turn Longworth B. paced by the rest and let the jogged home. Longworth B. led in the next heat and left the bunch after passing the half. He won pulled up, the final quarter in 30.4.

Game Maid led them to the half in the third mile, and after passing it Snow took her out and let Murphy through with Longworth B. They had gone down there in 1.14 and Longworth B. walked home.

In the 2.05 pace, in which Major Brino was favorite, there was a good race each time. The seven-eighths, Walter W. and Ginger showed the way and at the half Major Brino was second and Peter the Second came fast on the outside and they bunched in the stretch, Major Brino drawing away in the last part and winning handily.

Willy Denton, Ginger and Walter W. raced to the half in the second heat and Major Brino then began to step around them, being winning by a three-quarters length, with Peter the Second (unrun-up) as the last half was in 10.12. Major Brino had paced very fast, lowering his mark to 2.04 1/2.

Willy and Spanish Queen were favored in the 2.07 trotting class, first one being the choice and then the other. Nancy Royce and Willy went away in the lead in the first quarter and half, the time was slow to the quarter and half, where Nancy was leading by a neck and Spanish Queen was third. Willy was first by a length at the three-quarters and Spanish Queen and Grace took after him in the stretch. Pennock had to drive for all that was in him to stall off the two mares, winning by half a length.

Neck to the Good at the Half
Willy and Spanish Queen had it out in the second heat and the stallion was a neck to the good at the half and had made it an open length at the next point.

At the head of the stretch Spanish Queen started to move up, but made a mistake and fell out of it, Willy having an easier time at the finish. Peter Dorysey got up in time to beat Grace out of second place. The summary:

"JIMMY" McALEER

Wants Stahl for Manager of Red Sox

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—"Jake Stahl will be manager of the Boston club next season if there is any reasonable inducement that will get him back into baseball."

This was the statement made yesterday by James R. McAleer, future president of the Red Sox.

"They have told me that Jake will not reconsider his retirement, but I expect to have a talk with him before long and think I can induce him to change his plans and take charge of our team. Stahl is an excellent field general, and if I can get him I think he will give us the biggest sort of a boost."

"If Stahl does come back he will be worked on first base and will be in charge of the team."

This is the first definite announcement made by McAleer concerning his plans at Boston, and while there are many who believe the new president of the Red Sox will not be able to go through with his plans, McAleer is apparently satisfied that he can land the former Boston player to direct the Boston team.

HIGHLANDERS ASK FOR WAIVERS ON TWO PITCHERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—President Frank Farrell of the New York American league club has decided to clean house, and as a preliminary step he recently asked waivers on Pitchers Jim Vaughn and Jack Quinn. Vaughn is the giant southpaw from Texas, who for two years has disappointed Hal Chase's prediction that he would become the marvel of the age. Quinn was one of the best pitchers on the Yankee team last year. He won eighteen and lost twelve games, dropping six in a row at the tail end of the season because of wretched support. Both Quinn and Vaughn fell down badly this season after early spring promise of sensational nature. It is very unlikely that either Vaughn or Quinn will be allowed to get out of the American league even should New York desire to dispense with their services. The fact that waivers have been asked signifies little. For the past several years Frank Chance each season has asked waivers on Ed Reulbach only to spur this indifferent fellow to his very best endeavors. Perhaps the Yankees have a truce in sight and the waiver request is only a "feeler" to the other clubs in the league. Vaughn is the only veteran southpaw with the club, and the hill men for several seasons have been very shy on port side asked signifies little. For the past

Young Men Searched New England

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Somewhere among the 90-odd millions of people in these United States there may be, by particular Miss Grace Keegan. Or it may be that there is a woman whose maiden name was such.

George Keegan of 438 North Eighth street, Scranton, Penn., and Charles Keegan of Hatfield, Penn., have a very good reason for wishing to get into communication with a certain Grace Keegan. The one of the name they are looking for is their sister.

They want to see her because they do not recall that they ever have seen her. If they find her they will not know her. They have no idea what she looks like.

The Keegan brothers are positive, however, that they had a sister named Grace, who by this time must be in her 20th year. For eight years George and Charles Keegan have been looking for their sister Grace.

George Keegan, who is 22, is an electrician employed by a railroad. Charles, who is 21, is an engineer on the same road.

Since they found each other they have united their efforts and their small means in the most hopeless task of finding out whether or not sister Grace lives, and if alive where her home is.

George Keegan yesterday came to New York with a few days off on his hands to extend the search to this city. They have scoured New England, where they all were born, in vain.

"We three children were born in Everett, Mass.," he said. "We, that is, Charles and I, do not remember our parents. My mother died first and he, our father, could not care for us, he farmed us out. He died soon afterward. I was sent to a family in Vermont, where I lived until I was old enough to hustle for myself, when I went to Scranton. Eight years ago I began to think about my brother and sister. I did what I could to trace them. Charles had been turned over to a family in Hatfield, Penn., when he was an infant. I found him at Hatfield four years ago. He had been trying to find me all that time but I got ahead of him."

The Keegan brothers are positive, however, that they had a sister named Grace, who by this time must be in her 20th year. For eight years George and Charles Keegan have been looking for their sister Grace.

Boston ballots, as they state, I fall to see how the reprinting of the balance of the misspelled ballots—25,000, according to the latest statement from the secretary's office—will much further delay getting out the ballots."

QUINCY FIRE DEPT.

May Be Equipped With Automobiles

QUINCY, Sept. 19.—A move to equip the fire department with auto engines, ladder trucks, hose and chemical wagons and cars for the chief and district chiefs was made last night when Councilman Cherrington offered an order for $49,000 for that purpose. Councilman Cherrington said the order was discussed by the fire department committee and asked that it be referred to the finance committee, which was done.

Councilman Cherrington also offered an order increasing the salary of the mayor from $1000 to $2500. There has been no increase in the salary of mayor since Quincy became a city, 23 years ago. The order was referred to the finance committee.

Committee reports were offered as follows: Finance, $2000 for a public pier and landing, $2900 for plans for a public dock; water supply, $10,000 for water extensions at Fough's Neck and Atlantic; streets, $2000 for replanking Nepochet bridge; fire department, add five permanent men to the fire department.

The street committee offered a resolution requesting the mayor to appear before the railroad commissioners and ask to have two men placed on duty at the Water street grade crossing all the time. On motion of Councilman Duffy a special committee was appointed to make an investigation of alleged poor street railway service. A public hearing was held on order of Councilman Richards to give officials of the Citizens' gaslight company an opportunity to tell if the price of gas would be lowered. Supt. Nichols said he had no reason to believe the price would not be lowered before the end of the fiscal year, June 30.

On motion of Councilman Richards a special committee was appointed to confer with the officers of the gas company and state road commissioners to see if an immediate reduction cannot be made in the price of gas.

ARRESTED AGAIN

ELOPER CHARGED WITH MAKING FALSE OATH

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—Kenneth P. Hill of Cambridge, the former Harvard student, who aroused the ire of William A. Graustein, the milk contractor, by eloping with the latter's daughter, Ida Sophie Graustein, Radcliffe, 12 last July, was again brought into the limelight of a criminal court yesterday, when he was arrested on an indictment charging him with making a false statement under oath in securing his milk license.

Hill, it is claimed, stated he had neither parent nor guardian living in the state, while as a matter of fact his brother and sister, both living in Cambridge, were duly appointed his guardians by the probate court. Hill was arraigned in the district court a week after his runaway marriage, and after a hearing and an unsuccessful attempt to have the difference between the bride's father and the groom amicably settled, he was held in $100 for the grand jury.

Judge Arthur P. Stone, who acted for Hill in the lower court, appeared in the superior criminal court, East Cambridge, yesterday, where Hill was arraigned. He waived the reading of the indictment, Hill pleading not guilty and furnishing bonds in the sum of $300.

POLICE INVESTIGATED

As a result of work having been received at the police station, to the effect that pickpockets had been working on various lines of the Bay State Street Railway Co. of late, Supt. Raymond Welch assigned a couple of men to make an investigation. The result was that a report came back to the effect that there was no thievery going on. It is thought that the rumor of pickpocketing was caused by the dropping of a pocketbook on one of the cars by a woman who resided in Tewksbury.

"Dear Sir—You are hereby notified that a mistake has been made in the printing of the democratic ballots, said mistake being in the spelling of the name of Candidate Frank J. Donahue, which on the ballot has been spelled Frank J. Donahue. Mr. Donahue feels that the mistake will injure him and his candidacy, and hereby demands its rectification."

"Not hearing from you by noon tomorrow, to the effect that this mistake will be remedied without further action on our part, we will at that time proceed to take the necessary steps to compel the rectifying of the error."

"Thomas P. Riley,"
Mr. Donahue, when interviewed on the matter last night, said:
"I have no desire to hold up the printing of the ballots for the state primaries, but I believe I am entitled to have my name go on the ballot in its correct spelling. If the secretary's office is able to reprint 15,000 of the

FREE LOVE PEOPLE

Have Been Driven Out of Zion City

ZION CITY, Ill., Sept. 19.—Eight members of the Holiest Love society were escorted to the city limits of Zion last night by a vigilance committee and placed aboard an electric car for Chicago. Marshal John Huefer led the party which forced the members of the alleged "free-love" cult to leave the precincts of Zion, a city founded by John Alexander Dowry. No arrests were made. When the vigilantes reached the house the members of the cult had retired for the night. They were routed from their beds.

SEARCH FOR MAN

WHO IS BELIEVED TO BE INSANE

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Sept. 19.—Search for Anthony Sabino, an apparently insane man, who is roaming in a wild section of the country west of this city armed with a shotgun, was resumed today. Deputy sheriffs, assisted by a state policeman, a posse specially sworn in and a force of volunteers, hunted the man all day yesterday but failed to get a sight of him. Sabino, it is thought, may know something about the shooting and killing of Harry H. Maullin at Wilton on the last day of August.

GETS $300,000

MRS. PIERCE HAS AGREED TO DROP THE SUIT

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—"Beauty" Chapman, as she was known in Boston, and more recently Mrs. Bessie Chapman Pierce, wife of Roy E. Pierce, the son of the Standard Oil magnate, is said by friends to have received the nice dot of $300,000 in settlement of her difficulty with the Pierce family as "a deserted bride."

At all events the beautiful Mrs. Pierce has set out for French Lick, Ind. apparently giving no thought to the outcome of the annulment proceedings instituted by her husband's father, H. Clay Pierce, in behalf of his son.

The father of the young man testified at the trial that his son was mentally incompetent at the time of the marriage.

REVENUE OFFICERS MEET

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 19.—The election of officers and the selection of next year's meeting place were the most important matters before the convention of the National Internal Revenue Officers at its closing session today. The steamboat ride on the river in the afternoon and the annual banquet at night were arranged for the entertainment of the visiting officers after the business of the meeting was completed.

DR. PAYETTE HOME

HE ATTENDED CONVENTION OF CATHOLIC ORDER OF FORESTERS

Dr. A. G. Payette of James street, returned Monday from a two-months' trip during which time he attended the convention of the Catholic Order of Foresters, as well as visiting several places of interest in Canada.

Dr. Payette left two months ago, as a Massachusetts delegate to the National convention of the Catholic Order of Foresters held at Cleveland, O. The doctor on his return visited Buffalo as well as the Niagara Falls, Quebec, Ottawa, Ontario, Montreal as well as several points of interest in the Canadian metropolises. As above stated he returned this morning and left immediately for Holyoke, where he will spend a couple of days.

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reldy, business manager, and Alfred Pilote, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 2, 1911. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

A woman editor in Paris has challenged an editor of the other gender to a duel and sent her seconds to arrange the meeting. The challenger in this case is a suffragette and that she is of the militant order is plain from her proposed method of settling an argument. She evidently wants to explode the old argument that nobody shall have a vote who cannot fight to back it up if necessary.

ATTACKING GOVERNOR FOSS

The three republican candidates for the gubernatorial nomination are working hard, and it is difficult to say which is in the lead. It is undoubtedly a fact, however, that the candidate who will be nominated will have absolutely no chance of election with Governor Foss as his opponent. The party darts fired by these three candidates fall short of the governor. It would not be surprising to find the people of this state electing a strong democratic legislature to assist Governor Foss in carrying out the necessary reforms. That is what the people of Ohio did for Governor Harmon, and it would be a good thing to do here in Massachusetts.

AGAINST RAILROAD STRIKES

The manager of the London and South Western railway in England while testifying before the parliamentary commission appointed to inquire into the recent strike has entered a plea in favor of making a railroad strike a criminal offense. This claim was supported by the contention which in that particular case was probably true to wit, that while certain leaders could precipitate strikes they could not stop them nor prevent their growth. This commission being friendly to the labor organizations, it is not likely to do anything that would deprive them of what they claim as their right. To do so would probably deprive the liberal ministry of the labor vote in parliament without which it might not at all times be able to weather the Tory opposition.

NEW SEWERAGE PROPOSITION

The money expended for sewers should be applied so as to meet the greatest public need and thus benefit the greatest number. Any attempt to have the city build an expensive sewer to benefit a private concern, which should do the work itself, should be promptly blocked and exposed. We understand that there is a scheme of this kind on foot at the present time, one that will not only entail a large expense to the city, but a great responsibility. Why should the city construct a needless sewer to accommodate any private concern while the general public is demanding sewers that cannot be provided? While the city turns the sewerage of a large district into a swamp and lets the overflow run through an open brook, is there, or can there be any excuse for incurring an expense bordering on $50,000 to accommodate a private concern? The city official who would be a party to such a scheme must have slight regard for the interests of the city, not to speak of his own reputation. As for ex-city officials they are not responsible to the people.

THE PAVING OF EAST MERRIMACK STREET

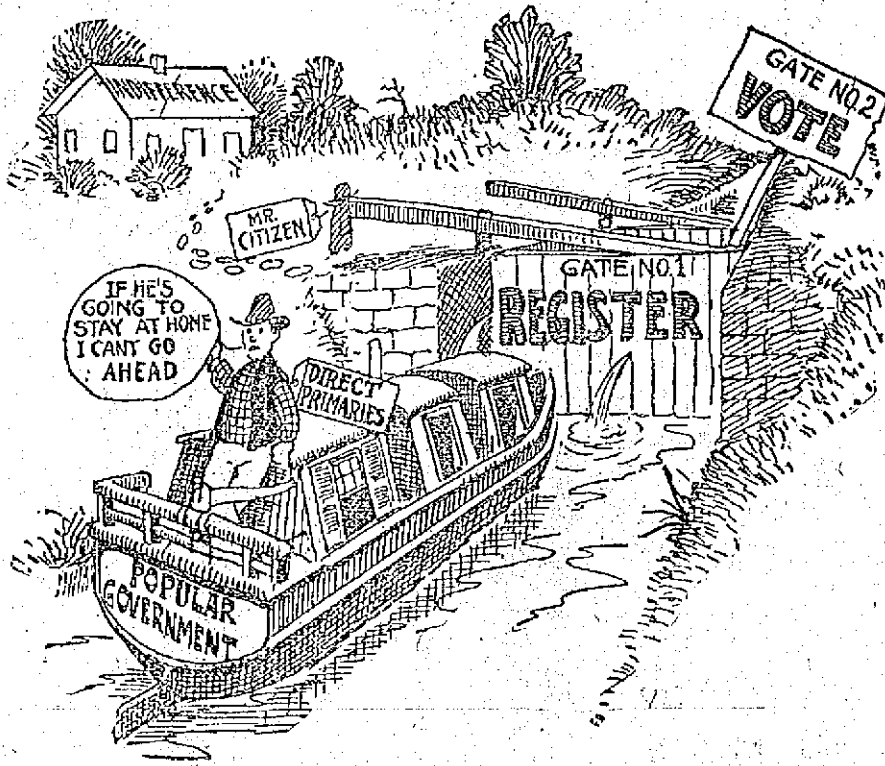

The people of Belvidere are asking why the smooth paving of East Merrimack street is to stop at Howe street instead of at Fayette. To carry the smooth paving to Fayette street would be only a few rods additional, but it would save the reopening of the street at that point and avert also the future interference with the car service and business. While the street railway company at great expense is laying new tracks and road bed, it will simply show short sightedness on the part of the city authorities, if this little section of the street between Howe and Fayette streets is left unpaved. The improvement is needed there as much as on any other part of the street and it is putting the matter mildly to say that public necessity and convenience demand the paving of that part of the street as much as any other. East Merrimack and Church streets are the two thoroughfares by which the vast majority of strangers pass in and out of our city and both should be smooth paved as soon as possible. To leave the rough and broken paving at the foot of East Merrimack street will be a serious menace to the autoists who come to the square by that route. The street department should be authorized at once to continue the smooth paving to Fayette street so as to prevent future inconvenience and possible accidents for which the city will be liable.

SPEAKER WALKER ATTACKS REPUBLICAN MACHINE

Speaker Walker at Brockton, on Saturday, sailed into the republican machine which has been making an effort to side track him for Frothingham. Mr. Walker came out plainly and said that the campaign has been reduced to a question of whether the rank and file of the party wishes to retain the old leadership or wish for a new leadership based more on principle and policy and less upon money.

The republican machine, Mr. Walker alleges, has become a faction within the party and it is much more interested at the present time in retaining its grip upon the party than in working for the party's success. The republican machine, Mr. Walker allows, is opposed to him because he refused to put on the yoke of subservience. The machine in assuming the role of dictator is ruining the party.

Here then is something for the republican state committee and state leaders to take home and ponder upon. On various occasions Mr. Walker has been deliberately snubbed by the leaders. This was wantonly done at the Hamilton meeting at which President Taft spoke. Mr. Walker is apparently the best equipped of all three candidates, although he is not in accord with the machine. Norman White is talking too much and saying too many things that are not so, while Mr. Frothingham claims the place by right of success, although Governor Foss has smashed the succession idea that had been too long fostered to the advantage of second and third rate men.

THE LOCK KEEPER MUST ATTEND TO HIS DUTIES

Even the family tree may have its parasites.

The bitterest words are those of his own that a man is forced to eat.

No system of memory culture has yet been devised to make a woman remember how old she is.

Many a man curses his luck who never had any.

Will R. McDonald, of Washington, rented a farm a few miles outside of the city to escape the din and noise of town; but he soon tired of the trouble of looking after the place.

"I'm going to hire a manager to look after this farm," he told his family at breakfast one morning. "Then I won't have any more trouble. He can occupy a room on the top floor, and we will all have a quiet, easy time."

MacDonald leaned back and smiled serenely in anticipation of the coming rest and peace.

That night as the new manager passed through the hall on his way upstairs MacDonald stepped out and asked him if he cared to have the afternoon paper.

"No, thank you," replied the fount of rest and quiet. "I have a flute on which Howells is a stout opponent of those novelists who, under the pretext of reforming their readers, write books about vice.

"Such writers," said Mr. Howells at a luncheon at Kittery Point, Me., "remind me of a fat woman's mother said to him:

"Why, Johnny, I do believe you're teaching that parrot to swear."

"No, I'm not, mother," the boy replied. "I'm just telling it what it must not say."

"Sister Henderson," said Deacon Hyers, "you should avoid even the appearance of evil."

"Why, deacon, what do you mean?" asked Sister Henderson.

"I observe," said on your sideboards you have several cut-glass decanters, and each of them is half filled with what appears to be ardent spirits."

"Well, now, deacon, it isn't anything of the kind. The bottles look so pretty on the sideboard that I just filled them half way with some floor stain and furniture polish, just for appearances."

"That's why I am cautioning you, sister," replied the deacon. "Feeling a trifle weak and faint, I helped myself to a dose from the big bottle in the middle."

When Thomas J. Pence, the newspaper correspondent, left his native town in North Carolina and plunged into the swirl of great world events in New York and Washington, he was a quiet, unassuming and handsome young fellow, without any of the airs and customs of dudes. But he began to establish a reputation as a "snappy dresser."

Then he went back to his birthplace, where only the aged and infirm got along with the aid of sticks. Tom noticed that everybody in town glanced at him with commiseration and pity.

If he strolled along the street, ably twirling his silver-headed cane, he was conscious that men and women felt sorry for him.

He was wondering what it was all about when an old fellow sidled up to him, took him by the hand, and said sadly:

"Why, Tawm, I never knowed you wuz a cripple!"

OF THOSE WHO WALK ALONE. Women there are on earth, most sweet and high.

Loving it only.

And so they never see beside them grow

Children, whose coming is like breath of flowers;

Consoled by subtler loves the angels know

Good deeds they do; they comfort and they bless

Their task is balm, their touch is tenderness

To all in sorrow.

Sometimes the world smiles at them, as 'twere shame.

This maiden guise, long after youth's departed;

But in God's Book they bear another name—

"The faithful-hearted."

Faithful in life, and faithful unto death,

Such souls, in sooth, illumine with luster splendid

That glimpsed, glad land wherein, the Vision saith,

Earth's wrongs are ended.

SAWING OF LOGS

MAINE VACATIONIST TELLS OF VISIT TO BIG SAW MILLS

A lumber mill is an interesting place to visit. This the writer did while stopping recently at Hampden, Me., Hampden, which lies near Bangor, the great lumber city of that state, contains one of the most thoroughly equipped lumber mills in Maine; that operated by the Sterns Lumber Co. This mill the writer was shown through by the wife of one of the men connected with the plant, a Mr. Edward Prout of East Hampden.

The mill, situated on the shore of the Penobscot river, appears to the spectator from a distance as the terminus of a long layer of floating logs that, lying closely together some few hundred yards out into the river, stretches half a mile "up river."

Each log of what it really is, tree-trunk, is floated into a little cove adjoining the mill, where it is piled into the plant. On its arriving within we will follow and watch the log as it goes through the process of cutting.

First, it is picked up from the water and raised by machinery to the floor of the mill. Then, by a system of rollers, it is carried to the first planing machine. Here, on reaching a position opposite the machine, the log is grasped at each end by the sharp teeth of two long steel bars which, rising out of the flooring, catch the log and throw it onto a vehicle which, to the layman, resembles a very narrow flat freight car. This car, along its track, runs back and forth alternately a distance of some thirty feet. A few inches from, and at the rear end of the trucking on which this miniature car runs, is a stationary buzz-saw of immense power. Being hoisted on its car, the log is placed, or gripped, by the workman operating the machinery into a set position on the edge adjacent to the buzz-saw. The car then starts. On its forward movement the portion of the log's surface at its end comes in contact with the buzz-saw and as the log moves rapidly forward that surface is severed from it. Thus one of the four sides of the huge beam, as it soon will become, is shaved. The car with its log then backs to its former position; the toothed bar again emerges, or rather jumps, from the flooring, the log is caught, as lightly as if it were a match, and is turned in such a position on its car that it is exactly at a right angle with the previously sawed surface.

Again the log is carried forward, again it is quickly ripped through by the buzz-saw, and another side of the beam to be is completed. In this way the log, stripped of its circular girth, is converted into a square beam, each of its sides being in width about one foot.

The beam, now released from its set position on its car by the workman operating that vehicle, is placed on rollers, on which it moves forward to a smaller piece of apparatus. On this it approaches another buzz-saw as it did the first; but here the razor-like teeth so forth until the beam is sawed, or what would more lucidly describe it, sliced, into planks, which in size are about one foot and two inches.

These are the two principal operations through which the log passes. After its second cutting the planks are sawed into the uniform sizes in which lumber is used in building operations.

Naturally, the most important piece of apparatus in a lumber mill are its saws. These are of many sizes but of only two principal shapes—the buzz-saw and the perpendicular saw. The use to which the former is put has been described. The perpendicular saw is one, fashioned from steel of a springy quality, that emerges from the flooring and meets the planks as they, by the rollers, are pushed toward it. As one observes, their razor-like teeth and contemplates the terrific power driving them there creeps upon one a feeling of dreadful fascination that cannot at least be called pleasant; in fact, it is with a feeling of relief when the saws are left behind and another portion of the mill, the sawdust pit, is visited.

Here is accumulated an immense amount of this refuse of the mill. Though refuse it is it assuredly is not wasted. Collected and removed from all over the building, it, by a system of chutes, is fed into the basement of the mill, where, incredible as it may appear to the layman, it feeds day and night the large furnaces which heat the boilers of the plant. MISS JESSIE AMES

The marriage of Mr. Andrew Marshall of Boston, an assistant to the attorney general and a former well known member of the Dartmouth and Harvard football teams, and Miss Jessie Ames, the youngest daughter of General and Mrs. Adelbert Ames, was solemnized last night at the home of the bride's parents in Townsbury in the presence of some thirty guests, all relatives of the contracting couple.

The marriage ceremony was performed at 6:15 o'clock by Rev. Mr. Leavens of Fitchburg, assisted by Rev. Benjamin S. Marshall of New Rochelle, N. Y. Mr. Marshall was attended by his brother, Rev. Robert E. Marshall of Hartford, Conn., while the bride was unattended.

At 7 o'clock a wedding supper was served, and at 8 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Marshall left by automobile for Boston, on their way to a month's stay in the Maine woods.

The guests at the wedding were: Hon. Butler Ames, Adelbert Ames, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Stevens and family, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Borden and family of Fall River; Mr. and Mrs. Oakes Ames and family of North Easton; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Butler of Lowell; Mrs. Andrew Marshall, Miss Florence E. Marshall, Miss Jeanette M. Marshall of Jamaica Plain; Rev. and Mrs. Benjamin S. Marshall of New Rochelle, N. Y.; Rev. Robert E. Marshall of Hartford, Conn.; Dr. and Mrs. Augustus T. Marshall of Chelsea, Vt.; Rev. Robert Leavens of Fitchburg; Dr. Royal Hatch of Weylesley; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nesmith and Miss Nesmith of Townsbury.

OFFICIAL RETURNS

Show That Maine Citizens Voted to Repeal Prohibition

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 19.—Official returns from the special election of last Monday, when Maine voted on the question of the repeal of the prohibition amendment to the constitution, canvassed by the governor and council last night, showed a majority in favor of repeal of 26 votes.

The tabulation of the vote was completed late last night after the council had been in session since mid-afternoon.

Some doubt still remains as to the correctness of the returns, and Gov. Stevens announced that city and town clerks would be given an opportunity to make corrections during the next 20 days.

In more than a dozen instances the figures as received by the governor and council did not agree with those sent to the secretary of state. His figures showed a majority in favor of repeal of 136 votes. The towns in which there were changes were as follows:

	Official Figures	Secretary's Figures
For Against	For Against	For Against
Rep'l Rep'l	Rep'l Rep'l	Rep'l Rep'l
Cumberland...	106 176	99 135
Westfield...	109 9	109 9
Salmon...	12 31	12 31
Porter...	43 132	132 43
Grand Falls...	1 1	1 1
Brownville...	60 132	132 60
Bowdoinham...	16 16	16 16
Athens...	34 39	39 34
Cowdard...	13 46	13 46
Alna...	32 78	31 78
Bradley...	45 37	43 37
Topsfield...	6 14	4 14
Perry...	53 64	64 53

Issue Still in Doubt

The returns from the town of Limestone and St. Francis and Matineus Isle plantations, which have been questioned, compared exactly with those which were received by Sec. of State Davis, but in two instances, Limestone and Matineus Isle, they are reversed from the unofficial returns received elsewhere.

In the cases of Salton, Brownville, Bowdoinham, Topsfield, the official returns agreed with unofficial figures, but were reversed from the returns as received by the secretary of state.

With the result standing as close as it now appears a correction of the vote of any of the towns where a change was shown tonight would have

Not Final, Says Governor

The total vote of the state as shown by the official figures tabulated tonight are as follows:

For repeal, 60,487.

Against repeal, 60,461.

Majority for repeal, 26.

Councilor Turgeon, who had charge of the operation of the adding machine, stated that the figures were subject to verification.

The council adjourned last night to meet today at which time the matter of receiving corrections will be discussed.

Sec. of State Davis already has on file in his office a telegram from the town clerk of Limestone in regard to the incorrectness of his returns.

"This result is by no means final," said Gov. Plaisted last night. "It is subject to correction by the town and city clerks."

May Recount Whole Vote

"Of course," said Gov. Plaisted, "the corrections that are to be made during the next 20 days, certified statements taken from the town records, may change the result."

"Our duty under the statutes is plain, and if any question arises not made entirely clear under our laws, we have the right and privilege to ask and receive the advice of the supreme court."

"I should say the probability of a recount does not seem as likely as a few days ago, as there appears to be some readiness on the part of the city and town officials to correct any errors that may have been made. A certain amount of proof will be necessary and I have no doubt this will be furnished."

"If, after the several corrections and amendments are made, it then seems advisable, by reason of any conditions that may arise, to have a recount of the whole state the opinion of the supreme court will probably be sought on this matter."

Mrs. Stevens Lauds Plaisted

Just after the total vote was announced, after midnight, Mrs. L. M. Stevens of Portland, president of the national W. C. T. U., who was all through the count an interested spectator, pressing forward through the crowd, grasped the hand of Gov. Plaisted and congratulated him and the members of the council upon the fair and businesslike manner in which the canvass had been conducted.

With Mrs. Stevens was Miss Gordon, her private secretary, who was also introduced to the governor. Mrs. Stevens said:

"While I feel assured that after the several corrections are made, by the town clerks the majority vote will be on the 'no' side, yet I feel that, so far as any records have reached the governor, he has been eminently fair in the matter. I regret that the mistakes by the town clerks should have been made, but I understand they are not uncommon in every election."

"I feel confident that every effort will be made to get a correct expression of the people, and I do not feel for a moment that any of the present administration will take any unfair advantage of the situation."

"We Win," Says Fassett

Frederick G. Fassett, the secretary of the Maine non-partisan local self-government league, last night made the following statement:

"The official returns to the governor and council show a victory for the repeal vote. There is no reason to assume that such corrections as may be made in the returns will alter the result. Corrections which will change the vote on the one side are likely to be offset by corrections which will change it on the other."

NEXT STEP IN DOUBT

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 19.—The matter of a special session of the legislature is engaging attention here, and there is considerable speculation over the wording of the resolve submitting the prohibition amendment to the people.

Some lawyers contend that the legislature does not necessarily mean this legislature. On the other hand, it is argued that if the next legislature were meant to be designated as the body to which the governor and council should report the result of its canvass it would have been so stated in the resolve, just as it was in chapter 93 of the resolves of 1913, which placed the amendment in the constitution. That resolve contained the following clause: "And the governor and council shall open, examine and count the same and make return thereof to the next legislature."

The resolve providing for the vote upon the prohibition amendment, at the election recently held, says nothing about a proclamation by the governor, provided a majority of the votes cast are in favor of the proposed amendment annulling the prohibition amendment, but simply states that "The governor and council shall count the same and make return to the legislature, and if a majority of the votes are in favor of said amendment, the constitution shall be amended accordingly."

Some of those who favor an extra session of the legislature claim that by the wording of the resolve submitting the prohibition amendment, the legislature is made a returning board, and in case the canvass by the governor and council shows a majority of votes in favor of the repeal of the prohibition amendment, the constitution cannot be properly changed until the return of the governor and council is made to the legislature and passed upon by that board.

Those opposed to this argument quote sections 2 and 3 of chapter 1 of the Revised Statutes as supporting the contention that if the amendment to the state constitution repealing the prohibition amendment is declared passed it takes effect automatically upon the first Wednesday of January, 1912, and that within 30 days after the amendment appears to have been adopted the governor shall make proclamation thereof.

Section 2 reads as follows: "Unless otherwise provided in the resolve submitting it, every constitutional amendment shall take effect and become part of the constitution on the first Wednesday of January following its adoption by the people."

Section 3 says: "Within 30 days after it appears that a constitutional amendment has been adopted the governor shall make proclamation thereof, and the secretary of state shall forthwith cause such proclamation to be published in the state paper, and it shall also be printed in the next volume of acts and resolves."

THE CANVASS RESUMED

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 19.—Governor Plaisted and the members of his council, who were in session until midnight last night canvassing the returns on the questions of the repeal of the constitutional prohibition amendment voted on at the special election last Monday, reconvened this morning to continue the tabulation, and other questions voted on at the same time and to give the clerks of the towns in which the returns are in dispute an opportunity to present evidence of error and make corrections.

The figures as tabulated last night showed an apparent official majority of 26 in favor of repeal but these figures Gov. Plaisted declares to be by no means final.

"The clerks have 30 days in which to make corrections and until that time the result cannot positively be known,"

said the governor.

The apparent majority of the "wet" side has not disheartened the "drys" and this morning they were busy taking steps to see that returns from towns which they still maintain voted "dry" in spite of the official returns are corrected.

THE SPENCER TRIAL

Will Begin in Springfield on Nov. 13

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 19.—Monday, Nov. 13, has been selected as the day for the opening in the superior court here of the trial of Bertram G. Spencer, charged with the murder of Miss Martha B. Blackstone in this city on March 31, 1910. It is expected that the prosecution will be conducted by Attorney General Swift of Fall River.

The defense is generally expected to be conducted by the late Mr. Spencer, who is in poor physical condition and it is hardly possible that he will not be well enough to face trial in November. He collapsed completely last week when one of the prisoners at the jail attempted to hang himself.

Miss Blackstone was shot and killed during an attack by a burglar upon another woman and herself.

COLORADO WOMEN

WANT TO ATTEND TAFT BANQUET AT DENVER

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 19.—Let the women do the work! is the sad refrain of Colorado suffragettes who are turning their wrath against those in charge of the banquet to President Taft on the occasion of his visit here, October 3. During their request on the grounds that this is an equal suffrage state and that the votes of women were largely responsible for the success of the three republican candidates who broke the solid democratic administration in the state election last fall, women politicians asked for places at the banquet board.

They received coupons entitling them to seats in the gallery and the privilege of watching the men eat.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—Baseball fans who follow the fortunes of the world's champions were a little disturbed today that "Chief" Bender, the star Indian pitcher, is confined to his bed with the grip. Because of their commanding lead, the Athletics fully expected to win the American league pennant and were planning for the world's series. Bender's illness may disarrange these plans unless he quickly responds to treatment. Connie Mack said today he expected to use the "chief" in the coming Detroit series and then rest him up for the prospective series with the National league pennant winners.

CANADIAN ELECTION

The Campaign is Approaching the End

ST. JOHN, N. B., Sept. 19.—All thought rests on the decision of the voters on Thursday next. Campaign literature and orators have done their share and the rest is for the man whose "X" on the ballot paper will mean so much to the great parties which have been carrying Canada through an election turmoil declared unequalled since the provinces became federated as the Dominion in 1867.

In this section the Liberals are fighting to hold the 11 seats which they occupied in the last house of commons and to capture from the opposition the other two, St. John city and York county, which make up the 13 to which this province is entitled. They predict that they will elect 12 representatives but admit doubt about winning York county, where O. S. Crockett, conservative, defeated his liberal opponent in 1903 by more than 800 votes.

A stronger man, Dr. Atherton, is opposing Crockett this time, however, and there is expected at least to be a reduction of his majority. The government workers are hopeful that Hon. William Parsley, minister of public works, who is running in St. John city and whose return is expected with confidence, will carry with him James Lowell as the city and county member, thereby defeating Dr. J. W. Dangle, conservative, who was the St. John city member in the last house, but is this time running in the county.

On the other hand, the conservatives say they will win several seats in the province and will re-elect Crockett and Daniel, and perhaps defeat Parsley himself. The campaign for the last seven weeks has been intense. It is practically all reciprocity, for or against, and the trade agreement has been presented in all forms to attract the voters to the government policy and equally vigorously it has been torn up and turned against Canadian interests by papers supporting R. I. Borden, the conservative leader.

The most marked feature of the whole campaign, however, has been the waving of the "old flag." This has been the conservative appeal in great part—that reciprocity was but a step toward annexation of Canada by the Americans and a consequent breaking of the Dominion's political connection with the British Empire. Disloyalty has been proclaimed from the platform and preached from the press in the appeal to the voters to defeat the reciprocity agreement.

The Liberals have met this by quoting conservative leaders from the days of Sir John A. MacDonald down as eager for reciprocity with the United States. They also have contended that between Peter Boudreau, leader of the French Nationalist party in Quebec, and the conservative leaders, there is a practical alliance. The Nationalists' fight is chiefly made against Laurier's policy of a Canadian navy to be at the disposal of Great Britain in case of an empire war.

The Liberals have sought to break the conservative loyalty attack by stating that King George is most anxious for the peace arbitration treaty with the United States.

Anty Drudge on Marriage.

Miss Dolly Dainty—"I certainly do love James—but he's far too poor for us to get married. I'm not strong enough to do the family washing myself, and we cannot afford a girl."

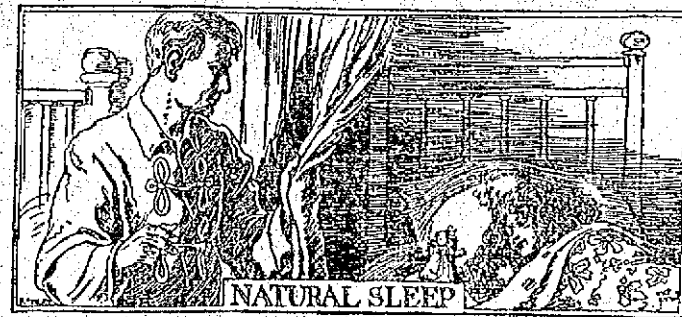

Anty Drudge—"Get married right away if that's all that stops you. You're plenty strong enough to wash clothes the Fels-Naptha way. Fels-Naptha is easy on the woman; easy on the clothes."

Easy on the woman: easy on the clothes! That, in a nutshell, is the Fels-Naptha way of washing.

Fels-Naptha soap does away with all the hard and disagreeable part of washing clothes. Little rubbing, no steaming suds to bend over, no keeping up fire to boil the clothes, no nauseous odor from cooking soiled garments.

Then, clothes last longer with no boiling to weaken their fiber and no hard rubbing to wear them thin.

Look for the red and green wrapper.

"God Bless The Man Who Invented Sleep!"

NO one but a victim of insomnia can realize the suffering, the despair that goes with sleeplessness. The more sleep lost the less able he is to sleep until it is no wonder that in his fear of ultimate complete breakdown he tries with some dangerous drug, which while it stupefies, leaves the nervous system weaker than ever, and a prey to habit. The labels of most remedies for sleeplessness reveal coal-tar products and opiates as active principles.

TO COST $174,000,000

To Run the City of New York This Year

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—It will cost $174,000,000 to run the city of New York this year. To show how this immense sum is spent and also how much the various departments want to spend next year and invite intelligent criticism of these estimates the city will lay out $35,000 next month on an exhibit that will reveal the details of city administration in such simple form that they may be understood by the humblest citizen.

The idea of a budget exhibit originated here and has since been adopted by other municipalities since the first exhibit here last year. New York's second annual exhibit will last through the month of October.

Originally the purpose of the exhibit was to meet the inquiries and criticisms of taxpayers, which increased rapidly with the rise in the cost of maintaining the city's government. By this means the board of estimate and apportionment, which has the affair in charge, hopes to show taxpayers just what they get for their money and, also, through publicity, to check extravagances on the part of the various departments.

To the visitor the exhibit offers an impressive lesson of the size and growth of the country's largest city. Figures prepared by the various departments show that the city employs 107,000 persons, $5,000 of them all the time and $38,500 temporarily. The largest group of employees are the schoolteachers, who number 17,200. The police come next with 16,118. The firemen number 13,436. Care of the streets, parks, sewers, docks and bridges require 19,200. In winter 7000 snow shovellers and drivers of snow-removal carts are employed. The total payroll of the city is $38,500,021.

Last year's experiment showed that the budget exhibit is the best patronized show in the city. About 500,000 persons visited it in 1910. The exhibit will be anything but a showing of dry facts and figures. Several of the departments will have moving picture shows in daily operation.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The Archbishop of Canterbury has interested himself in the campaign to prevent the scheduled Johnson-Wells go and has written the home office regarding the action to suppress the contest. Of this, the letter states, he is in favor.

FOR THE NEW CHARTER

Active Campaign Work Soon to be Started

The charter committee of sixty or a fair representation thereof met at the board of trade rooms last night and discussed a plan of campaign to be carried out between now and election day. The campaign contemplates, first, the dissemination of charter literature. It is intended to send a condensed copy of the charter to every voter in Lowell, and to hold a number of mass meetings together with ward meetings at which speakers will explain the charter to those who may attend. Arrangements will also be made for headquarters at which voters may call for information in regard to the charter and its various provisions.

The committee on finance was instructed to solicit funds to carry out the campaign plan as mapped out. The publicity committee was instructed to take steps to have the provisions of the charter distributed in the French language. A number of speakers expressed the opinion that the sentiment is rapidly changing in favor of the charter and in spite of the opposition that is quietly at work, the charter will be adopted by a large majority vote at the state election.

William J. Wilson, president, Mr. Charles A. Littlefield reported what he and a number of his friends were doing for the charter, but he said it would require active work throughout the city to ensure its adoption.

STATE FEDERATION MATTERS DISCUSSED AT MEETING IN HAVERHILL TODAY

HAVERHILL, Sept. 19.—Discussion of various constitutional amendments occupied most of the time at today's session of the annual convention of the state branch, American Federation of Labor. An amendment proposed by the committee on constitutional amendments to provide for the election of seven vice presidents instead of five as at present was defeated after considerable debate. The vote was 88 to 56 in favor of the amendment, but as a two-thirds vote was required the amendment was lost.

The committee on constitutional amendments reported a resolution to do away with the legislative committee and give its powers to the executive council but later added an amendment to compose the committee of three members.

E. Gerry Brown offered another substitute, authorizing the legislative committee to organize a legislative department to be augmented by delegates from the various central labor unions, who should be kept in touch with legislative matters. Some of the delegates thought that the executive council should have control over the actions of the legislative committee, while others thought that the committee should continue to have full power in its department.

The delegates this afternoon visited a local shoe factory and later resumed their deliberations.

DeAlmeida Agreed to Make Restitution

CAMBRIDGE, Sept. 19.—After an agreement of restitution had been made in the case of Eduardo DeAlmeida, the Portuguese vice consul at Lowell, who was charged with the larceny of $570 from a fellow countryman, was placed on file in the Middlesex county superior criminal court today. DeAlmeida was secretly indicted by the grand jury. He pleaded not guilty to the charge, but later agreed to make restitution.

BAKERS' CONVENTION

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 19.—A sufficient amount of money has been assured union funds for the establishment of six anti-break trust bakeries, according to announcement made at today's session of the convention of the international union of bakery and confectionery workers. On the first bakery, which will be built in Pittsburgh, the union will expend $75,000.

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 19.—It was announced today that a lightship would be stationed off Halifax next December as an aid to winter shipping.

ANNOUNCEMENT

On account of the tearing down of the building which we occupy, and with no roof over our heads, we are obliged to move at once to our new temporary headquarters—the HARRINGTON STORE ON CENTRAL STREET, next to the Electric Light Co., where we will be in readiness to continue to dispose of our large stock of goods.

You can purchase goods for a few days longer at the old stand at private sale at auction prices, either at our Central street store or at our Merrimack street store. Never was so much fine jewelry and bric-a-brac carried out of a store in this city as left our store yesterday. The sales show it. Mr. Solomon, the auctioneer, nearly talked his head off yesterday and he made a big hole in the stock. We are going to give him a rest for a short time, but Saturday he will be on the block again and then Wood's jewelry will fly in all directions of the city and suburbs. Get ready for the slaughter auction sale, SATURDAY AT ONE O'CLOCK SHARP.

STOLYPIN IS DEAD

The Russian Premier Passed Away Last Night

KIEV, Sept. 19.—Coinciding with the death last night of Premier Peter A. Stolypin from bullet wounds received at the hands of an assassin during a performance at the Municipal theatre Thursday night, there began a panic among the Jewish inhabitants of the city and 30,000 troops were poured into the city to prevent excesses.

Almost until the last the premier was conscious, and for half an hour during the early part of the evening his wife alone was at his bedside.

Toward the end Stolypin suffered greatly. He groaned incessantly and threw himself about on the couch on which he lay. Finally the heart action became weaker, and as the body grew cold, the premier realized that death was overtaking him. At a lucid interval a priest administered extreme unction. The Metropolitan Flavian blessed and consoled him in his last moments. Frequently he called: "Give me the letter. Take it away. Give me a red pencil."

His last words were: "Lift me. Light up."

Half an hour before his death Stolypin asked the doctors to turn him on his side. He died peacefully, surrounded by several of his relatives and state officials.

All hope for the premier's recovery was abandoned yesterday morning. On Saturday night indications of peritonitis were noted, which became aggravated on Sunday.

The authorities at first decided to conceal the news of the premier's death until morning, fearing anti-Jewish outbreaks. This was found to be impossible, and after announcement was made all the attention of the authority was ever ready to die in the service of the czar, and on three occasions his life was attempted. One of the most determined attempts to take it came in August of the year 1905, when a bomb exploded in his house killed 30 persons and severely injured two of his children, but failed to do him harm.

Stolypin was standing in the little office of his villa, chatting with some of his lieutenants, when the explosion took place. Several near him were killed, but he was not even scratched. An inkwell lying upon the table was hurled from its position, its contents covering his clothing—that was all—and he aided in the work of bringing out the dead and injured.

From that time Stolypin went into seclusion. For days he remained in the government building, never leaving, even during the night hours.

In appearance Stolypin was a tall, handsome man. As a courtier he was suave, unctuous and diplomatic, but of strong will and determination. He was a graduate of the University of St. Petersburg.

As minister of the interior, prior to his premiership, Stolypin came into conflict with the Duma. When he made his first speech before the members of that body cries of "Murderer!"

filled the great hall, but this did not disturb his poise.

As governor of Saratov he took such steps against the terrorists and liberals alike as won him the devotion of the advanced parties. He was appointed premier July 26, 1906, and stamped out the revolution which had grown so threatening under M. Sergius Witte, and which even Witte's successor, Goremykin, was unable to control.

One hundred and fifty arrests of lawyers and other acquaintances of Dmitry Bogroff, the man who shot Stolypin, have been made in Kiev.

Bogroff talked freely yesterday of his past life and furnished the authorities with valuable clues. The original confident behavior of the prisoner has given place to despondency and he is now receiving medical treatment. In the course of the questioning Bogroff declared that he held M. Stolypin as one of the most perilous men of the state.

Another version is that the revolutionaries put Bogroff, who, according to the police had been filling the dual role of revolutionary agent and police spy in a dilemma where he had to kill Stolypin or be himself killed. Bogroff chose to attempt the first alternative.

MAYOR J. F. MEEHAN

Replies to Rev. Mr. Willmott on Sunday Picture Shows

At the First Congregational church Sunday night the pastor, Rev. B. A. Willmott, attacked Mayor John F. Meehan for licensing Sunday theatres. He said that the mayor had licensed all corners practically for permits to run theatrical performances on Sunday and the mayor today gave out the following statement in reply to Mr. Willmott:

"In reply to the remarks of the Rev. Mr. Willmott I would say that the sacred concert proposition is under the direct supervision of the mayor, and as mayor of Lowell I am perfectly satisfied with existing conditions, because I believe I am meeting the popular demand.

"Last Sunday night I visited four of the sacred concerts and I feel certain if Mr. Willmott had seen the character of the audiences at the different places he would change his views.

"While I feel that Mr. Willmott is entitled to his opinion in regard to this proposition, I cannot see the logic of his attacking me simply because I disagree with him.

"Every picture displayed at a sacred concert must be endorsed by the chief of the state police, and I can assure Mr. Willmott that any picture receiving his approval will not offend even the most delicate mind.

"The state of Massachusetts places its sanction upon sacred concerts under proper regulation, and said concerts are in operation in Boston and other Massachusetts cities."

IMMENSE CROWDS

To Welcome Taft at Sault Ste. Marie

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Sept. 19.—Early today big crowds from Canada and northern Michigan began to gather here to welcome President Taft. The welcome promised to be all that could be desired and the city was in gala attire.

The day's program included a brief tour of the city by the president on his arrival and a review of 2500 school children in the government park, after which the president was scheduled to make a brief visit at the home of Gov. Osborn.

Elaborate plans were made for the luncheon at the armory tendered Mr. Taft shortly after noon by 500 residents of the city. The principal address of the day was scheduled for delivery in the beautiful park surrounding the entertainment committee arranged for a review of the troops at Fort Brady and an inspection of the locks.

ACCEPTED INVITATION
SOO JUNCTION, Mich., Sept. 18.—The special train bearing President Taft and his party passed through here shortly after one o'clock today. Coming across the straits of Mackinac this morning the president stood on the upper deck of the ferry for nearly an hour, so when he came out on the rear platform of his car at St. Ignace and at this place he congratulated the people on the long-filling breezes they enjoy.

The president today accepted an invitation of Chancellor Frank Stronk of the University of Kansas at Lawrence to address the students of that university on Sunday.

The president today sent the following telegram to Mrs. Edmund Madison, wife of Congressman Madison, who died yesterday:

"I was deeply pained to hear of the death of the shocking death of Judge Madison. Allow me to express to you my sympathy in your great loss."

At Trout Lake, Republican State Chairman Knox and State Senator Fowler boarded the president's train to make the trip into the Soo with him.

PINK SALMON PACK

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 19.—The pack of pink salmon on Puget sound this season now is expected to total 900,000 cases, or more than double the pack of the largest previous season, 1909 when the sound pack was 445,700 cases. Almost the entire catch has been sold. Packers declare that this is unprecedented.

GRAND JURY

INVESTIGATED ALLEGED WHOLE-SALE VOTE SELLING

BROOKFIELD, Mass., Sept. 19.—A grand jury investigation of what is claimed to be wholesale vote selling in this county has resulted in the arrest of seven men and today it is declared from the prosecutor's office that many more arrests are in sight. The seven men taken into custody were released in bail of $500.

ALDERMAN BARRETT

Is Opposed to a Sewer Along Railroad Tracks

Alderman Andrew E. Barrett is strongly opposed to the sewer proposition for the American Hide and Leather company by which a sewer would be constructed along the railroad track from the bridge crossing the Concord at Lawrence street to the company's works and thence across the Concord river. Alderman Barrett went over the ground yesterday with Supt. Putnam and sees no need of the sewer if the company carries out its promise to build a sewer for its own use across the Concord to connect with the Lawrence street sewer.

VEGETABLE GROWERS' ASSN.

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—Members of the Vegetable Growers' association from various parts of the country met in Horticultural hall today for their fourth annual convention, which will continue four days. The delegates are guests of the Boston Market Gardeners' association. President Watts of the State college of Pennsylvania made the opening address. The address of welcome was given by President Hali of Boston and the response was by E. A. Dunbar of Ashabula, Ohio.

WILL NOT REPRINT BALLOTS

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—Secretary of State Albert P. Langtry announced today that the primary ballots already printed and on which the name of Frank J. Donahue, candidate for the democratic nomination for secretary of state is mis-spelled will not be re-printed. Mr. Langtry said that it would be a physical impossibility to do the work and get the ballots distributed in time for the primaries one week from today. Counsel for Donahue sent a letter to the secretary of state yesterday demanding that the mistake be rectified.

WAS DAMAGED BY FIRE

Blaze Broke Out in a House in Tewksbury Today

A telephone message from just beyond the line in Tewksbury at 11:30 o'clock this morning summoned the Palmer street chemical, Hose 7, Engine 4, and the Lawrence street apparatus to a stubborn fire in a cottage house at 80 Rogers street and the firemen had a very hard fight for more than half an hour before the blaze was under control. The fire burned briskly, and the entire upper portion of the house was destroyed. Assistant Chief

Norton, who was in charge, said he did not know just what the exact cause of the fire was, but it would appear that it started from a defective chimney or flue. The house was occupied by a Greek family and the man of the house says that he was in the kitchen at 11:15 o'clock, when suddenly the flames shot up around the chimney and fireplace. The entire building is badly damaged and the upper portion, including the sleeping rooms, is practically a total loss.

A DARING ATTEMPT

To Wreck a Train at Newport, Me.

NEWPORT, Me., Sept. 19.—What was evidently a deliberate attempt at train wrecking was discovered on the Dexter branch of the Maine Central railroad yesterday afternoon.

Alvah Eldridge of Newport while walking over the tracks from Newport to Dexter discovered a heavy rail placed across the tracks at a point near Nason stream at the northern end of Lake Sebasticook and about two miles south of Corinna station.

He immediately got into communication with the station agent at Corinna and section men were sent to the scene and removed the obstruction. The rail had been taken from a rail post near by. It is understood a thorough investigation will be made.

People at Corinna saw two men, evidently tramps, pass over the tracks of the Maine Central bound toward Dexter during the day and the officials would like very much to interview these men in regard to the matter.

The point where the rail was placed is one of the most dangerous on the Dexter branch. It was on a sharp curve and the train, if derailed, would have plunged on either side into the water of Nason stream or Lake Sebasticook.

REPORT DENIED

THAT SHAKERS ARE TO RAISE DEFENSE FUND

CANTERBURY, N. H., Sept. 19.—Reports that the Shakers of the country intend to raise a large fund for the defense of Elizabeth Sears and E. B. Gillespie, members of the Shaker colony at Kinsmen, Mass., who recently administered chloroform to Sadie Merchant when she was in the last stages of tuberculosis, has been denied by E. A. Bruce, of the Canterbury Shaker colony. In a statement today Elder Bruce said:

"It seems to me that Brother Egbert Gillespie and Sister Eliza Sears, according to what knowledge I have, acted, to say the least, most unwisely. Nothing is desired by Shakers for them other than justice before the law. I think Shakers are generally considered as law-abiding in this case if on trial of the facts it shall appear that the chloroform was administered with intent in a manner to illegally cause the death of Sadie Merchant no Shaker would demur if punishment according to law followed. It may be and probably will be a subject for the central ministry to consider as a matter of discipline, should the facts warrant, but no steps along that line have yet been taken. Shakers as a whole will have nothing whatever to do with the legal aspects of the case and will not furnish funds for any possible defense. Shakers have no belief or tenet relative to 'euthanasia'. We are just plain human beings, intending to keep and obey all civil laws."

1911 FOOTBALL SEASON SHOULD PROVE ONE OF THE GREATEST EVER

THE 1911 football season promises to be one of the most successful in the history of the game. The new rules reduced the number of accidents to a minimum last year, and the rules as now modified promise to practically eliminate all danger of players being hurt.

There have been no radical changes made in the rules from those of last year. A simplified wording of the old rules is about all that has been done.

It was the forward pass that came in for the most attention from the rule-makers, and there is much speculation as to whether in its new dressing it will be a success.

According to the new rule a forward pass is illegal when the player receiving it fails to hold on to the ball.

When a forward pass is declared illegal it will be returned to the place where it was originally put into play. The same goes on an uncompleted forward pass, which is one that hits the ground before being touched by any player on either side.

This year when a player catches a forward pass the players on the defensive can tackle him as soon as he catches the ball. Under the rules last year he had to wait till the man took at least two steps. There was much confusion and argument as to whether or not the rusher had taken two steps when the tackle was made.

Another important change in the code is that which lessens the time between quarters. Last year the players were obliged to wait so long before resuming play that they became thoroughly chilled, their muscles stiffening and preventing them from putting up their best game.

Now the teams will only pause long enough between quarters to permit of their changing goals.

In the future the umpire will keep time instead of the head linesman. In the past, when a captain wanted to call a halt he had to go to the side lines in order to post the linesman, so time could be taken out. The head linesman will also judge all offside plays instead of only those made by ends, as heretofore.

The rules also provide a penalty for the player resorting to the trick of concealing the ball and such artifices, which do not demonstrate any real football ability. It was on a play where he had the ball hidden under his jersey that Hudson, the Carlisle player, won from Harvard at Cambridge some years ago.

Followers of the game are of the opinion that this will prove the most interesting season in years and that the new rules will demonstrate that they are good and sane. There will be more big games played than ever before.

Sam Crawford Remarkable Figure in Baseball

ONE of the most remarkable figures in baseball this year is Sam Crawford of the Detroit Tigers. Much has been written about the veteran players Jimmy Callahan of Chicago, Earl Moore of Philadelphia and other "come-back" stars, but little attention has been paid to Sam Crawford, Jennings' sterling outfielder. None deserves more praise than the former barber of Warren, Mich.

Today Crawford is rated the standard outfielder in the Detroit corps. His fielding has been bettered, due to the use of more speed than Sam has shown in several years. This year he has made catches that no one would think him capable of making in former years. His throwing also has been wonderful. Many Detroit fans say he is the best Tiger outfielder since Matty McIntyre's day. Heavy stick work and the ability to hit in the pinches have caused many pitchers to fear him.

This year Crawford has made some of the longest drives in his career. Marked improvement in base running has also been noticed. His sliding has been a revelation to those who have followed his work from season to season.

Long Distance Swimmers
More Successful This Year
Than For Many Seasons

LONG distance swimmers have been more successful this year than for many seasons. Richards' swim to the Boston Light and Rose Pelron's swim from New York to Coney Island being striking successes.

In recognition of the exceptional performance of Walter Pomeroy and George Bond, the Olympic club swimmers who managed to negotiate the Golden Gate recently, the board of directors of the "O" organization of San Francisco has presented Pomeroy with a handsome gold watch and Bond a gold belt, beautifully engraved. Both of these prizes surpass anything of the kind ever donated by the club to its athletes.

Camera Showed Up Lynch

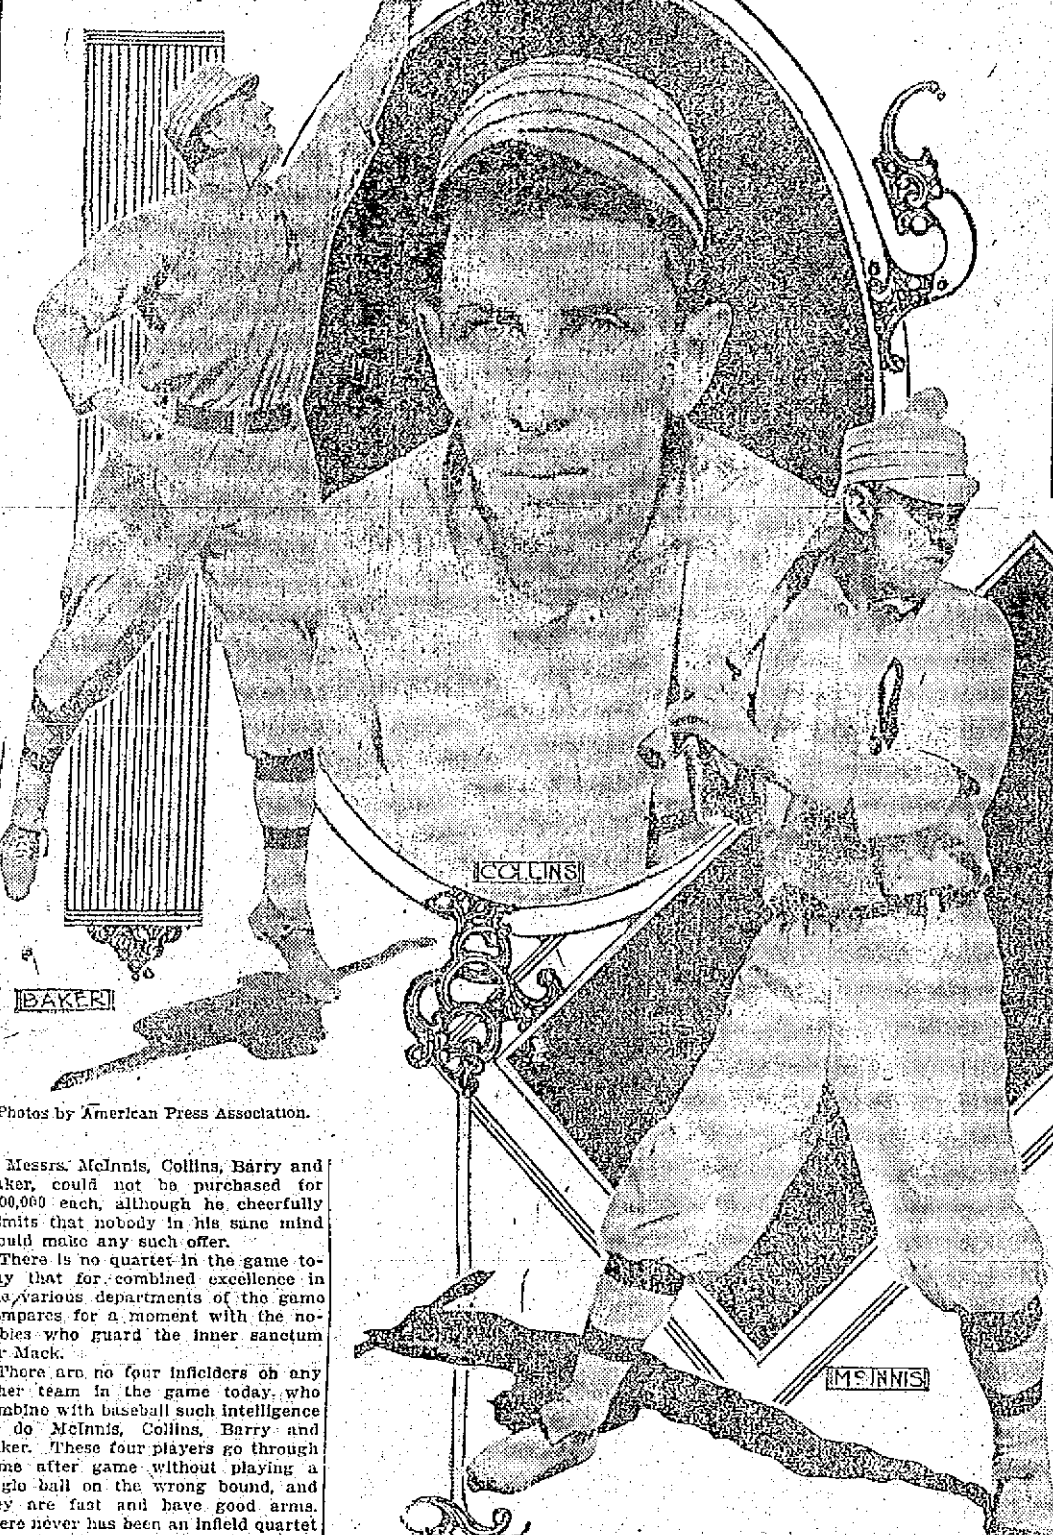

TOM LYNCH is out to protect his umpires in every way conceivable to the human think tank. President Tomaso of the National league has a rule enforced which prohibits photographers on the field after game time simply to protect his arbiters. This costs the league a great deal of advertising, for action pictures of the latest body performers are seldom seen, but Tom Lynch would rather protect his umpires than advertise his league.

Now the angle is this: When Tom Lynch was an umpire he had occasion to make a decision of a close and vital play one day in a game between the Giants and ancient Cubs. Tom gave the decision against the Giants, and there was a terrible roar from McGraw's mob. The next day a "McGraw" paper "sprung" a picture of Tom Lynch in question, showing that Lynch had erred. He had missed the

PHILADELPHIA ATHLETICS' $400,000 INFIELD COST ONLY A SMALL SUM

By TOMMY CLARK.

EVERYBODY knows that there was an infield now cavorting around the American league circuit that is valued at $400,000? No? Well there is. Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, says that his quartet, composed of Messrs. McInnis, Collins, Barry and Baker, could not be purchased for $100,000 each, although he cheerfully admits that nobody in his sane mind would make any such offer.

There is no quarter in the game today that for combined excellence in the various departments of the game compares for a moment with the notables who guard the inner sanctum for Mack.

There are no four infielders on any other team in the game today who combine with baseball such intelligence as do McInnis, Collins, Barry and Baker. These four players go through game after game without playing a single ball on the wrong bound, and they are fast and have good arms. There never has been an infield quartet that handled bouncers, "hops" and grass cutters better than McInnis, Collins, Barry and Baker, and it is doubtful if any four players on one team ever made these plays so well.

Collins and Barry gauge a ball that "hops" to them better than any other pair of infielders at second base. Evers

PORTLAND NOW IN FIELD WITH BUDDING "WHITE HOPE"

AND still they come. Once more there has appeared a man ready to take up "the white man's burden." The latest addition to "white hope" ranks him from St. Paul and is now a resident of Portland, Ore. His name is Mark J. O'Donnell. Big and husky and with all kinds of desire to lick people inside a roped ring, Mac has been steadily plodding along under the guidance of Tom Tracy, well known former boxer of renown. The Portland pugilist stands six feet one and one-half inches and tips the beam at 135 pounds.

Young, inexperienced and not long for the spot lights of publicity, O'Donnell has been in Portland more than four months. Before going there he worked in Millenburgh.

The big fellow's few adventures inside a prize ring have met with pronounced success. He first conceived the idea that he might be worth something as a fighter when Jack Johnson was traveling through St. Paul. He heard the ebony lined knight of swat-guns and made such a good impression on the champion that Jack gave him a nice sendoff after the bout.

Fighting Nelson once essayed to blast the hopes of the Portland giant and was handed a sleep producer for his pains. This match took place at Ellensburg and lasted two rounds. Another bout of short duration in which Mac came out winner was pulled off at Wallace, Ida. He fought Tom Kingsley and put him out in three rounds. He dabbled with several amateurs, and none of the matches lasted more than three rounds. The Portland wonder always came out on top via the knockout route.

O'Donnell is a steamfitter, and the heavy work developed his strength at an early age. He follows a simple, clean life and has done very little to impair the wonderful physique with which he is endowed. And, although a large man, he is quite quick on his feet and clever with his hands.

ED PLANK VERSUS "BIG CHIEF" BENDER.

None of the old time rivalry that obtained when Indian Bender was at Carlisle and Eddie Plank at Dickerson is noticeable in the relations of the two great pitchers on the Athletics team today. Plank in the days when the American league was just a baby Bender and Plank often met in fierce combat on their respective college fields. And always there was a desperate battle.

TY COBB is a pretty good fellow at that. Talk to a lot of people and they will tell you that this great speeder thinks of nothing else outside of his own fine average, his daily egotistical stunts and such. Although not as backward as Hans Wagner, Cobb is nothing of an egotist, as a lot of fans like to make him out. The best thing a ball player can do is to recognize his constituents and at all times make friendly with them. Well, one Tyrus has gone a little bit further than that. He has gone so far as to show magnanimity by explaining to several of the other players how to play the game like he does. Joe Jackson, the Cleve-

What Position Produces Most Managers?

WHAT position on the diamond produces the most baseball managers? A glance over the list of big league generals shows that the shortstop and first base positions furnish baseball with a majority of the national pastime's directors in chief. Another peep reveals the fact that there is little to choose, so far as managerial ability is concerned, between the men who have advanced from the playing firmament to the leadership stage.

Of the sixteen major league managers four had gained renown as first basemen, four had made their mark as catchers, three were formerly or are catchers, and one each has graduated from right field, center field, third base and pitcher. There is missing in the managerial list only a second baseman. The first basemen who are now managers are Frank Chance, Chicago; Fred Tenney, Boston; Hal Chase, New York Americans; and George Stovall, Cleveland. The shortstop delegation includes Hugh Jennings, Detroit; Hugh Duffy, Chicago Americans; Roderick Wallace, St. Louis Americans; and William Dahlen, Brooklyn. The catchers who have made their mark as big league leaders are Connie Mack, Philadelphia Americans; Charley Doot, Philadelphia Nationals; and Roger Bresnahan, St. Louis.

TY COBB TEACHES RIVALS FINE ART OF BASEBALL

land player, is second to Cobb in base stealing, and many think that the lessons taught to the Naps by Ty are responsible for this. If reports are correct Cobb showed Joe how to use the fall away slide and also pointed out the other fine points of base running. It is also said that Cobb took hold of Corhan of the White Sox and showed him the way to hit. Corhan has never been a slugger, but has been showing a little better at that, but lately, and in Chicago they say Ty has made a batter of him. All these things are great for the league and point out the value of a player like Cobb. He's a rich card, and there's no getting away from it.

and Tinker at their best may have equaled Collins and Barry, but that is the best the Club pair ever did. Neither Collins nor Barry misjudges speed or length of a bound once out of fifty times enough to bother in throwing the ball. They get every ball that "hops" on the right "hop," which is at the right height to make the play safe and to be ready to throw the instant after the ball lands in their hands.

Baker cannot play the right "hop" as Collins and Barry do because he has neither room nor time at third base to come in or go back on the ball, but he handles less half "hops" than any other third baseman. A half hop is a short bound.

Mack also says that Collins did not have to be taught to play a ground ball right, and Mack adds that Barry learned in a few weeks.

Connie claims Collins is the greatest instinctive player of his time or any other time. From the first Collins did the right thing at the right time.

"If it weren't that I might appear greedy I'd name Barry and Baker as the next greatest instinctive players, with McInnis a close fourth," says Connie.

McInnis is playing first base as brilliantly as any man that ever held down the initial sack. Mack recently stated that he considered the youngster to be the greatest of all first basemen.

"How much would I take for the infield? Well, that's a question, of course, that couldn't be answered. I wouldn't take $100,000 apiece for the boys, for when we need a player there isn't enough money to buy him.

"Those boys ought to be in their prime for seven to ten years to come, so you see that there is no need of doing any worrying over the infield unless we get an accident or something that will ruin one of them for good."

When Connie Mack quits baseball he can open a clothing store, being so shrewd at making bargains. With his long face and black raiment he might even qualify as a successful horse trader. The most remarkable performance in baseball, from an economic viewpoint, was recruiting for $15 the infield that won the American league pennant and the world's championship last year, and it has an excellent chance of duplicating the performance this season. That's what the Athletics' inner workmen cost. Ed Collins was in New York. Frank Baker held out at Reading, Pa.; Barry was at Holy Cross and McInnis at Gloucester, C. Mack sent railroad tickets. The pasteboards totaled $15.

GRIFFITH HAS LANDED ONLY ONE PENNANT WINNER IN ELEVEN YEARS

TOLD in plain figures, what is the managerial record of the gentleman who has for the past three years conducted the destinies of the Cincinnati club? Do the official statistics show him to be a winner or a loser, a hero or a goat? Study the figures and then decide. His first essay was with the newborn American league in 1901. Coniskey had collected a hustling team, and with the pennant prestige of 1900 to boost it, this club won the flag. Good stuff, but how much due to Coniskey and how much to the manager? In 1902 the White Sox fell to fourth position, and Coniskey very cheerfully parted with his manager so that the new formed New York team might have a leader.

In 1903 the new club of the Hilltop finished fourth. Then, being anxious to give the Giants something like local competition, the American league strengthened the team, and it finished second after a great race. In 1905 it fell with a crash and sank to sixth position. Again the club was braced and bolstered and still with the same pilot rose to second in 1906. Then it slipped again. Apparently no amount of aid could keep it up. Something dragged it down. Hard luck—or what? Anyhow, it finished fifth in 1907 and was the joke of the league in 1908, finishing absolutely last. Incidentally Frank Farrell got rid of his manager during the disastrous campaign.

The manager then took on the Reds. He finished fourth in 1909 with a powerful, hard hitting club. In 1910, with a team still further braced, he fell to fifth. In 1911, after some big trades had apparently re-enforced the club to enormous strength, it dropped still another peg and landed sixth. Anyhow, it's right there now and will hardly climb.

Years ago the manager was one of the grandest pitchers that ever stood upon the slab. He was the essence of coolness, pluck and crafty skill. He could win a pennant almost single handed, and it was largely his splendid work as a bowman that won the flag for Coniskey in 1901. When his wonderful skill began to fade—or rather, when he ceased to take his regular turn upon the slab, whether his skill was less or not—the teams he ruled began to slump. In the past five years fourth place has been the highest mark he has attained. In eleven years his tab stands: First once, second twice, third none, fourth three times, fifth twice, sixth twice, seventh none, eighth once. The statistics:

Year	Team	Rank	Per.
1901	Chicago (A. L.)	First	.40
1902	Chicago (A. L.)	Fourth	.32
1903	New York (A. L.)	Fourth	.37
1904	New York (A. L.)	Second	.59
1905	New York (A. L.)	Sixth	.47
1906	New York (A. L.)	Second	.68
1907	New York (A. L.)	Fifth	.42
1908	New York (A. L.)	Eighth	.31
1909	Cincinnati	Fourth	.501
1910	Cincinnati	Fifth	.457
1911	Cincinnati	Sixth	.400

*Season not yet over.

MARQUARD HAS CLASS, EVANS. Steve Evans, the St. Louis National outfielder, thinks Rube Marquard of the Giants will develop into one of the greatest pitchers in the world. "He's got everything," says Steve. "He's left handed, lopsided, wrynecked and crazy, and if that combination doesn't make a good pitcher I'm a sailor."

HARD LUCK SEEMS TO BEFALL ALL DETROIT'S FIELD CAPTAINS

THE recent report that Manager Jennings has asked for waivers on Moriarty and Davy Jones has started the old story about the ill fortune that follows occupancy of the captain's job with the Detroit team. Moriarty is the third man to hold the position under Hughson, and luck has been against every one of the three while captain of the team.

Coughlin was the first. In 1907 and 1908, and was in such physical shape at the end of the latter season that he was almost forced out of the world's series and was released because of the way he was going back at the end of that season.

Herman Schaefer, now with Washington, at the start of 1909 was rewarded for two years of faithful and brilliant service on pennant winning teams by being named as successor of Coughlin. Schaefer was taken off that

THE 1912 OLYMPIC MARATHON

ATHLETIC gossip from Stockholm, the seat of the next Olympic games, seems to indicate that there will be some novelties introduced during the meet, as well as changes here and there in the competitive end of the program. It has been officially announced that the start and finish of the Marathon race will be from the stadium, which will be some comfort to the competitors, as they can be well attended to before starting out on the long grind. The course will be triangular and arranged so that there will be no chance of the runners getting mixed toward the finish. Another advantage which the plan will provide is that the public will be able to watch the start and finish of the race without moving off their seats. Heretofore in other fixtures of this kind the training facilities in the immediate neighborhood of the games were rather limited, but this time the conditions will be different.

Close to the Idrottsparken, where the stadium has been erected, there is a big sporting ground fitted with a running track and all the apparatus in the infield, and there are to be dressing rooms and shower baths, as well as lounging rooms for the athletes. Visitors who might happen to reach Stockholm some time before the opening of the games and who might care to do a little training will find plenty of accommodation. It is the intention of the Swedish Olympic committee to fit up some schools that are situated in the neighborhood as sleeping apartments, and there the competitors can berth at a nominal figure.

A great feature of the games will be the exercises of the various singing societies. The choruses to the number of about 4,000 intend to attend each day and render the national and other airs of the different countries having teams in the competition. One of the days about midway in the program is to be set aside entirely to singing, with selections by the bands. Anybody who has ever been to Wales at any of the big football matches can form an idea of what a monster chorus can do in the way of adding life to the event. The Swedish singers will go on much the same plan.

The American Olympic committee through its secretary, James E. Sullivan, has made the first appeal to the country to defray the expenses of the Yankee boys to Sweden. The team this time will number about sixty men, and to take them across and keep them in proper style will need a fund of $50,000. The Amateur Athletic union has already contributed $1,000 of the amount, and the remainder, which is considerable, is to be gathered here and there from the athletic bodies and other kindred organizations. The American committee believes that such districts as New England, headed by the Boston A. A.; the Central association, with the Chicago A. A. as a leader, and the Metropolitan association will contribute liberally, as on former occasions, and that perhaps the two Atlantic associations, the Southern, the Pacific and the Pacific Northwest, will put their shoulders to the wheel with a little more vim than they have formerly. In America today there are enough men interested in amateur sport to easily gather the needed sum without appealing to the captains of industry or the wealthy class. All that is necessary is a little system in the way of each club opening a subscription list and collecting a small sum from each member.

Few Good Throwing Outfielders

THE Boston American outfield comes pretty near being the best throwing outfield in major league society. Each of the trio—Lewis, Speaker and Hooper—has a powerful arm and accuracy as well. Cree and Daniels of the New York Americans are strong throwers, but the latter's judgment isn't always above reproach, and judgment is very important. Cree has judgment with a good arm. In Devore and Murray McGraw has two excellent outfield throwers, while Snodgrass is fair. Murray is one of the hardest men in the game on whom to try to go from first to third on a right field hit.

There can't be too many Cobbs, Crawfords, Millens, Doughertys, Magees, Burches, Mitchells, Wilsons and others who might be mentioned among the expert throwers to suit patrons of the game. Throwing, whether by the infield, outfield or catcher is the most enjoyable part of fielding. It may not call for the same co-ordination of physical faculties as does handling ground balls, but is more eye filling, though less spectacular, than a difficult stop or catch. The difficult running catch is more spectacular than the difficult throw, but an easier feat. Wonderful catches are all right in their way and permit of more adjectives in their description than the wonderful throw, but for a real thrill, the sort that brings the spectator to his toes and evokes the most spontaneous and admiring applause, the long throw by the home outfielder that collars a runner at the plate, bears off the palm.

POINTERS FOR OUTFIELDERS.
"Throw the ball the instant it strikes your glove." is a good rule for the outfielder to follow. He who hesitates about returning the ball to the infield often lets runners take extra bases.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

CUT HIS THROAT

Man Brooded Over the Death of His Wife

Jeremiah Powers, while mentally deranged, cut his throat last night at the home of his brother, 2 1/2 miles of 24 Lakeview avenue. Mr. Powers was 46 years of age and until recently was employed in the Bigelow Carpet company, but over a month ago he lost his employment, and since that time he has been unable to secure work. This fact, and the further fact of the sorrowful demise of his wife, has made the man despondent.

Powers lived with his brother Nicholas since the death of his wife, and yesterday, while a trifle cast down over his inability to get work, seemed to be in good spirits and health. He ate supper with the family at 6 o'clock and went to his room on the second floor. A little after 7 o'clock he was found with life extinct in a pool of blood, pierced the heart with a razor. Officer John Sullivan was notified and Medical Examiner Meigs was called to view the body, which was later removed to the rooms of Undertaker McKenna. Powers left one daughter, in New York, besides his brother.

LARCENY CHARGED

The Case Was Heard in Police Court Today

Judge Hadley presided over the session of police court this morning, and found awaiting his attention several offenders charged with drunkenness, and assault. Perhaps the most important case was the complaint against Anna Kokolska, and Mary Smith, alias Mary Kozarska, charging them with the larceny of a promissory note and a mortgage deed to the value of $2500 from the person of John J. Gray, in the town of Billerica last Wednesday afternoon. There was also another complaint in connection with this same transaction charging John Connolly with receiving stolen property, that is the receiving of the note and deed in question. Both defendants pleaded not guilty. The government was represented by Attorney John W. McEvoy, and the defendants were represented by W. A. Hogan. The case was an extremely long drawn out affair, lasting the greater portion of the entire session. The facts in this case have previously appeared in these columns.

Nicholas Vlahos, charged with assault and battery upon Stathenia Scorerelles, was continued until Tuesday, the 26th day of September, because the complainant was unable to be present, being at the present time in the hospital in a very dangerous condition. The alleged assault took place September 16th, and the woman is still in a serious condition.

Thomas P. Murray has been before the court on several occasions for drunkenness, and this being his third time this year he was sentenced to six months in jail. He appealed but was advised to withdraw his appeal.

Peter F. Maynard was assessed $5, because this was the third time that he had appeared before the court charged with the offence of drunkenness.

Michael Brown, and Daniel G. Reagan were sent back to the state farm. Louis Charon will appear at the state prison where he will remain for the next ten days.

Peter Riley, third offence was sentenced to three months in jail.

Michael Cassidy was paroled from the jail yesterday by the local probation officer, and proceeded to get up, and this morning he found himself in the police court again charged with drunkenness. He pleaded guilty, and was represented by Lawyer Joseph E. Loughran, who related to the court that the defendant was the father of a large family, and upon Mr. Loughran's representations the court placed the defendant upon probation.

John Lauder, and Roderek Lauder were charged with assault and battery upon Peter Konowicki, both pleaded not guilty and were held in $200 for their appearance before the court next Thursday morning. There were three two dollar fines and four released by the probation officer.

Found Not Guilty

Judge Hadley found that there was no probable cause in the case of the government vs. Anna Kokolska and Mary Smith, charged with the larceny of a note, and mortgage to the value of $2500 from John J. Gray, and the defendants were discharged. John Connolly, charged with receiving stolen property in connection with the same transaction, was also ordered discharged as his honor could find no probable cause. Judge Hadley in rendering his decision said that the evidence showed that there was no felonious intent, and that whatever really happened it was due to the ignorance and a misunderstanding on the part of the defendants.

CATHERINE DALTON

A Bright Young Girl Passed Away

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dalton of 55 NeSmith street will learn with extreme sympathy of the death of their beloved daughter, Catherine Louise, aged 17 years and 9 months, which occurred at her parents' home last night at 8 o'clock, after a long illness, which she bore with Christian fortitude. Although she had been sick for nine months her death was entirely unexpected. Being of a lovable disposition, Catherine had endeavored herself to all with whom she came in contact. She was highly accomplished both as a musician and a student, and had her health remained perfect she would have graduated with the class of 1911, last June from the Notre Dame Academy. She received her early education at the immaculate Conception parochial school and being an apt scholar her progress was rapid. Upon graduating from her parish school she entered the Academy of the Sisters of Notre Dame in Adams street and distinguished herself in all branches of its curriculum. For several years she had been associated with the orchestra of the academy as 'cellist soloist.'

She is survived by her father, Edward, the well known conductor of the Boston & Maine railroad, and her mother, Catherine, also one sister, Mary, and three brothers, John J., the well known tenor soloist, Frank and William, employees of the Boston & Maine railroad, and an aunt, Miss Margaret McDonough. It is the wish of the family that friends will please omit flowers. Funeral notice later.

ANNUAL REUNION

Of 26th Regiment Held Here Today

Most of the remaining members of the old 26th Massachusetts regiment gathered at Highland hall in Bangori street this forenoon for another reunion and to observe the 50th anniversary of the Civil war. The members began to arrive about 10 o'clock and while most of them used the electric cars, there were a few who came in automobiles. Quite a number of women, wives of veterans, attended the reunion and they all enjoyed the banquet served in the hall.

The business meeting in the forenoon was presided over by Walter Fulton of Co. H, Manchester, N. H. The local committee in charge of arrange-

PRACTICAL HOME HELPS

Invaluable Breakfast
To a cup of good beef, lamb, veal or chicken broth, add a tablespoonful of Curry's pure malt-whisky. Serve very hot with a teaspoonful or two of whipped cream on top, if desired. A few saltines may be served with this. This makes a very invigorating drink, as well as being of great benefit and nourishing to the patient. It is wonderfully refreshing to the healthy.

TRUSTEES' SALE OF REAL ESTATE AT PUBLIC AUCTION

Wednesday, Sept. 20, 1911, at 3 P. M.

One 2-tenement house, Nos. 88 and 90 Perry street. Two one-family houses, Nos. 94 and 102 Perry street and nine lots of land adjoining, all situated on Perry street and two lots of land on Concord street.

To settle the estate of the late E. A. Smith, I shall sell at public auction to the person who will bid the highest, the following described real estate: Lot No. 1 consists of a 2-1-2 story, 2-tenement slate roof house and 3000 square feet of land with a frontage of 50 feet on Perry street. There are two tenements, 4 rooms downstairs and 4 rooms and two attic rooms upstairs. Each has city water, gas, separate toilet, separate front and back entrances and rents for $17 per month. Has concrete walks and the buildings are in good condition. All you need would be a little paint.

Lots Nos. 2 and 3 consist of two one-family houses, being Nos. 94 and 102 Perry street. Each house is 2-1-2 stories; slated roofs, of 8 rooms each and two attics, and about 3000 feet of land, with a frontage of 50 feet, very conveniently arranged, has city water, gas, good sewerage, has concrete walks and rents for $13 per month each. The present tenants have been in the tenement nine years and want to stay.

Lots 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, are lots adjoining Lot No. 3 on Perry street and contain from 3000 to 3400 square feet each, having a 50 foot frontage. Lots Nos. 13 and 14 are situated on Concord street and contain 2400 square feet 40x60 and 4950 square feet, 55x50. This property is situated within 10 minutes walk of the centre of the city, close to many workshops and mills so that it ought to appeal to any person who wants a home that is all built, or a piece of land that you could build on to suit your own taste. Don't fail to attend this sale as you may lose your opportunity.

Terms of sale: $200 in cash must be paid as a deposit to the auctioneer on each of the lots, Nos. 1, 2 and 3 as soon as they are struck off; $50 in cash on each of the lots of land.

Per order H. P. BEALS, and D. H. DEWAR, Trustees.
